The only evidence that the State had against these defendants was an alleged confession which it was shown was obtained through force and physical torture. When these defendants were arrested and denied the crime, the sheriff hanged one of the defendants by a rope to a tree and then when he was released just before strangulation, he was tied to the tree and severely beaten. When he refused to "confess," he was permitted to return home, but was later seized, whipped severely until he agreed to "confess." This confession was used at the trial and was the only evidence against the defendants. At the time of the trial Ellington stated he was tortured and produced evidence, showing the marks of the rope around his neck which were still visible at the time of the trial. The sheriff admitted the whipping of Ellington and very boldly stated he "did not think he had whipped him too much for a Negro and not as much as I would have done if it were left to me." Other witnesses admitted that they had beaten the defendant into submission but the Supreme Court of Mississippi affirmed the judgment of death.

Mr. Chief Justice Hughes, however, for the United States Supreme Court had the following to say in reversing the Supreme Court of Mississippi: "The rack and torture chamber may not be substituted for the witness stand. It would be difficult to conceive of methods more revolting to the sense of justice than those taken to procure the confessions of these petitioners, and the use of the confessions thus obtained as a basis for a conviction and sentence was a clear denial of due process.

"The duty of maintaining the constitutional rights of a person on trial for his life rises above mere rules of procedure and whenever the court is clearly satisfied that such violations exist, it will refuse to sanction such and will apply the corrective."

In Hale v. Kentucky, 303 U. S. 613 (1938), the Supreme Court in a per curiam decision sustained the right of a Negro on trial for his life in Kentucky to have members of his own race called for service on the jury selected to try him for a criminal offense. In this case the defendant proved that the jury commissioners had demonstrated a long continued, unvarying and wholesale exclusion of Negroes from jury service in that county on account of their race and color and for no other reason. He was convicted of murder and sentenced to die. The Supreme Court of Kentucky affirmed the appeal, but the United States Supreme Court reversed the decision which reestablished the priciple that a systematic and arbitrary exclusion of Negroes from jury service, solely on account of their race and color, constituted a denial of the equal protection of the laws guaranteed by the fourteenth amendment.

The Equal Right to Education in State-Supported University

Perhaps one of the most important and far-reaching cases in the history of the fight of the Negro for a full citizenship status that has ever been carried to the Supreme Court, is the famous case in the State of Missouri. In the Matter of Missouri, ex rel. Gaines v Canada et al. (Lloyd Gaines v. University of Missouri), 305 U. S. 337. Lloyd Gaines was a young Negro with excellent qualifications who attempted to enter the University of Missouri Law School, but was refused solely because of his race or color. Asserting that this refusal was a denial by the State of Missouri of the equal protection of the laws in violation of the fourteenth amendment, he brought an action of mandamus to compel the university to admit him. He was urged by the University of Missouri officials to accept a scholarship that the State was willing to offer to send him outside of the State of Missouri for study. This he refused to do. Then the university defended on the ground that the local Negro univerity (Lincoln University) offered a law course which was then in preparation and would be ready in the very near future. The lower court as well as the Supreme Court of Missouri dismissed the petition for mandamus. The Supreme Court, however, in a decision by Mr. Chief Justice Hughes, from which there were two dissenting opinions, reversed the Supreme Court of Missouri and held the action of the University of Missouri to be a denial of due process. The dissenting justices were Mr. Justices McReynolds and Butler. The majority opinion of Chief Justice Hughes stressed the following points:

"The basic consideration is not as to what sort of opportunities other States provide, or whether they are as good as the State of Missouri, but as to what opportunities Missouri itself furnishes to white students and denies to Negroes solely upon the ground of color. The admissibility of laws separating the races and the enjoyment of privileges afforded by the State rests wholly upon the equality of the privileges which the laws give to the separated groups within the State. The question here is not of a duty of a State to supply legal training or the equality of training which it does supply, but of its duty when it does supply such training to furnish it to the resident of the State upon the basis of an equality of right. By the operation of the laws of Missouri, a privilege has been created for white law students which is denied to Negroes by reason of their race alone. The white resident is afforded legal education within the State. The Negro resident, having the same qualification, is refused this and must go outside of the State to obtain it. That is the denial of the equality of legal right to the enjoyment of the privilege which the State has set up and the provision for the payment of tuition fees in another State does not remove the discrimination.

"Here, petitioner's right is a personal one. It was as an individual that he was entitled to the equal protection of the laws, and the State was bound to furnish him within its borders facilities for legal education substantially equal to those which the State there afforded for persons of the white race, whether or not other Negroes sought the same opportunities."

This was one of the most brilliant, courageous, and forceful statements supporting the fundamental purpose of the 14th Amendment that has ever been declared by our Supreme Court.

Opening of Courtroom Doors

Following this case the complexion of the Supreme Court radically changed. It was shortly after this case, through the death and resignation of several of these Justices of the Supreme Court that the hand of the present Chief Executive was strongly felt in placing new, younger, and liberal minds on the bench of our highest tribunal. With the elevation of Mr. Chief Justice Stone and the appointment by President Roosevelt of Justices (1) Reed, (2) Black, (3) Frankfurter, (4) Murphy, (5) Douglass, and (7) Rutledge, with the sole remaining conservative being Mr. Justice Roberts from Pennsylvania, there is at present a group of Justices to whom the Negroes of America can look for the most sympathetic, broad, and liberal construction of not only the amendments to the Constitution for whose benefifit they were passed, but to favorable construction of the remaining civil rights statutes and all cases affecting the political, civil, social, and economic rights that the Negro and all minorities may from time to time present to the court for interpretation. The fears of the Negroes as to how Mr. Justice Black would decide cases involving their fundamental rights were dispelled upon his finding the now famous opinion in the case of Chambers v. Florida, 309, U. S. 227 (1940). In this case four Negroes were charged with murder and their cases were appealed five time to the Supreme Court of Florida. After the fifth appeal, the case was carried to the United States Supreme Court. Mr. Justice Black, in behalf of the United States Supreme Court, reversed the conviction of these men on the ground that the confessions used to convict them were extorted by force and violence. In his opinion, Mr. Justice Black stated, ". . . Today, as in ages past, we are not without tragic proof that the exalted power of some government to punish manufactured crime dictatorially is the handmaid of tyranny. Under our constitutional system courts stand against any winds that blow as havens of refuge for those who might otherwise suffer because they are helpless, weak, outnumbered, or because they are nonconforming victims of prejudice and public excitement. Due process of law . . . commands that no such practice as that disclosed by this record shall send any accused to his death. No higher duty, no more solemn responsibility rests upon this court, than that of translating into living law and maintaining this Constitutional shield deliberately planned and inscribed for the benefit of every human being subject to our Constitution, of what ever race, creed, or pursuasion."

Several cases involving the civil rights of Negroes were decided within a year or two after the elevation of the above-mentioned justices to the Supreme Court bench, and all were decided favorably to the cause of the litigants. These cases were Canty v. Alabama, 309 U. S. 629 (1940), in which the Supreme Court reversed a decision of the lower court of Alabama and its Supreme Court, ordering a new trial for the defendant charged with murder, thus avoiding a death sentence of the State of Alabama because of irregularities in the trial of the lower court.

White v. Texas, 309 U. S. 631 (1940). The Supreme Court granted a Writ of Certiorari and reversed on authority of previous cases the conviction and sentence to death from the State of Texas.

Restricted Covenants Resulting in Residential Segregations

Earlier we have seen that the Supreme Court has outlawed residential discrimination by city ordinances (Buchanan v. Warley, 245 U. S. 60 (1917)).

In the case of Lee v. Hansberry, 61 S. Ct. 521, 70 L. ed. 969 (1940), the respondent, Hansberry, a Negro, bought some land in Chicago's so-called restricted area. This property was covered by a restriction against use by colored persons by a covenant or contract signed by a large majority of the adjoining property owners. The Illinois Supreme Court ruled the covenant to be valid and that the Negro purchaser could not occupy the land in question. The Federal Supreme Court reversed the Illinois Court and held that the Negro purchasers were not bound by this agreement to which they had not been a party and to hold them so bound was a denial of due process.

(It should be stated here, however, that the flat issue of the validity of such contracts or restrictive covenants was not altogether before the court and therefore not squarely and satisfactorily settled.)

Railroad Discriminations

Congressman Mitchell v. Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Ry., U. S. 61, S. Ct. 873, 85 L. ed. 811 (1941). It will be recalled that former Chief Justice Hughes, then an Associate Justice, in the case of McCabe v. Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe R. R., 235 U. S. 151, in 1941, said in supporting the separate coach law of a State, that whenever the case came before this Court of an exclusion of the Negro from service on sleeping cars, parlor cars or dining cars, even where the demand for such service was too small to make profitable equal facilities, the court would grant relief.

Congressman Arthur Mitchell, Negro Democratic Representative from Illinois, gave the Supreme Court the opportunity to fulfill that statement of Mr. Justice Hughes, made in 1914. And the Supreme Court did not fail to adhere to its promise, and on the basis of the facts shown, that the Negro Congressman was denied Pullman accommodations on a trip from Chicago to Hot Springs, Ark., after the train entered Arkansas, was made to leave the Pullman and go into a second-class Jim Crow coach provided for colored passengers only. Mr. Chief Justice Hughes said for the court: "This was manifestly a discrimination against him in the course of his interstate journey, and admittedly that discrimination was based solely upon the fact that he was a Negro. The question whether this was a discrimination forbidden by the Interstate Commerce Act is not a question of Segregation but Equality of treatment. The denial to appellant of equality of accommodations because of his race would be an invasion of a fundamental right which is guaranteed against State actions by the fourteenth amendment."

In Ward v. Texas, 316 U. S. 547 (1942), Mr. Justice

Byrnes, since retired from the bench, set aside a conviction of the lower court of Texas on the ground that the confession admitted in evidence allegedly signed by the accused was the result of force and violence.

Jury Exclusion

In Hill v. Texas, 316 U. S. 400 (1942), Mr. Chief Justice Stone reaffirmed the principle that "equal protection of laws is more than an abstract right." It is a command which the State must respect for benefits of which every person may demand. Not the least merit of our constitutional system is that it safeguards and extends to all—the least deserving as well as the most virtuous." This was a case involving the systematic exclusion of Negroes from the jury panel in the county where this case was tried.

In the United States v. Adams, Bordenave and Mitchell, 319 U. S. 312 (1943), Mr. Justice Black on a question raised by the three defendants who were members of the armed forces of the country, sentenced to death under an alleged crime on a civilian woman within the camp confines of Camp Claiborne, La., reversed the conviction of these men on the ground that Federal courts of the State of Louisiana had no jurisdiction, and released these three defendants from the custody of the civilian authorities to the Army for further proceedings as the case warranted.

The last decision of the Supreme Court affecting the Negros' civil rights was decided on April 3, 1944, and this is the now famous case known as the Texas Primary Case, Smith v. Allwright et al.

Eight of the nine Justices of the Supreme Court decided in favor of the voter, Dr. Loney E. Smith, the single dissent being by Mr. Justice Roberts, who wrote the opinion of the Supreme Court in the Grovey v. Townsend case just referred to, allowing such denial of right to vote. This case began in Houston, Tex., in 1941, and was an action for damages for the refusal to permit qualified Negro voters to vote in the Democratic primary election in Texas. The case was based upon a violation of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments and the Federal Civil Rights Statutes. As was expected, the lower Texas court ruled against Dr. Smith. The United States Circuit Court of Appeals sustained the lower court, but the Supreme Court of the United States overruled its former decision by expressly stating so, and for all times declared the case of Grovey v. Townsend, which sustained the State of Texas in its attempt to outlaw Negro voters, to be void. Mr. Justice Reed stated, "the United States is a constitutional democracy. Its organic law grants to all citizens a right to participate in the choice of election officers without restrictions by any State because of race. This grant to the people of the opportunity for choice is not to be nullified by a State through casting its electoral process in a form which permits a private organization to practice racial discrimination in the election. Constitutional rights would be of little value if they could be thus indirectly denied."

Civil Rights Prosecution

A new section of the Department of Justice known as the Civil Rights Section has given light to the remaining Civil Rights Statute, and has actively engaged in the enforcing of the conspiracy section in these various codes, particularly all cases involving the interference of the right to vote and Anti-Peonage Laws.

In the United States v. Classic, 313 U. S. 299, and United States v. Saylor, decided May 22, 1924, and Taylor v. Georgia, 313 U. S. 25, and Pollock v. Williams, decided April 10, 1944, are all cases in which the Civil Rights Unit in the criminal division of the Department of Justice actively prosecuted, as a result of which our Supreme Court decided that Labor Contract Statutes of Georgia and Florida, which lean toward peonage conditions and involuntary servitude, were declared unconstitutional. These cases placed the right to freedom from involuntary servitude on such a broad base that the way had been opened to an attack on the "enticing labor" and "emigrant agents" statutes and some of the vagrancy statutes and "work or fight" orders, which experience has proved to be in reality indirect means of enforcing involuntary servitude, especially against Negro farm hands and laborers.

Economic Action at Law

I have deliberately removed from the chronological order involving the Negro a very interesting and far-reaching case that represented the first case involving the attempt by Negroes to force businesses that have many customers among Negroes to employ Negroes among their personnel. This was the case of New Negro Alliance v. Sanitary Grocery Co., 303 U. S. 552; S. Ct. 703, decided in 1938. Here, an association of individuals, organizing themselves together as a group interested in seeking to uplift themselves economically and provide jobs at the time of widespread unemployment for their members and the Negro people generally, tried to bargain with the owners of the defendant company, unsuccessfully, by peaceful conferences. In order to implement their demands that this company, operating stores all over the District of Columbia, should employ Negro salesgirls and clerks at its store in the thickly populated Negro district, some of the members, by peaceful and quiet means, picketed the particular store with signs:

"Buy where you can work."

"This store refuses to hire colored clerks and salespeople."

It worked! Not a colored purchaser entered its store, and as a consequence the owners brought suit in the courts of the District of Columbia to enjoin these picketers from parading their complaint in front of their stores to the damage of their business. It would seem that the old adage "That you may hire whom you please to work" would carry the case over. The lower court and the District of Columbia Court of Appeals so held; but the Supreme Court, in a 7-2 opinion (Justice Butler and McReynolds dissenting), thought differently and upheld the right of picketing in a brilliant opinion by Mr. Justice Roberts. The whole case turned on the interpretation of the Norris-LaGuardia statute governing labor disputes and the restraint placed upon the courts of the country by that act to issue injunctions against labor in its rights to strike, and to force employers, by peaceful means, such as picketing, to bargain with them.

The majority of the court said that an association of individuals of a particular race, in seeking to uplift itself, may properly organize and seek out a particular business, firm or company with which this group of people does business, to, in turn, do business with them, by hiring or employing members of that particular race of people, and such falls within the definitions of labor disputes as contemplated by the act. The dissenting Justices, Butler and McReynolds, were bitter and denunciatory of the majority opinions.

Equalization of Teachers' Salaries

This most important class of cases which has meant so much to the colored teachers throughout the South was brought on the first instance in the Federal Courts of the District of Maryland. The original case was Walter Mills v. Board of Education of Anne Arundel County Maryland. 30 F. Supp. 245 (D. Md., 1939). (See also Mills v. Loundes, 26 F. Supp. 792, 801 (1940); 53 Harv. Law Rev. 669). In this case evidence disclosed a systematic practice engaged in for years by the State of Maryland and all the Southern States, allowing one set of salaries for white teachers teaching the same class of students as colored and another set of salaries for colored teachers, the latter performing the same kind of services, fulfilling the same standards and requirements for employment, receiving from 25 to 40 percent less salaries than their white fellow workers. The lower court found race discrimination to be a fact, and that the only reason for the difference in pay was based on discrimination on account of color alone, and held that the colored teacher was unconstitutionally discriminated against in the practice of his profession by the County of Arundel, Md., the defendant, and issued the injunctions sought by the school teachers. Judge W. Calvin Chestnut, or the United States District Court of Maryland, wrote the opinion of the lower court in such a sweeping and able manner that the defendant School Board took no appeal therefrom.

See: Alston v. School Board of the City of Norfolk, Va., C. C. A., 4th Cir. (1940); 112 F. 2nd) 992.

Civil Rights

In recent years there has been a marked change, both in the attitude of Congress and the courts, towards the strengthening and the protection of civil rights. How much may be achieved in any litigation attempting to force employment relations and to ungrade the Negro worker from unskilled to skilled positions in industry, or to force his employment in a particular industry which had heretofore failed to employ him and discriminated against him in all phases of employment, is open to great question. Undoubtedly, remedial legislation from Congress would be necessary to guarantee the right of employment in industry in peacetime. Some steps have been taken, and much progress has been made in this field by the passage of such legislation as the National Labor Relations Act and the Fair Labor Standards Act. However, these acts go but little distance in the ultimate aim of travel of the Negro worker, and this means more than six millions of peacetime employables among the Negroes of America. Whether the Negro must await the results of his present efforts to have the Congress pass a permanent Fair Employment Practice Bill to supplement the war measure, a purely temporary and, as yet, unenforcible one (Executive Orders Nos. 8802 and 9346), or continue to resort to the tremendously slow and unsatisfactory "judicial fiat" method explored in this article depends on America's answer to the challege of its vaunted ideals of democracy, everywhere so proudly expressed, but nowhere so proudly practiced. It depends on the answer to the question, "Does America in fact and in truth acknowledge the democratic belief in the dignity and rights of all men, regardless of Race or Color?"

The Fight Against Discrimination by Labor Unions

Since the original article was written, the Supreme Court, in a far-reaching decision by a unanimous court, on December 19, 1944, declared that the Railway Labor Act (48 Stat. 1185), 45 U. S. C., sec. 151 et seq., imposes on a labor union which assumes to act as the exclusive bargaining agent of a class of railway employes the duty to represent all the employes of the craft, and this agent, in its bargaining with the employer cannot make contracts which result in discrimination against certain members of that craft because of their race or color, and when such violations of duty on the part of such bargaining agent appears the courts will step in and enjoin such violations of duty which the statute above referred to clearly imposes on such union representative.

The facts and history of this case (Bster W. Steele v. Louisville & Nashville R. R. Co.), Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen et al. (no. 45, October term, 1944), are important for a clear understanding of the importance of the issues involved.

For a quarter of a century prior to 1930 almost all the trains in the South, both passenger and freight, were "fired" by Negro locomotive firemen. With the improvement in design of locomotives and their use of automatic stokers and ash removers, and particularly with the introduction of Diesel and oil-burning locomotives, there was an increasing demand for the jobs as firemen by white railway workers. Gradually, Negro workers were eased out of the better runs and placed on long-hour night and holiday freight runs and shifting engine jobs about the yards, the most unsatisfactory and least-paying jobs. The brotherhood had worked out plans that would ultimately force out of the employ of the Southern railroads all their Negro employes in this craft (locomotive firemen). The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen could not be appealed to by the Negro workers, who were in fact a large minority of this class of workers, because the union expressly by their ritual, refused membership to Negro workers. Therefore, Steele, petitioner in the case, took his case to the court and asked for relief under the theory that the respondent brotherhood, as a labor organization, was, under section 2 of the act (supra) the exclusive bargaining agent of the craft of firemen, was so recognized by it and as such the order of the brotherhood (respondent) of March 28, 1940, notifying some 21 railroads that the proposed new collective bargaining agreement designed to exclude ultimately all Negro firemen from the 21 Southern railroads service was illegal and no effect. No notice was served on the Negro firemen, nor was any opportunity given them to be heard on the agreement submitted to the respondent railroads, and in fact the orders were put into effect before their existence were disclosed to the Negro firemen. The petitioner showed that he and his fellow workers, for whom he asked leave to sue, were performing their service satisfactorily.

The Supreme Court of Alabama took jurisdiction of the case, but held that no cause of action was shown. The Supreme Court of the United States, in an opinion written by Mr. Chief Justice Stone, held that "Congress, in enacting the Railway Labor Act and authorizing a labor union chosen—to represent the craft, did not intend (it)—to sacrifice the rights of the minority of the craft without imposing on it any duty to protect the minority."

The court held that since the Negro workers were barred from membership in the union, the act requires, in fact, commands, the bargaining agent to act for them, and, citing the order of the National Mediation Board in the case of Employes of St. Paul Union Depot (No. R.-635), once a craft or class has designated its representative, such representative is responsible under the law to act for all employes—members as well as those who are not members. The court therefore enjoined the brotherhood from enforcing such a flagrant and violently discriminating order.

Mr. Justice Murphy, in a concurring opinion, felt compelled to say the following regarding the underlying issue of race prejudice which was so pregnant throughout this case:

"The economic discrimination against Negroes practiced by the brotherhood and the railroad under cover of Congressional authority raised a grave constitutional issue that should be squarely faced.

"The utter disregard for the dignity and the well-being of colored citizens shown by this record is so pronounced as to demand the invocation of constitutional condemnation. To decide the case and analyze the statute solely upon the basis of legal niceties, while remaining mute and placid as to the obvious and oppressive deprivation of constitutional guarantees, is to make the judicial function something less than it should be.

"The constitutional problem inherent in this instance is clear. Congress, through the Railway Labor Act, has conferred upon the union selected by a majority of a craft or class of railway workers the power to represent the entire craft or class in all collective bargaining matters. While such a union is essentially a private organization, its power to represent and bind all members of a class or craft is derived solely from Congress. The act contains no language which directs the manner in which the bargaining representative shall perform its duties. But it cannot be assumed that Congress meant to authorize the representative to act so as to ignore rights guaranteed by the Constitution. Otherwise, the act would bear the stigma of unconstitutionality under the fifth amendment in this respect. For that reason I am willing to read the statute as not permitting or allowing any action by the bargaining representative in the exercise of its delegated powers which would in effect violate the constitutional rights of individuals.

"If the courts' construction of the statute rests upon this basis, I agree. But I am not sure that such is the basis. Suffice it to say, however, that this constitutional issue cannot be lightly dismissed. The cloak of racism surrounding the actions of the brotherhood in refusing membership to Negroes and in entering into and enforcing agreements discriminating against them, all under the guise of Congressional authority, still remains. No statutory interpretation can erase this ugly example of economic cruelty against colored citizens of the United States. Nothing can destroy the fact that the accident of birth has been used as the basis to abuse individual rights by an organization purporting to act in conformity with its Congressional mandate. Any attempt to interpret the act must take that fact into account and must realize that the constitutionality of the statute in this respect depends upon the answer given.

"The Constitution voices its disapproval whenever economic discrimination is applied under authority of law against any race, creed or color. A sound democracy cannot allow such discrimination to go unchallenged. Racism is far too virulent today to permit the slightest refusal, in the light of a Constitution that abhors it, to expose and condemn it wherever it appears in the course of a statutory interpretation."

(See the remarks of the same Justice in his dissenting opinion in the case of the removal of the Japanese citizens from their Pacific coast homes under the war evacuation program. (In re Toyosabura Korematsu, decided Dec. 18, 1944.) The court held in a majority opinion written by Mr. Justice Hugo L. Black, to which there were three dissents, that the constitutional rights of the Japanese-American citizens were not violated. Mr. Justice Murphy again expressed grave fear over the rise of racism, saying that "Such exclusion goes over the very brink of constitutional power and falls into the ugly abyss of racism.")

This case closes for the present (Jan. 3, 1945) the struggle of the Negro for economic, civic and political freedom and his effort, so bravely and courageously fought over a half century for full citizenship in the frame-work of American Democracy, through the most difficult of all methods, that of "Citizenship through Judicial fiat."

It is important to note, and emphasis should be placed on the fact that in almost every leading case related in this article the cases were initiated, appealed and argued exclusively by Negro attorneys. An enormous amount of credit should be given to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and their staff of attorneys throughout the country, and particularly their former chief counsel, Charles H. Houston, Judge William H. Hastie and their pre-chief counsel, Thurgood Marshall, and their various associate counsel for their monumental work and unusual success in their frequent appearances in our Federal Supreme Court.

Section 21 This act shal become effective immediately upon its final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President and members of the Senate, the bill before us has been heralded as part of the stream clearance program. Apparently the newspapers have been misinformed. The purposes and powers of the authorities as outlined in section 4 of the bill, calls for, among other things, the acquiring, holding, constructing, and so forth, of sewers, sewer systems or parts thereof and sewage treatment works . . . With respect to this particular provision there is no change; it is identical in wording and meaning with the present municipal authorities act of 1935, and its amendments and supplements. Frankly, I do not think any change was intended by the authors of the present bill, with respect to the construction of sewers, sewer plants and sewage treatment plants. This particular bill was never intended, to my mind, as part of the stream clearance program.

I personally, as I have stated before, am definitely in favor of a stream clearance program. However, I do not intend to be stampeded, by people who do not know anything about it, into voting for something that was never intended. I am opposed to this bill because I feel it curbs the desires of the authorities and renders it more difficult for authorities to come into being.

I voted against proposed changes in the municipal authorities act in 1935, in 1941, and again in 1943, and I intend to vote "no" again tonight, the principal reason being section 9, sub-section "b", as outlined on page 24 of the present bill, wherein it states that "no authority shall acquire by any device or means whatsoever, including a consolidation, merger, purchase or lease, or through the purchase of stock bonds or other securities, the title to or the possession or use of all or any substantial portions of any project as defined in this act, which said project is subject to the jurisdiction of the Pennsylvania Utility Commission, without the approval of the Commission evidenced by its certificate of public convenience first had and obtained in accordance with the procedure and investigations as to value as outlined in section 203 of the act approved the 28th day of May, 1937, P. L. 1053, known as the Public Utility Law. The word "acquire" as used in this paragraph shall include only the acquisition of existing facilities."

This particular section, without any further ado, gives to the Public Utility Commission authority over property or existing facilities to be acquired by the authorities.

Mr. President and members of the Senate, may I go back to 1935? Mr. Heyburn, you command respect and I will ask the same thing for this side. I heard you and please cut it out, once and for all; if you want rough treatment you will get it. I think I have said enough. It is high time you respected the men on this side, and when you were on this side you got respect, and I am going to demand it; Mr. Heyburn, you should set an example as the leader of the group on that side. I am not going to say any more about it.

Municipal authority legislation was the natural outgrowth of the era of reckless municipal spending that led to makeshift economies and broken down municipal government. When the government started handing out largesses in ample abundance, the stricture on municipal borrowing capacity prevented many municipalities of the Commonwealth from enjoying this munificence and the legislature was forced to come to their rescue with passage of the Municipal Authorities Act in 1935. This piece of legislation, as passed in 1935, enabled cities and boroughs to undertake the acquisition and operation of projects, some self-supporting, to issue additional financing, and to generally carry on municipal activities and improvements that would have been otherwise impossible because their borrowing capacities had been exhausted. The act as originally conceived in 1935 set up a self-supporting institution entirely complete in all its details, and no need for interference by any other state group. In 1937 and 1939 the Municipal Authorities Act was amended to broaden its purposes, incinerator plants, waterworks, water supply works, water distribution and hospital motorbuses being included. In 1937 the municipal authorities act was amended authorizing municipalities to join each other in creating authorities. These amendments in the main strengthened the situation, and helped the authorities considerably, notwithstanding the fact that with respect to utility service that was given beyond the corporate limits the Public Utility Commission had jurisdiction, and still has as of this day.

Abuses have crept into the system, I admit, but you certainly can not burn the house down because there are a few rats in it. If the management of any particular authority is bad, I say get rid of the management, but do not burn down the house—the municipal authority.

Please note that municipal authorities have, by this bill and the amendment of 1943 been stripped of their power in a large measure. Mind you, up to 1941 the municipal authorities act remained the same as it was, strengthened by amendments introduced in 1937 and 1939. In 1941 an attempt was made to emasculate the bill by amendments but fortunately those amendments were defeated in the House. However, in 1943 the very same amendments, or amendments bordering on the same line, were introduced and passed and became law.

First, Mr. President, as you know, under this particular provision on page 24, section 9, sub-section (b), it is necessary that municipal authorities apply for a certificate of public convenience, putting them in the same category as any other corporation or individual. Notwithstanding the fact that they are municipal corporations, as defined under the public utility laws of 1937, the authority is a municipal corporation. I repeat, municipal corporations, and as I said, authorities, come under this head and are exempt from operation of the public utility law. That is why the body here in 1939 passed an amendment—I have forgotten offhand the number of the act; however, in 1939 this body, and the House as well, and it was signed by Governor James, exempted municipalities from the operations of the public utility law.

Why need the municipal authorities now apply for certificates of public convenience, notwithstanding the fact that we exempt them from the operation of the law. The need for it has already been established by the existing utility that is ready to sell its facilities, otherwise it could never have operated. I think I have made myself clear on that point.

Why investigations as to the value of property offered for sale to the authority? The ordinary valuation proceedings with respect to the forming of a rate base, so that a rate can be established, takes years, and we have learned that through bitter experience.

Mr. President, it is one thing to determine value for rate-making purposes, but it is still another thing to determine fair value for the purpose of sale by a private utility to a municipal authority. The present earnings of the company—the private utility—are an important factor in determining the fair value for the purposes of sale, but the element is of no consequence in determining the fair value for rate-making purposes. Negotiation between prospective buyer and seller is the only method that can possibly be used to effect a sale. The Commission can reject a sale but can not compel it, if the parties do not get together. If buyer and seller agree, the Commission will only serve as a redundant factor. The Commission has no power to enforce its own determination of a fair selling price if the buyer and the seller do not agree.

However, with respect to establishing a rate base it is an entirely different story. They have the right—and we gave it to them—to fix rates. Common stockholders alone have this power, and if their interests are being prejudiced they have their remedy in court, that is, with respect to the sale of a private utility to a municipal authority or anybody else.

Mr. President, can you appreciate the significance of these provisions Endless delay, confusion, and with a discredited Commission now in office, what can you expect—little or no aid by the Commission for the authorities, but plenty for private utilities. Why the need now for a new authorities act, thereby repealing all preceding acts and amendments? I see no sense or point to it. I do not question the authors of the bill; I think they are honest and mean well—when it was introduced and I mean that today, and I mean what I say, but as I said before, false rumors have been circulated concerning it to enforce passage by the newspapers, by the radio, the propaganda being used to club us into passing a bill, maintaining that it was a part of the stream clearance program, when in fact it is not. There is not one provision in it that enlarges on the purposes of the original authorities act, particularly with respect to sewage disposal plants.

However, I will not succumb to the entreaties made by newspapers. based on false logic and propaganda. By and large municipal authorities have done, and today are doing, a good job. Let us not hamper them.

The bill before us is rather lengthy and contains provisions that may spell the death sentence for some authorities. I do not mind safeguards, but I certainly do object to obstacles, and I say to you, Mr. President and members of the Senate, that section 9, sub-section (b) is an obstacle. Protection, in my mind, Mr. President, should be had for all. This bill, as well as the bill that was enacted, or the amendment to the original authorities act as enacted in 1943, did a lot for the investor but very little for the consumer, that is true. A Senate committee met and determined and learned of some abuses that had crept into the system. I agree with them that safeguards should be put into the bill, and some have.

However, some obstacles have been put into the bill as well, and I refer to this section again, section 9, subsection (b), page 24 of the bill. Why not do something for the consumer? He is the one who ultimately will benefit, particularly as to rates and service. He has to foot the bill in the final analysis.

I say to you, Mr. President, strike out this particular provision—and I hope the author of the bill is within hearing distance—I do not know—oh, there he is—and I shall be only too glad to vote for this particular bill here.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I had not expected to speak on this bill today. I thought this issue raised by the Senator from Philadelphia was settled in 1943 when we amended the municipal authorities bill. The Senate members will recall our reason for amending the bill at that time.

A situation surrounding acquisition of utilities by municipal authorities had arisen in both Delaware and Westmoreland counties. The Senator from Westmoreland, Senator Dent, in a speech on the floor of this Senate acquainted the Senate with certain facts. The Senate thought that it was imperative that there be an investigation of acquisition by municipal authorities and because of that attitude a Senate committee was appointed to make an investigation. The gentleman from Lebanon, Senator Becker, was Chairman of that Committee and the gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Dent, was a member. I was a member. We held several public hearings, and as a result of our experience we found that the boondoggling days of the eighteen hundreds had been transcended in Pennsylvania as a result of acquisition of many municipal authorities. We found that practically all the utilities of one nature, through the years, had been acquired by one group of financiers, and they had devised a very lucrative system by which they were able to peddle their water companies and other utilities to municipal authorities.

We found that one of the difficulties was that when a community organized an authority, the authority had not any money to spend, and if an authority, to use an example, was formed for the purpose of acquiring a water company, it had not any money with which to employ an engineer to investigate the facilities of that company, to determine what the proper purchase price was. We found all kinds of chicanery surrounding the acquisition of these utilities.

During the time of our investigation a situation came up in Allegheny county, in which the borough of Wilkinsburg was attempting to acquire the Pennsylvania Water Company, which serviced eighteen separate municipalities. The borough council of Wilkinsburg met in star session—I can not allege fraud because I know of no fraud—but certainly the circumstances surrounding the meetings held by that body, which were certainly illegal because they were not public, were such as to indicate there was something rotten in Denmark or the attempt would not have been made at that time in the manner in which it was, to acquire the Pennsylvania Water Company.

As a result of the power of this committee we had a hearing in Harrisburg at which we were able to have present all the parties involved and get a complete disclosure, and that was the end of the Wilkinsburg attempt to acquire the Pennsylvania Water Company.

The section with which the Senator from Philadelphia finds the most fault is this section which gave authority to the Public Utility Commission to investigate the terms of a purchase. That power was placed in the Public Utility Commission because we could not devise any other governmental body that could investigate the cost. If that had not been inserted I personally would have been against continuance of municipal authorities. I am a great believer in public ownership of utilities, whether it be by direct acquisition of the municipality, or whether it be in the form of a municipal authority.

The things that I know have happened, because of having served on this committee, indicated to me the situation had to be rectified and this section of the law rectified it.

After this particular amendment passed, the committee continued its work and there was pointed out to the committee many other things relative to the law, which were minor in nature and procedural in form, amendments which should be made, those amendments were collected, and at this session of the Legislature the committee agreed that the amendments would be proposed. Then it was found it would make such a patch-work quilt of the bill that it was thought advisable to repeal the old act and include the amendments in a new bill, and that is what has happened here.

There is one thing I would like to add, Mr. President, and that is this question of rate-making. When it comes to utilities owned by municipalities, I personally was absolutely opposed to the Public Utility Commission having any right to fix rates. There is quite a difference between a utility which is a corporation and run for the profit of stockholders and bondholders, and a utility which is owned by the people who consume the product of the utility. At one time I was solicitor of a little borough which had a light plant; the income from that light plant ran that borough. We had very little taxable property. The assessed value of our taxable property was so small that the tax rate would have been tremendous without that light plant, and it has certainly worked to the advantage of everyone in that community, and so I can not see eye to eye with the Senator from Philadelphia. I know the sincerity of his stand here today; he has demonstrated on the floor of this Senate many times his interest in the question of public utilities, and he has made many suggestions to members of the Senate which I have often thought should have been incorporated into the laws of this Commonwealth.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Cox.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I am willing to be interrogated.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I desire to know whether this particular bill forms any part of the stream clearance program, if he knows.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, the question of stream pollution was never discussed at any meeting of the committee investigating authorities, at which I was present.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 425, on third reading, entitled:

An Act authorizing individual co-fiduciaries in certain cases to consent to holding of investments in the name of their corporate co-fiduciaries' nominee and validating such consents heretofore given go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 440, on third reading, entitled:

An Act authorizing cities of the third class to establish an optional retirement system for officers and employes independently of any pension system or systems existing in such cities be recommitted to the Committee on Municipal Government for the purpose of further study.

Mr. TALLMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Majority Floor Leader.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. HEYBURN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware explain to me why this bill is to be recommitted at this time?

Mr. HEYBURN. For further study, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I know that is the usual answer, but would the gentleman from Delaware give me the real reason.

Mr. HEYBURN. Just what I said, Mr. President, for further study. There was objection raised in the Republican Caucus by some of the constitutional lawyers in the group, including the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Walker, I believe.

Mr. DENT. Thank you. This bill, as I understand it, deals with third-class cities. I have five third-class cities in my senatorial district, and each and every one of them is in favor of this piece of legislation. I have heard no objection on the part of anybody who represents third-class city governments.

I appreciate the fact that any bill can stand further study, but after the method in which we have passed many bills in the years that I have been here, I think this bill has been studied by those who represent third-class cities and I therefore object to the motion to have this bill recommitted to the Committee on Municipal Government, for I feel once recommitted it will never re-emerge.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, this bill sets up a retirement system for officers and employes independently of any pension system or systems existing in such cities, and the question has been raised as to whether or not the provisions of this bill were not too broad. If the gentleman from Westmoreland will read page 7, Section 10, which reads: "The councils of the cities shall annually set aside, apportion and appropriate out of all taxes and income of such city unto the board a sum sufficient to maintain the compensation due under this act."

The question was raised whether this was worked out actuarially and no one seemed to know, and that is the reason the bill is being sent back to committee, for further study.

Mr. DENT. I might suggest, Mr. President, to the gentleman from Delaware, that if he will permit the bill to remain on the Calendar, I will have somebody who represents third-class cities speak to him tomorrow and give him actuarial figures to prove that this is a decided improvement over the present system allowable by law.

This is a system that will in the long run save the communities from disaster, and under the present system of time-pensions it will create disaster.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I suppose the gentleman from Westmoreland is aware of the fact that there already is legislation on the statute books of the Commonwealth which provides for a pension system for third-class cities.

Mr. DENT. I am aware of that fact, Mr. President, and that is exactly the reason for the introduction of this bill, because the present legislation would bankrupt any third-class city, if it tried to adhere to this bill, and it was upon the advice of the Local Government Commission that third-class cities have not participated in the present retirement system allowable by law.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I can not quite follow that line of argument, because one of the objectors in our Caucus has for a long time been a prominent member of the Local Government Commission.

Mr. DENT. I would like to interrogate that gentleman.

Mr. HEYBURN. That gentleman is not at the moment here; to the best of my knowledge he will be here later on.

Mr. DENT. I might say for the information of the Senate that when the retirement bill was passed, third-class city governments had a representative go before the Local Governments Commission and show them from actuarial figures that the system allowable by that act of the legislature would bankrupt the third-class cities in due course, and they advised the representative of the third-class cities in the state to contact his membership and ask them not to participate in the retirement system, and therefore make it inoperative.

I therefore suggest to the gentleman from Delaware that by defeating this piece of legislation you deny to employes of third-class cities the right to participate in a retirement system, because the present retirement system is not operative.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, if the Democrats succeed in repealing the wage tax, Philadelphia will at once become a third class-city, and as we are on the brink of that, I think I can now speak for third-class cities in answer to the question of the gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Dent.

I am a member of the committee which considered this bill, and it was touch and go whether the bill would come out of committee.

The objection is that it is actuarily unsound. As Senator Dent well knows, the two best pension systems in this Commonwealth are those pertaining to teachers and state employes—they are actuarily sound and they will not go on the rocks, but municipal pension systems do go on the rocks, and this one was shown to be glaringly unfair and altogether in favor of employes and against the interests of the taxpayers.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I would suggest to the gentleman from Philadelphia that there is no question now of setting up some system of pensions for the employes, in favor of employes against the municipalities. This is a question of setting up a retirement pension system that can be participated in by the municipality without facing bankruptcy or financial catastrophe.

This is an improvement over the present act, which the gentleman from Philadelphia, Doctor Woodward, voted for.

Mr. WOODWARD. Does the gentleman from Westmoreland mean it is voluntary?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, it is only a "may" bill but not a "must" bill.

Mr. WOODWARD. The sticker seems to be the three per cent paid by the employe and all deficits incurred made up by the taxpayer.

Mr. DENT. That is true, but the school teachers and state employes retirement fund have the same feature; they contribute to a certain extent and then we, as taxpayers, make up the amount that is paid out where they do not earn sufficient funds to do so. In fact, Senate Bill No. 29, on today's Calendar, makes up that deficiency.

Mr. WOODWARD. As the Senator from Westmoreland ought to know, in the two good retirement funds which I have mentioned, it is a fifty-fifty proposition, and this is far from that.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, does the gentleman from Philadelphia know what the present retirement system would require from a municipality?

Mr. WOODWARD. I do not, but I claim to know something about the state employes retirement fund and the teachers retirement fund, and they are fifty-fifty.

Mr. DENT. I have no objection to the state employes retirement fund, nor to the teachers retirement fund, and if I had the opportunity today I would vote again and again and again for them, but I see no reason to deny employes of third-class cities the right of retirement—they are not covered under the Social Security Act and have no way of retiring at a reasonable age from their labors.

Mr. WOODWARD. May I say this in conclusion, so far as I am concerned, that they now have a very bad system in Erie, and this is supposed to be a shade better than what they have there, according to the mayor and the city solicitor. The sponsor of this bill is going to have a heart-to-heart talk with the mayor and the city solicitor and bring in a better bill. That is the idea.

Mr. DENT. I thank the gentleman from Philadelphia very kindly. Coming from a third-class city like Philadelphia, the discussion of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward, has been very informative.

Now, Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Erie, Senator Blass.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Erie permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BLASS. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. As the sponsor of this particular piece of legislation, does the gentleman from Erie not think it is a decided improvement over the present system?

Mr. BLASS. It certainly is a very decided improvement over the system that we now have in Erie, and for that reason I sponsored this bill, at the instance of the mayor of the city, the city solicitor and the city fathers, all from a non-partisan standpoint.

Mr. DENT. Have the mayor, the city solicitor and the city fathers been consulted about sending it back to committee?

Mr. BLASS. They have not been consulted about anything except the welfare of this bill.

Mr. DENT. Does the gentleman from Erie think it is going to be an asset if this bill is sent back to the committee on Municipal Government?

Mr. BLASS. Frankly I think the bill has a lot of merit except perhaps one clause, section 10, might be inquired into as to whether or not it is actuarily sound. So far we have no evidence to back up that particular clause, and for that reason I had no argument to offer when the proposition was proposed in Caucus today.

However, it is a great improvement over our present pension system. Under the present pension system in the city of Erie a man on a small salary contributes just as much to the fund as the highest paid employe, including the mayor and other high paid city officials. Under the present plan, as proposed, each employe would contribute three per cent of his income.

Mr. DENT. I wish the gentleman would allow me to explain that one particular item for the benefit of Senators who do not come from third-class cities.

With the permission of the gentleman from Erie, I would like to say to the Senate that under the present system the solicitor, for instance, in the city of Erie, receives $6,500 a year compensation; there is a total amount allowable under the act of $48 per year as a contribution towards the retirement system. The ordinary individual who works as an employe of the city and receives a salary or stipend of $200 a month pays the same amount as the individual receiving $6,500 or $7,000 a year, and yet under the system now in vogue, when the solicitor retires or receives retirement pension he would be eligible to receive one half of his base pay or $3,250 a year, and the individual who paid exactly the same amount into the fund would receive approximately $1,200 a year.

If the question of the soundness of the actuarial figures of this bill we have now introduced is taken into consideration, certainly you can never show any sane individual where there is any semblance of any actuarial soundness to the present system now in vogue.

I am only pleading for the passage of this bill, or at least to allow it to remain on the Calendar where we can all get a shot at it if necessary, rather than send it back to committee without giving us opportunity to prove the condition in our own communities.

I represent probably more third class cities than any other individual in the Senate and I am more concerned than any one else in this Senate over the fate of this particular bill.

I would like to have the bill go over in its order, rather than have it sent back to committee, as it then becomes the property of the committee and not the property of the Senate.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I ask for a roll call.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. DENT and were as follows, viz:

Chapman,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 484, as follows:

An Act to amend Article six Section six hundred and two of the Act approved May eighteen one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 309) entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" by making further provision relating to the acquisition of real estate for the construction of school buildings

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 Article six Section six hundred and two of the Act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 309) entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" as last amended by the Act of April twenty-seventh one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five (P. L. 348) is hereby amended by adding at the end thereof the following

Provided however that title to no such real estate shall pass to any school district and no such real estate title to which shall not have passed to the school district prior to March twelfth one thousand nine hundred forty-five shall be used for school purposes unless the Superintendent of Public Instruction shall have approved such real estate as a proper site for the construction thereon of a school building and found that the construction of such school building within a period of not less than three years from the date of acquisition of such real estate is necessary All duties necessary to a determination of whether or not such approval shall be given and finding made in any case are hereby imposed on the Superintendent of Public Instruction

Section 2 The provision of this Act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Fayette, Senator Bowers.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Fayette permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BOWERS. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. COX. Will the gentleman from Fayette tell me the purpose he is trying to accomplish in this bill?

Mr. BOWERS. Mr. President, in years past school districts throughout the Commonwealth have purchased land for future improvements and building. After receiving clear title to this property time may elapse for six, seven, eight or ten years before anything is done with the property or any building is even considered.

This bill, Mr. President, limits the time after a clear title has been received, providing a limit of three years within which they must do something with the land.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Fayette.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Fayette permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. BOWERS. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. COX. Will the gentleman from Fayette tell me what difference it makes if these school districts have these lands for eight or ten years and have not constructed school buildings on them?

Mr. BOWERS. Mr. President, school property is tax free and this prohibits and stops the paying of taxes after three years.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, from practical experience I know that one of the difficulties in all government, whether it is state, federal or municipal, is the lack of foresight. Land is developed on plans, houses are built, villages are formed, villages increase in size and become boroughs and then cities

At the beginning of many of these municipal corporations if people could have looked ahead and could have realized the potential population, they would have acquired land when it could have been acquired in locations which would make it suitable for school purposes. I have found in many instances that when it came time to build a school or to afford playground facilities, that the best locations were gone and those locations which were procurable had to be procured at tremendous cost.

I personally think that this is a step in the wrong direction. Instead of helping the schools to plan for when they are in need, it will handicap the schools and lead to great expenditure of public finances.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—46

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 Section four hundred eleven of the act approved the ninth day of April one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 177) entitled "An act providing for and reorganizing the conduct of the executive and administrative work of the Commonwealth by the Executive Department thereof and the administrative departments boards commissions and officers thereof including the boards of trustees of State Normal Schools or Teachers Colleges abolishing creating reorganizing or authorizing the reorganization of certain administrative departments boards and commissions defining the powers and duties of the Governor and other executive and administrative officers and of the several administrative departments boards commissions and officers fixing the salaries of the Governor Lieutenant-Governor and certain other executive and administrative officers providing for the appointment of certain administrative officers and of all deputies and other assistants and employes in certain departments boards and commissions and prescribing the manner in which the number and compensation of the deputies and all other assistants and employes of certain departments boards and commissions shall be determined" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 411 Pennsylvania Historical Commission The Pennsylvania Historical Commission shall consist of the Superintendent of Public Instruction ex officio and [five] seven citizens of the Commonwealth

[Three] Four members of the commission shall constitute a quorum

The commission shall select from their number a chairman and shall elect a secretary who need not be a member of the commission

The secretary shall receive such compensation as the commission shall with the approval of the Superintendent of Public Instruction determine

Section 2 The two additional members of the said commission to be appointed by the Governor by reason of this amendment shall be chosen from sections of the Commonwealth not now represented on the commission

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. EALY. The gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Dent, spoke to me about offering amendments. In view of the fact the Calndar has been pushed along rather hastily during the last week, I think perhaps he should have opportunity to offer the amendments, but as the gentleman from Westmoreland explained the proposed amendments to me, they would be putting this historical commission into politics, and I believe we should vote down the amendments which he is about to offer.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Somerset does not object to the offering of amendments?

Mr. EALY. I think it will be all right to let him present the amendments.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I offer amendments at this time.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend the title, page 2, by adding at the end of the title the following; "said members to be of the minority party in the Commonwealth to be approved by the State Committee of the minority party"; Amend Section 2, page 3, lines 21 and 22, by striking out the words, "shall be chosen from sections of the Commonwealth not now represented on the commission," and inserting in lieu thereof the words, "shall be members of the minority party in the Commonwealth to be approved by the State Committee of the minority party."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. DENT. I know that in a strictly non-political state like Pennsylvania it seems, according to the remarks of the gentleman from Somerset, that I am trying to throw the historical commission into partisan politics.

I might say, Mr. President, that every member of the historical commission today is a registered Republican and, of course, that is not political in one sense because they are not bi-partisan, it is at least one-party politics, but, Mr. President, in the great and enlightened state of New York for many years they have had a rule set up under state government whereby all commissions named have minority representation and the said minority is appointed by the responsible head of the minority party.

We in Pennsylvania have for years passed certain bills setting up certain commissions which called for minority representation, and the vogue has been always to name a member of the minority that is acceptable to the majority.

We believe, Mr. President, that the time has come when a start must be made towards giving all the people of Pennsylvania some representation on all the commissions named. We are willing as the minority party to say to you that when the precedent is set by the now majority party, we will respect that precedent when, in the very near future, we become the majority party in Pennsylvania, and we will stand honor-bound to name only men to the minority positions on commissions that the minority party of the future shall designate through their elected and responsible heads.

You know and I know that under the Liquor Board set-up, for instance, in Pennsylvania, we had minority representation at all times until Governor James became the Governor of the Commonwealth and a vacancy existed and rather than sully the precedent that had been set up whereby a minority member must be appointed to that board, he refrained during his term of four years from naming anybody, and that has been followed by the present Governor, so that at this late date we still have only two members on the Liquor Control Board, and the law specifically calls for three members.

But I say, Mr. President, if we had a set-up whereby the minority was represented on all commissions, and that minority membership should be selected by the responsible heads of the minority party, we would have better government in Pennsylvania instead of this strictly one-party government at all times, whether your party is in power or my party is in power.

I do not think the people in Pennsylvania get a just government under the present system, and I therefore ask the members of this Senate to reconsider their rather hasty vote upon the question of naming to the historical commission two members of the Democratic Party, which I believe is the majority party in Pennsylvania so far as the people are concerned.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

(A voice vote having been taken the question was determined in the negative.)

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. President, much has been said by the Governor on bi-partisan agreements. He has made many appeals, and many speeches asking the Democratic Party to join with him in giving Pennsylvania a short business-like session as an example, what can be done when a country is at war and all the forces unite on issues beneficial to the people as a whole.

I was one of those who was doubtful that this could be, but I was willing, in the interest of the war effort and unity on the home front to go along and hope that the beautiful sounding phrases of the Governor would become a reality. Bi-partisan to my way of thinking, is uniting on legislation, whether or not it be Democratic or Republican sponsored, considering only the intent and benefits of the legislation to all the people. This is not the intent of the Governor, but rather to put the stamp of the Republican Party on legislation even if bills must be stolen and re-introduced with Republican sponsors.

Back in 1935 and 1937 I had some correspondence with groups in Ohio on the advisability of forming a compact among all the States adjoining the Ohio River Valley Basin to stop the polluting of this great water shed. We were of the opinion that it was time to stop talking about States' rights and stop raising objections to the Federal Government imposing themselves on the States to carry out objectives that would benefit their sister States, and continue a do nothing attitude. We thought State's responsibility should be stressed more than States' rights, because no State can have a right unless it accepts a responsibility in relation to the other States. Out of these meetings the Ohio River Valley Compact was born.

In 1939 I introduced this Bill in the House. It passed by unanimous vote; came to the Senate but never saw the light of day after it was placed in the State Government Committee.

In 1941, fearing that on account of it being sponsored only by a Democrat, I asked Mr. Turner of Delaware County to co-sponsor the Bill. It again passed the House by unanimous vote and again in the State Government Committee of the Senate it received a very thorough pickling.

In 1943 when I became a member of the Senate it was one of the first bills, Senate Bill No. 111, that I introduced, and again Forest and Waters killed the bill in Committee. In 1943 it was not introduced in the House, so I believe I can claim the credit of keeping it before the public and keeping it alive in Pennsylvania.

In these years the Democratic Organization of Pennsylvania gave me full cooperation and full support in trying to get the Ohio River Valley Compact written into law. In 1942, while serving the Congress of the United States I had quite a few meetings in Washington with Democratic leaders of Ohio, Congressman Spence of Kentucky, as well as Senator Barkley and Senator Chandler of Kentucky, and I had the pleasure of meeting with the then Mayor of Cleveland, Frank Lausche, who was very much interested in it, although it did not effect the City of Cleveland, but he felt then that if it would benefit Ohio, it was much needed legislation. Since Mayor Lausche became Governor of Ohio, he has been in constant touch with me on this legislation. Today I received a telegram from him which was as follows:

"I am glad to know that you are again the author of Senate Bill No. 160, which contemplates having Pennsylvania ratify the Ohio River Valley Sanitation Compact. I urge you to exercise all of your efforts to have this bill adopted, you understand that the ratification heretofore made by the States of Ohio and West Virginia are conditioned upon a similar ratification by the State of Pennsylvania. Persons who have made an impartial study of the pollution that is being fed into the Ohio River are in rather uniform accord that action must be taken to control, abate, and prevent the pollution of the Ohio River water shed,"—signed Frank J. Lausche, Governor of Ohio.

Before this Session started I had the Legislative Reference Bureau redraft for me the Ohio River Valley Water Sanitation Compact and introduced the Bill on January 22nd, after its introduction I was asked by a number of Republican leaders if I would agree to a co-sponsor. I immediately said I would, and I stated, "Since the Governor wished to make stream pollution bi-partisan, I do not want to do anything that would interfere in hindering the cleaning up of our great rivers in Pennsylvania."

On February 19th, I was rudely awakened from my dream of bi-partisan legislation by learning that Mr. Kurtz of Lebanon County and Mr. Lichtenwalter of Lehigh County had introduced the Bill word for word, without even changing a comma or a period of the bill I had introduced in the Senate and which we have for consideration on today's calendar.

I do not feel in any way offended to find my Bill on the calendar under a different sponsor and by two men who I doubt have seen the entire Ohio River Valley, although they are acquainted with the Lehigh Valley and the Lebanon Valley.

It has taken six years of education to convince the Republican Party of Pennsylvania that it is wise for them to follow the leadership of the Democrats.

To cut a passage through a dense forest is a much harder job than to use the path after it is open. You Republicans are welcome to use the path made by us Democrats.

You are flattering me by adopting my Bill. I am glad to know that you approve and I see realization in the passage of this Bill six years of hard work at last become a finished product. We Democrats in the Senate want to thank you on behalf of the Democrats in Kentucky, Ohio and West Virginia, who fought for this good legislation in their respective States. It is a grand and glorious feeling to know that the Republican Party has seen the light. We Democrats have held the torch aloft to you; we have guided you out of the wilderness of darkness.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I want to join with the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Holland, in appreciation of the fact that it looks like this bill is about to become to law. And I would like to remind him that this bill has a very slight non-partisan touch, due to the fact that I also sponsored this bill in 1939 and 1941 and I feel just a little hurt, as does he, that the sponsorship went east, but after a while he will get accustomed to the fact that most things in Pennsylvania go east.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I was informed by the Majority Leader that it was the request of his Caucus that this bill be recommitted. I do not want to break the promise to the Committee on Judiciary General which I made at the time the bill was reported out, but I would ask the indulgence of the Senate at this time, to permit this bill to stay on second reading until Monday of next week.

This is probably one of the most serious matters we will face on our Calendar during this session, because it deals with the question of whether a man's life should be taken or whether it should not.

I have in preparation at this time a collection of statistics from the criminal courts over the period of the last eleven years, by which I am trying to arrive at some conclusion as to what the effect of capital punishment has been in cases in our county. I have also written to a man well versed in criminology and I have not yet received a reply to that letter.

For those reasons, Mr. President, I am asking that this bill be permitted to go over in its order until Monday of next week.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, the bill will get a reprieve for twenty-four hours.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. WOODWARD, Mr. President, I move that House Bill No. 480 on second reading, entitled:

An Act to add subsection nineteen to section twenty-one to the act, approved the fourteenth day of April, one thousand eight hundred sixty-eight (P. L. 1083), entitled "A supplement to an act, entitled 'An act appropriating ground for public purposes in the city of Philadelphia, approved the twenty-sixth day of March, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven," providing that children under the age of seventeen years shall not be charged for the use of certain recreational facilities within Fairmount Park be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary Special.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Woodward.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOODWARD. With pleasure, Mr. President.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I desire to ask why the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Woodward, moved that House Bill 480 be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary Special?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, the General Assembly of Pennsylvania really has nothing to do with the Fairmount Park Commission of Philadelphia. We do not appropriate any money to them, and the Fairmount Park Commission gets all its money from Philadelphia, and, while the Senator from Philadelphia objects to these rules and regulations of the commissioners, they have a perfect right to make their own rules and regulations without interference from Harrisburg. I am willing to discuss in public or private the wisdom of the rule. I think the rule is all right. As I say, I am willing to answer any questions, unless the gentleman wants to talk privately.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. WOODWARD. Go ahead.

Mr. JASPAN. Does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Woodward, have any objection to this bill?

Mr. WOODWARD. Yes. I do not know the sponsor of this bill, but it looks to me like just a play to the gallery. Why should the sponsor object to the rules of the Fairmount Park Commission, as to giving children of a certain age free recreation. The point is that the commissioners of Fairmount Park have been managing the park for many years and have established certain rules about paying a fee to play tennis and to indulge in recreation, as a result of experience—they have not anything against these children under seventeen—and then suddenly for Harrisburg to tell the Park Commission they must make a special exemption of children under seventeen, I think it is none of our business.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, if the gentleman from Philadelphia has any objection, I feel the proper thing to do is to pass the bill on second reading and let him vote against it on third reading.

Mr. President, this is a very important bill to the youngsters, the young men of Philadelphia. From time to time they see fit to play sports in our parks, particularly tennis, and there is a charge of from seventy-five cents to one dollar for those boys to play. Those boys are high-school boys and in many instances they are just about to enter college.

I had been given to understand, in answer to the argument of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward, that the Fairmount Park Commission is without authority, and at a meeting of the board decided they were without authority, and it was up to the legislature to determine whether or not a charge should be made for boys to play tennis in Fairmount Park.

If we are interested in juvenile delinquency, if it is our thought to curb juvenile delinquency, certainly we ought to go on record as favoring a bill of this kind.

For the information of the Senate, this bill was presented in the House some time ago by Representative Chudoff and it passed without a dissenting vote. Now of all people, Dr. Woodward of Philadelphia, who probably has no youngsters, who probably is not familiar with their activities and with their wants, should be the last to object to it. If anything, somebody with children should get up either for or against the bill and make complaints concerning it.

However, I realize what it is to play in the streets of Philadelphia. If we would rather have them play on the streets, let us say so by sending this bill back to committee.

As I said before, and I can not emphasize it too strongly, it is necessary that these parks be appropriated to the boys so that they can play tennis, and in doing that we can curb juvenile delinquency to a great extent.

Mr. ROSENFELD. Mr. President, I would like to remind the gentleman from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward, and the other members of this Senate, that the Fairmount Park Commission is a creature of the State of Pennsylvania, created by an act of 1868, and that as such, under section 21 of that act, they are under certain rules and regulations passed by the Legislature of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

They have a right also to make such rules and regulations that do not contravene any of the rules set forth by the Legislature.

This matter has been before the Fairmount Park Commission on numerous occasions. There has been clamoring by many juvenile organizations, and many organizations interested in the problem of juvenile delinquency, to cut this fee down or to eliminate it altogether so that the original purposes for which the recreational facilities in Fairmount Park were built could be utilized.

I consider myself exhibit "A", having been born and raised along the borders of Fairmount Park many years ago, and I recall very distinctly when as a youngster I was able to play tennis in Fairmount Park without paying any money for it. Today it is a problem, and it will continue to be a problem. Since the Fairmount Park Commission has seen fit not to change this regulation in this regard, I think we just can not accept that; we should go back to the right given us and tell the Fairmount Park Commission that we feel that children under seventeen should have the right to use these facilities without any charge whatsoever.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, about a year ago Senator Ealy of Somerset paid a visit to Philadelphia and I remember after he completed his visit he said "it is about time that the people from up-state Pennsylvania should come down to Philadelphia and learn conditions there, and vice versa, and then the people of Pennsylvania would learn something about the status of many problems in Pennsylvania."

If the people from up-state Pennsylvania, especially the Senators, would visit Philadelphia and see how rapidly the city is declining, how dangerous the streets are, they would probably sympathize with this measure and I hope that the Senate will not be hasty in sending this bill back to committee, where it will probably be pickled. Let the bill go up to third reading and whoever is against it, let him voice his objections, but let us at least approach the problem in a proper way.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I ask for a roll call.

(During the calling of the roll the following occurred:

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, may I inquire how the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Farrell, voted: I did not hear him.

Mr. FARRELL. Mr. President, I voted "aye." I was not going to say anything about this bill. I do not know how many of the Senators are familiar with Fairmount Park. I am as familiar with it as any other man, and the privileges they have there are perfect. Boys of all ages go there, they take picnics, by the thousands, to this beautiful park.

Like my colleague from Philadelphia, Senator Woodward, I believe that the Fairmount Park Commission, comprised of Republicans and Democrats alike, is a splendid body of men, and I would be willing to trust the running of Fairmount Park to the commission in preference to anybody else in Pennsylvania.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Farrell, I desire to state that the Fairmount Park Commission suggested the proposal of this bill, and its passage as well.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. JASPAN and were as follows, viz:

In the Senate, March 12, 1945.

Whereas, Philadelphia is the birthplace of the Declaration of Independence, "that title-deed of the human race," and

Whereas, the loftiest ideology of Democracy was born on the soil of Pennsylvania and in the City of Brotherly Love, setting into motion dynamic forces that became the torchbearers of mankind and shapers of its destiny, and

Whereas, the eternal principles enunciated in the Declaration of Independence permeate and cement the United Nations in their sacred quest for a lasting peaie, and

Whereas, the coming victory of the United Nations in the present global struggle and the ensuing peace will make the Declaration of Independence not only the heritage of America but that of the entire world, and

Whereas, on April 25, 1945 there will be held in San Francisco, California a conference of 39 nations to create a pact to make secure the future peace of the world, and

Whereas, Philadelphia, once the capital of the United States is thus ideologically and historically eminently suited to become the World Capital of Peace, the permanent home of the United Nations and the nerve-center of the world-machinery of peace, and

Whereas, proposals have been put forth advocating Philadelphia as the World Capital of the United Nations and the Independence Hall as the theme-center of a beautifully landscaped mall leading to the Delaware River Bridge Plaza, the latter proposal in complete harmony with the elaborate plans of Independence Hall Association, and

Whereas, aforesaid proposals have received the fervent approval of Pennsylvania's citizenry with such eminent Pennsylvanians in its vanguard as Governor Martin, U. S. Senators Joseph F. Guffey and Francis J. Myers, Congressman Michael J. Bradley and many other members of the Pennsylvania Congressional Delegation, Mayor Bernard Samuel, outstanding civic leaders and representatives of historic, patriotic, fraternal, business and labor organizations, and

Whereas, it is urgent that the aforesaid proposals receive local, national and international attention as a prerequisite to their favorable consideration, Now Therefore Be It

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur) that the General Assembly of Pennsylvania join forces with all advocates of the aforementioned proposals by

1. Memorializing the President of the United States, U. S. Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

MOTION TO INSTRUCT STANDING COMMITTEES OF HOUSE

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I move that for the remainder of this regular session, the Standing Committees of the House are hereby instructed, that all bills reported to the House, shall have appended thereto, a concise, clear statement in writing, not to exceed five hundred words, summarizing, the purpose, intent and effect of each bill. Statements accompaning bills shall be printed on a colored paper, as a separate daily supplement to the house Calendar, for the use of the Members.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I offer this motion in the interests of more speedy procedure and more intelligent parliamentary action. I do not know how it may be on the other side when you meet in caucus. It may be that every member of your caucus, the caucus of the majority group, understands all the bills, the purpose to be effected by each bill, but I know that in the circles in which I move we do not all understand all of the bills; we do not know always what the purpose of a particular bill is. If we did know the purpose of the bills there would be much less aimless discussion.

I submit to you that the chairman of the committee and the sponsor of the bill should know the intent, purpose and effect of the measure he introduces and he should be able to state not the mechanics of the bill but the intent, purpose and effect of that bill in a very concise statement. I submit to you in all seriousness that such a statement in the hands of your members when they went into caucus and such a statement in the hands of the members of this House when they were voting upon bills would eliminate hours and hours and hours of spur track discussion.

A member of the majority group, Mr. Speaker, said to me, "Don't you have a committee that reads the bills?" Sure, we can have a committee that reads the bill, but if the committee reads the bill the committee knows what is in the bill, not I, and if you have a committee on your side that is reading the bill the committee knows what is in the bill but the members of the House do not know.

It can be argued that this proposition would present a printing difficulty. It would not present a printing difficulty at all because this report can be set in any measure. The printing you do for the House has to be set in a particular measure. These statements could be set 12 ems or 13 ems, any width of column you want. The reports would be printed in 7 point, 8 point or 10 point type. You have no printing difficulty similar to ones you have in printing the bills.

Members of the House, I offer this motion in all good faith as a means of speeding action and promoting more intelligent action.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I arise to oppose the motion of the gentleman from Cambria.

He first states that the reason for this motion is to more quickly expedite the business of this House. I do not see how it would accomplish that by reason of the provisions contained in the motion of the gentleman from Cambria. If anything, Mr. Speaker, I believe it would clog the legislative machinery as far as the workings here upon the floor of the House are concerned, and it would certainly place an unnecessary burden both upon an over burdened industry, and that is upon the printer. Very recently the printers who do our legislative printing lost fourteen men under the Man Power Commission in a pool, because they said this printing was not essential, and therefore, these men had to be released to a pool where they might be placed in a more essential industry.

I certainly do not see, Mr. Speaker, how a statement not containing over five hundred words and placed as a supplement to the calendar at this particular time would in any way help to speed up the work of the House. We on this side are ceretainly interested in the suggestion made by the gentleman from Cambria, and any other suggestion which will clearly and definitely show us where we can speed up the work of the House and not necessitate the many hours required to be in our seats here upon the floor, but I also would point out that in probably many instances where the sponsor of a bill might be setting forth the legislative intent, many of these measures would particularly affect some individual district or some idea in the mind of the legislator himself, but it might set forth that intent and not express the general benefit of the legislation and how it might affect the people of the Commonwealth.

I therefore, Mr. Speaker, certainly see no need for passing the motion made by the gentleman from Cambria except as I said before, I feel it would rather prolong and confuse rather than help and speed up the work of the session.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I would submit that when the gentleman from Lehigh talks about the printing situation he probably doesn't know what he is talking about. The printing that is being done for the House is all in a particular measure and a particular face of type. There are only so many linotype machines that can be utilized for setting this measure on this 10 point type, but there are any number of linotype machines accessible that can set 7 point type or 8 point type in any column measure you want, and so I submit to anyone on the other side that knows the printing business, that the printing question is not an issue.

The issue simply is this, Mr. Speaker, if there is a brain trust of which the gentleman from Lehigh is in command, and if that brain trust is utilized to tell the lesser members what is in a bill, how they are to vote and all about it, then of course you don't need my motion, but if you want the members of the House to read these bills, to interpret these bills, to know what they are doing independent of the brain trust then my motion is in order.

I would suggest to the gentleman from Lehigh that he and I are sponsors of a couple of measures dealing with farmers and cooperation, and I will bet him a nickel, or a red apple or anything else, if he can select any Member on his side of the House, hand him one of those bills, and tell him to come back in fifteen minuts and tell us what is in it, and he can not do it.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I certainly have a great deal more confidence and faith in the intelligence of the men on this side of the House, and I am certain that I could hand them any one of those four bills on agriculture and cooperatives and they would not require more than five minutes to come back and tell me just what those bills contain.

I am very happy to have the gentleman say, or rather admit that we probably have a closed market on the brain trust on this side of the House. I am also sorry that I am not a printer and therefore I cannot, of course, discuss the kinds of type, the sort of type, but I do believe that even with all the brain trust and the brain power on this side of the House, that it still takes man power to operate any type of linotype machine, even though they are available. I still say that it takes man power, and that is very critical in these trying times. I, therefore, contend that my original argument holds and asks that the motion be voted down.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a division.

A division having been called for, ninety-three Members having voted in the affirmative and one hundred four in the negative, the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

FORMER MEMBER WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair is informed that we have with us a former Member of the House, Judge Kenneth Harkins of Allegheny County, who is a former Member of the House. The Chair welcomes the gentleman.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of this bill, the gentleman from Elk, Mr. Sorg.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Elk permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SORG. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I should like to ask the gentleman whether or not this bill would empower the boards of directors of corporations of Pennsylvania to contribute fifteen per cent of the net earnings, or is it net income of the corporations, for charitable purposes?

Mr. SORG. It would, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Is that net income or net earnings, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. SORG. Net, or as it is reported for Federal income tax purposes.

Mr. COHEN. Would this mean, Mr. Speaker, an additional deduction from Uncle Sam's tax bill?

Mr. SORG. Mr. Speaker, it would not, in my opinion.

Mr. COHEN. Will the gentleman tell me whether or not such action by boards of directors of corporations would have to meet with the approval of the stockholders of the corporation?

Mr. SORG. No, Mr. Speaker, it is my opinion that it would not require the approval of the stockholders.

Mr. COHEN. Will the gentleman tell me whether there has been any great demand for this special privilege for the corporations?

Mr. SORG. Mr. Speaker, I might advise the gentleman that there has been no great demand, only requests.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I think perhaps that the most that can be said for this bill might better be said on third reading, although quite frankly I should like for the benefit of the Members on both sides of the House to give my own reaction to this bill, which might mean the taking away of dividends or earnings from stockholders of both large and small, and I am particularly interested of course in the small corporations which would under this bill be permitted to be given to charitable institutions.

Of course no one has any objection to benevolent and charitable institutions receiving any amounts of money—we are all for it, but the question, and if I am right in my conception of the bill, is, should we permit the directors of a corporation to spend the moneys of the stockholders each year before a dividend is declared, and give it to some organization or organizations, first, for which the stockholders might not have sympathy, and second, which the stockholders, even though they may have sympathy for it, might feel there has been enough of their money devoted to that particular charitable or benevolent institution.

There might be much more said generally, but I leave that for your examination, to turn it over in your mind even with our motion to have the purpose and intent of bills printed, even if that had prevailed, the members might have something in their minds to think about.

What is a benevolent institution or what is a charitable institution? It may be, according to certain current thinking, an organization possibly that might use the money for political purposes, although the bill specifically states not to be used for political propaganda. I have in mind at least one of them which up to now has been able to defy the United States Senate to determine whether it is a political organization or whether it is a charitable organization or an educational organization. I submit all these matters for the members' thinking until tomorrow when we get to third reading, when I may have more to say about it.

The first and second sections and title were separately read and agreed to.

On the question.

Will the House agreed to the bill on second reading?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I was trying to get the speaker's attention. I desire to have either the Majority Leader or the gentleman from Elk interpret this bill. I would like to know what it does, how it does it and have its various provisions explained to me in United States language that I can understand.

Mr. SORG. Mr. Speaker, I will confess that I do not know what Section 45 of the act of 1917 is, but it is my understanding that this measure is intended only to repeal that particular Section of the act.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, might I request the gentleman to take five minutes and report to the House what that section that is repealed does.

Mr. SORG. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman says that it is very complicated I am very much flattered at the allowance of only five minutes.

Mr. ANDREWS. Did I misunderstand the Majority Leader when he assured this House that every Member and any Member on his side of the House could within five minutes report to this House the purpose and intent of any bill that was pending?

Mr. SORG. Mr. Speaker, I presume that the statement was made by the Majority Leader, and I am quite sure that in five minutes it could be learned and a satisfactory report made to the gentleman.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, what will it be necessary to do or what motion is it necessary to make to give the gentleman five minutes?

The SPEAKER. If a motion of that kind is made the bill would have to be placed on the postponed calendar.

Mr. SORG. Mr. Speaker, do I understand that the bill is to be placed on the second reading postponed calendar?

The SPEAKER. The Chair has not received such a motion.

Mr. KRISE. Mr. Speaker, I was chairman of the Committee that reported this bill out to the House. I believe earlier this evening the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, said that the Chairman of the Committee ought to know something about the bill. I do know something about the bill and it may be I can clarify it.

Presently, Mr. Speaker, they are allowed to charge the full administrative fee. When it gets to an estate that might go on ten or fifteen or twenty years, and a bank continues on as trustee, they are not permitted to charge an additional fee. This bill would permit that to be done under the direction of the court. They would set that fee so that there would be both the administrator's fee and the fee for the administration of the estate set by the court.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to thank very much the gentleman. The Chairman of the Committee has vindicated my contention one hundred percent. I submit to the Speaker and to the House that we would have indeed been in a sorry mess had we not been able to avail ourselves of the services of the Chairman of the Committee. As I pointed out to this House, the Chairman of the Committee can always probably tell us what is in these bills.

Will the House agree to the bill on second reading?

were passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 792, as follows:

An Act prescribing the question to be determined in certain cases where a new trial is granted

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 When in any action a new trial shall be granted to any party solely upon the ground of inadequacy or excessiveness of a verdict or finding the sole question to be determined upon such new trial shall be the amount of damages and the question of liability as between the parties shall be deemed to have been finally determined by the prior verdict or finding

Section 2 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Modell.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MODELL. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia explain the purpose of this bill?

Mr. MODELL. Mr. Speaker, this bill provides that where a new trial is granted in any case because of excessive or inadequacy of the verdict, that the new trial shall only be to determine the question of the amount involved and will not determine again as to the merits.

Mr. TURNER. And this is not the present rule under the law?

Mr. MODELL. This is not.

Mr. TURNER. Then why the change?

Mr. MODELL. The reason for that is this, Mr. Speaker, many attorneys have brought to my attention, and I also have noticed in my practice that what very often happens is that a trial is had upon any kind of a matter, and more often in negligence matters where a party may have a verdict in its favor, and the verdict by the jury in that particular case might have been inadequate or excessive, and for this example I will take the case where it is inadequate, and a new trial is granted solely upon that question.

Then a new trial is had and the difficulty is very often encountered in finding your witnesses because they might have left the jurisdiction or they may be very busy and difficult to obtain for a second hearing, and as a result justice very often is not done to those people.

If, however, the only question on the second trial after liability has already been determined is the amount to be given to that plaintiff, then there is no need for finding those witnesses again, and the court upon depositions, or the testimony rather, can determine the amount to be given, or the jury may determine that, but the witnesses need not be there to again explain how the accident happened or how the facts turned out originally.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, might not the jury that first decided in determining the question of negligence also have some thought in mind in fixing the amount of the damages, that is the relation between the question of negligence and the damages?

Mr. MODELL. Mr. Speaker, in my opinion the answer to that is no, for this reason; the jury has two questions to determine; one is liability and after they have determined that, then the question is how much damages are to be given for the injury sustained.

Mr. TURNER. I can agree with that legal opinion, but from the standpoint of a human being and the person in the jury box, might it not have some reflection?

Mr. MODELL. In my opinion it would not, Mr. Speaker, because they are two different questions. The jury has already determined the first and that is settled, and then they have only to determine upon the evidence how much should be given to the plaintifl, because the liability has already been determined.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

Section 6 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HUNTLEY. Mr. Speaker, I have examined this bill and have concluded that it is a good bill. For years I have stood on the floor of this House and protested against Philadelphia and Pittsburgh bringing their dirty linen to this House to be washed. Such things could be put through the wringer at home; you can get no remedy here. The problem can only be solved at home. When Philadelphia wanted to stop smoking on its streetcars and motor buses last year,—or last summer I believe it was, they didn't come here. If they had, they would have gotten no place, but you will remember there was quite a controversy with the smokers. Many of the smokers said those who didn't want to put up with the smoke should get off and walk, but they didn't win. The people of Philadelphia decided that the smokers should get off and walk, or at least not smoke. In other words they solved the question there.

It wasn't so long ago that a judge in Pittsburgh instructed a grand jury and told them that the churches had been accustomed to playing bingo, and it was sort of a natural act, and if the grand jury found that there were no promoters getting a rake-off from putting bingo games across, they would be justified in not indicting the players.

This bill is not a gambling bill; it is a local option bill; it is a bill to take this matter before the local courts and decide it there. The bill, if you will read it, applies not to everybody, but to certain organizations, and they can go before the court and decide the place where it should be played, the fees, what they shall be used for. The license will only last for one year. If they are not satisfied the next year they can go back to court and reveal it, and there is no rake-off allowed or anybody allowed to promote it. It must be put on by the players themselves, and if this provision is broken, there is a severe penalty for doing it. All you need to do is to read this bill and you will see it is only a local option bill.

All sumptuary laws are not popular, and are either obeyed or they are nullified. For that reason local option has been decided by experience, and all experience has taught us that local option is the best way to handle sumptuary laws, because public opinion is the law that decides it. Where public opinion is in favor of a law it will be observed, and where public opinion is not in favor of the law, they will nullify it. These local option laws are simply trying to materialize public opinion of certain localities, and that is all this law intends to do.

Bingo is not a gambling game in the sense that professional gamblers use it. I have never known bingo to be practiced by professional gamblers. I have never known it to be played in a gambling house, and it is a sort of innocent game played by men, women and children in the open. Everybody plays it, and I don't think they are gamblers or law breakers, and this bill is the only means, as I see it, to give them a chance to stop it at home.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. Speaker, I personally am opposed to bingo because it is a vehicle that may open the road to gambling, but I am going to vote for this bill, and I am going to vote for it because it is a local option bill,—a local option bill, a home rule bill, and whether we in Philadelphia want bingo is a question for the local authorities to decide. I agree with the chairman of the committee, it is a question in each community, what they think is the best thing for the community. My own opinion is just the vote of one person, but I am going to support this bill on the theory that it is a home rule bill.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, as I read this bill, particularly section three, the organizations that are now playing bingo, and their name and number is legion, would each be required to man their bingo games with volunteers? They couldn't pay anybody for calling the bingo numbers where you have a bingo game going and you have eight hundred to twelve hundred people, it becomes big business, and you can not man big business whether it is church, lodge or anything else, in the bingo line with volunteers; you have to pay your floor people, you have to pay your callers. This measure is simply a measure that kills big time bingo. Don't make any mistake about that. The people that are playing bingo don't want big time bingo killed. The people that are opposed to bingo won't want bingo legalized.

At the present time the people that don't want bingo legalized, and the people that want to play bingo are all perfectly happy. The people that don't want bingo legalized have the law, and the people who want to play bingo can play bingo it is a very happy situation, but those who are interested in bingo as a big time proposition put across by the Moose, by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, by the Legion, by various churches, by various other fraternal organizations will find it impossible to man their big time games with volunteer help. That is the reason why I am opposed to this measure, because it does not please people who are opposed to bingo and it cannot possibly please the people who want bingo.

Mr. HOFFMAN. It would appear to me, Mr. Speaker, that the principal of this bill, House Bill No. 725, is greater than the sentiment we are expressing concerning the bill. I think it is about time that we recognize the two fundamental factors that are necessary to the security of our well being and the perpetuity of what we call the American way of life. There is a moral and a spiritual principal involved in this proposed bill, and it appears to me that if there ever was a time when the people ought to be alive to the preservation of the moral standards of the youth of our land and to emphasize and reemphasize the spiritual values of our life, our living, that time is now, and I cannot conceive that this House would like to put itself on record as opening the door to the temptation of our youth and to set a standard that will lower our morals rather than evaluate them on a higher plane.

This war ought to teach us how necessary it is for us to bring back, if we can, better moral standards for our living. This country needs today more than anythg else, more solid and honest faith, and I do not think that at this particular season of year, in the solemnity of this Holy Week, that I am going to forget myself to vote for something that is recognized by law as evil, and under a bill transfer that evil to the judgment of local courts.

In the case of my own county I am reasonably sure that our presiding judge is not in favor of a bill of this character, and I am appealing to the Members of this House to think soberly today on this question of whether they are going to by their vote in support of this bill lower the standards of morals, leaving open the door for temptation to the youth and to the returning soldiers when they come back home. They went away from here with the knowledge that there was no law legalizing bingo. We have promised them that when they come back they will find the same America and the same standards, and I think we ought to be courageous enough in our hearts, strong enough in our purpose and steadfast enough in our faith to uphold the standards of morals and to preserve those things that we call our American liberty and our American way of life. I make this appeal ladies and gentlemen of the House, that we vote down House Bill 725.

Mr. HEATHERINGTON. Mr. Speaker, on the question of how many people play bingo, how many volunteers you can get to operate bingo, I know in my district we have quite a few volunteer fire companies, and the only possible chance that they have of making money to buy their equipment and to keep the fire company in action is from bingo. Some of them are games where they have as high as eight hundred or one thousand or twelve hundred people playing at a time and our game is manned by volunteers, nobody getting any pay. By voting for this bill you will be enabling quite a lot of fire companies to keep going, so that the company may still be in the business when G. I. Joe returns home, the way it was when he left.

Mr. HOGGARD. Mr. Speaker, this bill is similar to a bill introduced in this House during the last session. I was opopsed to it then, although it was introduced by one of my colleagues and I am opposed to this bill now. Nor am I alone in this matter. I have in my possession several letters here in my hand representing two major faiths in Philadelphia who are also opposed to this bill.

With the consent of the House I wish to read the letters. They are very brief; one of them consists only of one paragraph, and one of two very brief paragraphs. The first one is from the Methodist Church, headquarters at 1701 Arch Street, Philadelphia and reads as follows:

> The Methodist churches do not want the privilege of legalized Bingo. Gambling is gambling whether the church does it, or any other organization. In the interest of sound morality and for the protection of young people, Methodists want House Bill No. 725 killed. Such measures sabotage the much needed efforts now to give a morale and spiritual undergirding to society. Respectfully, Fred Pierce Corson, Resident Bishop.

The next one reads:

In view of House Bill No. 725 which would legalize bingo for religious groups, may I say on behalf of the 625 Baptist Churches in Pennsylvania that our churches are unalterably opposed to such legislation.

Nor a single one of our churches would condone or use bingo. From our viewpoint bingo is gambling and we feel it would be tragic misfortune to have the church become a member of the gambling fraternity. Respectfully yours, Benjamin P. Browne, Executive Secretary of the Pennsylvania Baptist Convention.

Mr. FINNERTY. Mr. Speaker, I listened to this debate here on the floor, and I feel that the gentleman who opposed this bill evidently never attended a bingo game. The way this bill is written, as the Chairman ably stated, it is a protection around the racketeers, and professional gamblers so they will not take hold of it. I feel where the crowd is small, particularly in a small town it brings about a community spirit, it brings people together.

I would say as far as the Floor Leader on this side is concerned that you have to pay those who conduct the games, that I have attended hundreds of games where nobody received a penny; it was given for charity, and I ask you Members of the House to support this bill. I feel that the women and the children who attend these games and the young men and the soldiers when they come back, will know that they have a place to get together, and under circumstances that will know where they are, where they are safe. If you do not give them some kind of sport you will have them going to places where they should not go. I ask you Members of this House to support this bill and to give the people who love this innocent game a chance to play it.

Mr. DENNISON. Mr. Speaker, I just wish to call the attention of the Members of the House to the provision of this bill which provides that bingo must be advertised in two papers of the county and also in the legal journal. I submit to you that the postal laws now forbid the circulation of any newspaper having any reference to a lottery. Therefore, I believe the advertising provision of this bill would be nulified by a Federal law.

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, there seems to be a lot of confusion on this bill, and I would like to ask the sponsor if he will put this bill on the postponed calendar until we have a chance to study it for a couple of days.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 40

Mr. GOODLING. Mr. Speaker, I call up House Resolution No. 40, Printer's No. 342, on page 35 of today's calendar.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 14, 1945.

Since the organization of this General Assembly, the Game Commission and the Fish Commission have been the objects of adverse criticism and various resolutions have been introduced requesting investigations of the conduct of their work.

In his address to the General Assembly at the time of the convening of this session, his Excellency the Governor stated that the idea of "combining the two commissions had been suggested" which leads to the conclusion that others think that the game and fish situation in Pennsylvania could be improved.

The criticism of, and the abuse directed at these two commissions must have some basis, and even though the facts upon which that basis is constructed may be erroneous, it is still sufficient to raise a doubt as to the efficiency of these two very important parts of the State Government.

If the criticisms are justifiable, a change should be made. If they are not, then both commissions are entitled to the support of the General Assembly and to its stamp of approval.

For their protection and for a renewal of the faith of the people in the efficiency of the administration of these important commissions, a full investigation should be made; therefore be it

Resolved, That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby requests the Joint State Government Commission to make a thorough investigation of the Game Commission and the Fish Commission of the Commonwealth, and of their manner of administering the laws of the Commonwealth relating to game and fish, of the manner of re-stocking the game and fish life, and of the establishing of closed seasons, and to study and make a comparison of the work and conduct of similar commissions or departments in other states, and to make a full and complete report of their study and investigation to the General Assembly not later than March 1, 1947, accompanied by such recommendations concerning any change in the administration of the matters now under the supervision and control of the Game Commission and the Fish Commission that they decide should be made.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, this resolution to investigate unfortunately carries with it statements which seem to indicate that there is a foregone conclusion. On page 2 they urge for protection and for a renewal of the faith of the people in the efficience of the administration of these important commissions, a full investigation should be made.

You have there a direct charge that the people have lost faith in these commissions. If you have reached a conclusion, what is the use of an investigation? If you are going to have an investigation why do you declare to the people of the Commonwealth that the public has lost faith in these two bodies? This resolution is unfair to the commission; it should be rephrased, it should be an impartial statement and it should not condemn these two commissions in advance of the investigation, which this resolution does.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

A division being called for, ninety-one Members having voted in the affirmative and sixty-seven in the negative, the question was determined in the affirmative and the resolution was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

It was concurred in.

FORMER MEMBER WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair welcomes to the House this evening a former Member, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Joseph Ominsky.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. MARTIN L. MARTIN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the house.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to speak briefly on the bills, now in the Mines and Mining Committee where they have remained securely buried since practically the first few days of this session. We have been in session here for over two months and there has not been one bit of action which would bring these bills to the floor so the residents of the hard coal regions could be given some protection from the ruthless mine operators who have been destroying property for years.

These bills are not a political measure. They were introduced by two members from Luzerne County—one Democrat and one Republican. They have the backing of all groups of people in the hard coal fields except possibly those whose benefit from this ruthless destruction of property and even life.

Only last Friday a school building in the solid Republican town of Forty Fort was damaged by a mine cave. Schools and homes and streets in West Pittston, Forty Fort and Wyoming, all solidly Republican communities, have been damaged. The same thing has happened in other municipalities which lean to the Democratic side or which swing from side to side in elections. What I want to emphasize that these mine operators don't care who they hurt, just so they make their profits in a ruthless manner.

As a resident of Ashley I would like to give a personal experience. My home has been damaged. The school where I learned my lessons as a boy has been damaged. The street on which I live has been torn apart. The house of God that I attend each Sunday has been desecrated. There seems to be no limit to what these men will do to make a dollar.

There is not one reason—not a single one—why these bills shouldn't be reported to the floor and acted upon. The only people who oppose such bills are the ruthless coal operators and their representatives. Any others who side with them in the matter are against the best interests of the common people.

In other words, those who are not with us are against us. There is no middle ground in this matter. I have said that churches, homes, schools, streets, and sewers have been destroyed. Further than that, even human life is not safe. All of you read in the newspapers not so long ago about the little two year old girl, whose father was fighting for his country in the Pacific, was swallowed up by the earth as she was toddling along with her aunt.

Is there any man in this room who would arise and say there is nothing that can be done about this? Is there any man who dares to say that the places of worship in the hard coal regions should not be safe from the desecrations of these people who have no conscience?

Is there any man who would remember his oath of office and then say that such things are inconsequential and that in the state of Pennsylvania human rights are less important than property rights?

In conclusion, I want to say that this is not a political speech. It is a plea that this great body show that it is not controlled by any group of men; that entrenched wealth cannot dictate the actions of this group.

Gentlemen, the choice is yours.

INTERROGATION

Mr. GRANT asked and obtained unanimous consent to interrogate the vice chairman of the Liquor Control Committee.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Pike permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DEPUY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GRANT. I understand, Mr. Speaker, that Mr. Lyons, the chairman of your committee, is not present in the hall of the House this evening, and I would like to ask you whether or not the chairman, Mr. Lyons, handed over to you House Bill 626, House Bill 275 and House Bill 236 for you to bring before the Liquor Control Board for its consideration?

Mr. DEPUY. He did not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GRANT. That is all.

Mr. Speaker, I spoke at length on these three bills last Tuesday night, and I want to say that this is further evidence of the arbitrary high-hatedness on the part of Mr. Lyons, the chairman of the Liquor Control Committee. I told him that unless something was done in regard to these three bills I would be constrained to offer a resolution to discharge the committee. I am going to wait until the chairman comes back next week to see what consideration he gives to the bills, and in all fairness to the members of the Liquor Control Committee before I offer such a resolution.

The Chaplain, Rev. EDWIN S. WALLACE, D. D., offered the following prayer;

O Thou whose life is the light of men enlighten us as to the strength and beauty of Thy nature and character, and persuade us to take seriously Thy direction for the conduct of our lives: "While ye have the light, believe in the light, that ye may be the children of light." "Thy word is light," and they who walk in it will not stumble, for they have the light of life and the darkness can not put it out.

As we go on in life help us to hold the faith that however dark the clouds the light will break through and the road be so plainly marked that no wayfarer need lose it.

This is our prayer for our nation and our state, for our President, our Governor and our Lieutenant-Governor, and for all authorities civil and military who have been commissioned for great service during these testing times. May each be conscious that he bears a higher commission than man can give, for all authority and power is of God.

We thank Thee for our great country and our good government. Help us to keep both great and good by our fidelity to God's eternal law of righteousness.

And to Thy name, O God, be all praise, world without end. Amen.

HOUSE RESOLUTION REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

He also presented an extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives which was twice read as follows and referred to the Committee on Forests and Waters, Game and Fish:

INVESTIGATION OF THE GAME AND FISH COMMISSION

In the House of Representatives, March 19, 1945.

Since the organization of this General Assembly, the Game Commission and the Fish Commission have been the objects of adverse criticism and various resolutions have been introduced requesting investigations of the conduct of their work.

In his address to the General Assembly at the time of the convening of this session, His Excellency, The Governor, stated that the idea of "combining the two commissions had been suggested" which leads to the conclusion that others think that the game and fish situation in Pennsylvania could be improved.

The criticism of, and the abuse directed at these two commissions must have some basis, and even though the facts upon which that basis is constructed may be erroneous, it is still sufficient to raise a doubt as to the efficiency of those two very important parts of the State Government.

If the criticisms are justifiable, a change should be made. If they are not, then both commissions are entitled to the support of the General Assembly and to its stamp of approval.

For their protection and for a renewal of the faith of the people in the efficiency of the administration of these important commissions, a full investigation should be made; thereofore be it

Resolved, That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby requests the Joint State Government Commission to make a thorough investigation of the Game Commission and the Fish Commission of the Commonwealth, and of their manner of administering the laws of the Commonwealth relating to game and fish, of the manner of restocking the game and fish life, and of the establishing of closed seasons, and to study and make a comparison of the work and conduct of similar commissions or departments in other states, and to make a full and complete report of their study and investigation to the General Assembly not later than March 1, 1947, accompanied by such recommendations concerning any change in the administration of the matters now under the supervision and control of the Game Commission and the Fish Commission that they decide should be made.

HOUSE CONCURS IN RESOLUTION RECALLING FROM THE GOVERNOR SENATE BILL No. 123

He also presented communication from the House of Representatives informing the Senate that the House has concurred in resolution from the Senate as follows:

In the Senate, March 26, 1945.

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That Senate Bill No. 123, entitled:

He also informed the Senate that the House has concurred in resolution from the Senate as follows:

ADVOCATING ESTABLISHMENT OF WORLD CAPITAL OF THE UNITED NATIONS IN PHILADELPHIA

In the Senate, March 12, 1945.

Whereas, Philadelphia is the birthplace of the Declaration of Independence, "that title-deed of the human race," and

Whereas, the loftiest ideology of Democracy was born on the soil of Pennsylvania and in the City of Brotherly Love, setting into motion dynamic forces that became the torchbreaers of mankind and shapers of its destiny, and

Whereas, the eternal principles enunciated in the Declaration of Independence permeate and cement the United Nations in their sacred quest for a lasting peace, and

Whereas, the coming victory of the United Nations in the present global struggle and the ensuing peace will make the Declaration of Independence not only the heritage of America but that of the entire world, and

Whereas, on April 25, 1945 there will be held in San Francisco, California a conference of 39 nations to create a pact to make secure the future peace of the world, and

Whereas, Philadelphia, once the capital of the United States, is thus ideologically and historically eminently suited to become the World Capital of Peace, the permanent home of the United Nations and the nerve-center of the world-machinery of peace, and

Whereas, proposals have been put forth advocating Philadelphia as the World Capital of the United Nations and the Independence Hall as the theme-center of a beautifully landscaped mall leading to the Delaware River Bridge Plaza, the latter proposal in complete harmony with the elaborate plans of Independence Hall Association, and

Whereas, aforesaid proposals have received the fervent approvel of Pennsylvania's citizenry with such eminent Pennsylvanians in its vanguard as Governor Martin, U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey and Francis J. Myers, Congressmen Michael J. Bradley and many other members of the Pennsylvania Congressional Delegation, Mayor Bernard Samuel, outstanding civic leaders and representatives of historic, patriotic, fraternal, business and labor organizations, and

Whereas, it is urgent that the aforesaid proposals receive local, national and international attention as a prerequisite to their favorable consideration, now therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), that the General Assembly of Pennsylvania join forces with all advocates of the aforementioned proposals by

1. Memorializing the President of the United States, U. S. Secretary of State and the members of the United States Delegation to the forthcoming San Francisco Conference of the United Nations to advocate the establishment of the World Capital of the United Nations on the soil of Pennsylvania and in the City of Brotherly Love

2. Viewing with favor the proposal for the construction of a landscaped mall leading from Independence Hall to Delaware River Bridge Plaza and the suggested grouping of the buildings of the United Nations Council around our Shrine of Liberty

3. Memorializing the United States Senators from Pennsylvania and the Congressional Delegation from Pennsylvania to initiate and support all Federal Legislation that may be required for the accomplishment of the aforementioned proposals

4. Expressing its readiness to enact measures, if any may be required, that will be conducive to the execution of the plans embodied in the aforementioned proposals.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. DENT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President and members of the Senate, I intend to present to the Senate two original resolutions. The one is a resolution calling upon the General Assembly of Pennsylvania to rescind the action taken in 1943, when, through hasty action upon the part of the House and the Senate, we passed a resolution calling upon the Congress of the United States to adopt a constitutional amendment limiting federal taxes to twenty-five per cent. In conjunction with fifteen other states, that resolution passed in Pennsylvania, was sent over to the Governor's desk and the Governor, in his wisdom, refused to place his stamp of approval upon this obnoxious piece of legislative scullduggery. The fifteen other states have before them resolutions rescinding the action taken. The state of Arkansas has already passed a rescinding resolution. The State of New York, last week, under a Republican House and Senate and a Republican Governor, refused to pass this resolution, not the rescinding but the original resolution.

Before I present these resolutions I would like to say to the members of the Senate that some of you must have at some time during the last couple of years read a little concerning the results that might attain if this particular resolution would be put through the Congress of the United States.

I have here before me some statements contained in the Congressional record under the right of Extension of Remarks, by the Honorable Wright Patman, of Texas. I would like to read just a little from them. I have here the remarks of Stanley Dixon, the able commentator of the Mutual Broadcasting System, and he says, and I quote only in part:

"There is something State legislatures must not do, and that is to adopt a resolution favoring a proposed amendment to the Constitution which would limit the income tax to 25 percent. The Committee for Constitutional Government is promoting the plan, one of the most dangerous ever conceived. It would mean that millionaires who now pay about $800,000 on a $1,000,000 income would only pay $250,000, while people with small incomes would pay at least one-quarter of their income; a man with a $2,000 income who now pays about $175 would have to pay $500 with no exemptions. Remember that this would be a glorious windfall for the war profiteers who have made incredible billions of profits out of this war."

"The loss in revenue due to this amendment would be so tremendous that the Government would have to follow one of two courses: either impose a large sales tax on everything, including food" and clothing or "perhaps a twenty per cent tax" overall "to cover the cost of government"—all pensions to veterans would be stopped and all rights included in the G. I. Bill would necessarily be stopped. All social security must be abolished. All veterans' hospitals would have to be closed. "The Committee for Constitutional Government is trying to get thirty-two states to pass this resolution. It is being done very quietly."

I can testify as to how quietly it was done, when it passed unanimously, and those of us who ought to have known better sat idly by and allowed this resolution to go through. I feel ashamed of the part I played in that, and I feel that I owe an apology to the people of the Commonwealth, as well as the people of this great nation of ours, that I would sit in the Senate of Pennsylvania and allow such a devastating attack to be made upon the constitutional rights of the people of this great nation.

I have also some remarks here from the Honorable Wright Patman, and I only quote in part:

"The searchlight must be kept upon this group. These Fascist-minded lobbyists who seek to throw the main tax burden upon the low-income group must be ferreted out and their efforts exposed in every State capitol in which they set up their lobbying shop. I have named the leaders of this group many times before, but I will name them once again, just to keep the record clear. They are Frank Gannett, pious publisher from New York State, who seeks to reduce his millionaire's taxes to a minimum of 25 percent; Samuel B. Pettingill, able orator and former Member of this body, who uses the cloak of the Constitution as a shield for his real schemes; Edward A. Rumely, convicted German agent in World War No. 1, whom many think is the real brain behind the activities of this group who seek to lead us into the ways of fascism; and, lastly, the aging S. S. McClure, once reputable author and publisher, who, after studying fascism 2 years in Italy, let himself become the tool and "front" man for the spiderlike activities of Rumely and his group of unknown associates."

I say that even if you intend to oppose immediate consideration of this resolution, I am going to ask for a roll call so that a record may be made of the men who know the problems before our government today and are willing to stand up and be counted.

Mr. President, I present to the Chair the following resolutions and ask their adoption.

RESOLUTIONS

URGING THAT HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION No. 50, ADOPTED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE REGULAR SESSION OF 1943, BE RESCINDED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Mr. DENT offered the following resolution which was twice read as follows:

In the Senate, March 27, 1945.

Whereas, Concurrent Resolution No. 50 was adopted by the General Assembly at the Regular Session of 1943, and

Whereas, The purport of this Resolution was misunderstood by various members of the House of Representatives and the Senate, therefore be it

Resolved, That the adoption of House Concurrent Resolution No. 50 by the General Assembly of the Regular Session of 1943 be hereby rescinded by the General Assembly at the Regular Session of 1945.

REQUEST THAT RULE 39 BE SUSPENDED

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection.

Mr. HEYBURN. I object to immediate consideration, for one reason only—no member on this side has seen the resolution, and it seems to me, Mr. President, that certainly the resolution should be read by a member of the Senate voting on it; therefore I object to immediate consideration.

The PRESIDENT. The resolution is referred to the Committee on Rules.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I ask for a roll call.

Mr. HEYBURN. I refer to the Chair Rule 39 of the Senate on page 26, which provides, concerning a resolution of this type, when immediate consideration is objected to, that the resolution be referred without debate to a proper committee.

MEMORIALIZING CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES NOT TO AMEND THE CONSTITUTION RELATIVE TO TAXES ON INCOME, GIFTS AND INHERITANCES

Mr. DENT offered the following resolution which was twice read as follows:

In the Senate, March 27, 1945.

A resolution memorializing the Congress of the United States not to amend the Constitution of the United States relative to taxes on incomes, gifts, and inheritances

Whereas, There is now pending in the Congress of the United States proposed legislation to repeal the sixteenth amendment of the Constitution of the United States and to amend said Constitution relative to taxes on incomes, gifts, and inheritances by providing for a limitation of taxes thereon to twenty-five percent; and

Whereas, The people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are opposed to such amendment to the Constitution of the United States being passed at this time, therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Congress of the United States be and is hereby memorialized and petitioned to defeat the efforts now being made to repeal the sixteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States and the effort to submit a proposed amendment which would limit the maximum rate of gift, income, and estate taxes to twenty-five percent, be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be, and he is hereby, directed to forward a duly certified copy of this resolution to the Senate of the United States and to each Pennsylvania Member thereof.

REQUEST THAT RULE 39 BE SUSPENDED

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I object to immediate consideration of this resolution for the reasons I outlined a while ago.

The PRESIDENT. The resolution is referred to the Committee on Rules.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lehigh.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Lehigh permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TALLMAN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. HOLLAND. I ask the gentleman from Lehigh, did he not get requests from the Pennsylvania Real Estate Board, the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board and the Harrisburg Real Estate Board, that a public hearing be held on this bill?

Mr. TALLMAN. Mr. President, I can not answer that question accurately at this time. I do not know whether I received such a request from any or all of the groups that the Senator from Allegheny inquires about.

I should like also to add that if I did receive such requests, they came to my attention after the bill had been reported from the committee on State Government.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. President, the president of the Pennsylvania Real Estate Board has just informed me that he has written asking for a public hearing on this bill. I believe that we owe that courtesy, at least, to an organization of its standing in the community and in the state, and Mr. Kane, of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, informed me he joined in the request.

MOTION THAT BILL BE RECOMMITTED

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. President, I move that House Bill No. 115, be recommitted to the Committee on State Government, for the purpose of a public hearing.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. TALLMAN. I should like to clear up one matter relative to the motion that has just been made, Mr. President, and that is that for several weeks this bill has been on the Calendar and has been regularly put over Shortly after the bill appeared on the Calendar the gentleman from Allegheny, and one or two other members of the Senate, made remarks on the floor concerning the matter of having a public hearing. There was no effort made during all of that time to have the bill recommitted and put back in the possession of the committee for that purpose, and it seems a little bit strange that at this late moment, when the bill has now been on the Calendar all this time, when the matter has been so frequently discussed on the floor, that this should be the first occasion that a motion of this nature should be made relative to the recommitment of this bill for the purpose of a public hearing.

I should also like to draw to the attention of the Senate, relative to this motion, the fact that at the time the bill was discussed in the Committee on State Government, all of these matters which it is now proposed shall be brought to the attention of the committee and of the Senate, through a public hearing, were fully considered and the membership of the committee was appraised of the feeling and the thought of these people who are opposing House Bill No. 115.

I merely point these things out, to suggest that I think it can serve no useful purpose to have this bill recommitted to any committee for the purpose of a public hearing, because not only the members of the committee, I think, have been fully cognizant of all of these matters of objection, but I believe too that in this long period in which the bill has been on the Calendar, there is not one man on the floor of this Senate who does not know full well and quite completely all of the things that would be said and drawn to the attention of the committee at such a hearing.

Mr. HOLLAND. I want to inform the Chairman of the Committee on State Government that there was a motion made when this bill first appeared on the Calendar to recommit it, by the gentleman from Allegheny county, Senator Barr.

One of the reasons why I did not move to recommit this bill, Mr. President, was that I thought I was extending courtesy to the Chairman of the Committee who had received the direct communications from these organizations for a public hearing. I do not think any of us here like to see a request from such a good organization in the state of Pennsylvania, of this type, turned down. They have a lot at stake and I do believe that they want a public hearing because just as late as fifteen minutes ago the president of the Pennsylvania Real Estate Association advised me that they still insisted on a public hearing.

Therefore I am going to ask that the members of the Senate extend this courtesy. I think it is due them. I think that is one place where we as Senators should always oblige a legitimate organization, the right to have a public hearing.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. President, I ask for a roll call.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. HOLLAND and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—14

Barr,	DiSilvestro,	Jaspan,	McGinnis,
Cox,	Gourley,	Klein,	Rosenfeld,
Crider,	Haluska,	McCreesh,	Stiefel,

So the question was determined in the negative.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I intend to make my remarks on this bill as brief as possible. I do believe in being consistent in the type of legislation that we vote on, both in the Senate and the House here in Harrisburg.

You probably are all aware, from reading the newspapers, of the financial situation of the city of Pittsburgh, which is due entirely to a reduction in the assessments in the last ten years, from $1,200,000,000 down to $985,000,000 at present. We are here asking the General Assembly to allow us further taxing powers in the city of Pittsburgh, in order to be able to balance the budget and not keep in force a trick law which is now some 82 per cent on the real estate owner and small home owner in the city of Pittsburgh.

For the information of the members of the Senate, I have just found over the past week-end that if we pass this bill, also included for tax exemption under it will be the fraternity houses at the University of Pittsburgh, which are located in probably the finest part, the highest real estate and land assessed value part of the city of Pittsburgh.

Then again, if you pass this bill, you are assessing the interests of private home owners, while those people are paying their taxes, and again I think that is unfair.

At the present time in the city of Pittsburgh, in institutions such as the Y.M.C.A., the Y.M.H.A., the K. of C., and so on, they are exempt from taxation by the city, other than the part they use for commercial enterprise—I am speaking of cafeterias and restaurants, which are in direct competition with other business houses in the neighborhood.

To cite you an example, on Wood Street in Pittsburgh there is located the Keystone Hotel, and right across the street is the Y.M.C.A. They both are in the same type of business. The Keystone Hotel is one of our largest taxpayers.

If we pass this bill the whole Y.M.C.A., not the part that is exempted now, which is the part used for the functioning of the Y.M.C.A. in providing character-building, and so forth, which I think should be free from taxation, but the restaurants and lodging quarters which are in direct competition with the hotel across the street, that too would be free from taxation.

Several weeks ago the Governor of the Commonwealth, Governor Martin, made a speech at York, Pennsylvania, in which he said he was somewhat tired of municipalities coming to Harrisburg with tin cups in their hands, looking for relief. I would like to say to the members on the majority side that it is legislation such as this which causes municipalities to come to Harrisburg with, as the Governor puts it, tin cups in their hands, for relief.

We in the city of Pittsburgh are faced with a movement from the urban centers out into the boroughs and townships and we in the city are having to provide all the services to the boroughs and townships and get nothing in return in the way of taxation.

I ask the Members on my side to vote against this bill for those reasons.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I find it very difficult to vote against this bill. During the days of my youth I spent many happy days in a Y.M.C.A. I think they serve a fine purpose in many of the communities of this Commonwealth.

A rule of law from the inception of our Commonwealth has been that when a charity engages in private industry, in direct competition with private industry, it must bear the same burdens which private industry bears. I think that is a wise rule of law.

It is true that in Pittsburgh at this particular time the use of the dormitory facilities of the Y.M.C.A. and the use of the Y.M.C.A. cafteria would be an asset at this time, rather than a deficit. That situation, however, is not true except during this period of emergency.

I regret that I feel that I must vote against this bill for the reasons that I have given to you. Once we open the doors by changing a rule of law, it will be much easier in the future. I can envision situations at this time perhaps that seem far-fetched, and yet we know many instances where people of wealth have left bequests to institutions such as the Y.M.C.A. and if they were permitted, without the burden of taxation, to engage in direct competition with industries of the same nature, a great injustice would be done.

Mr. DENT. I might say, members of the Senate, that there is nothing in this bill that restricts activities of these charitable organizations to their membership. Only recently, to make a test call, a group of Senators, sitting in a hotel room in Harrisburg, called the local Y.M.C.A. and, as I understand it, they were told there were rooms available and the price was $1.25 if you were a member and $1.50 if you were not a member.

I submit, members of the Senate, that type of activity should not be tax free. It is a direct commercial business and one that is in direct competition with that particular business in the same line that pays taxes.

None of us want to place any burdens on any charitable institution. Our laws are broad enough at present to allow them to escape unnecessary, burdensome taxes. When they indulge in charitable work only, those institutions are tax free; but there is no limit placed within this bill. The extent of the activities that they may indulge in may astound the gentleman of the Senate in a few years, if you pass this type of legislation, particularly in the large centers of population.

Personally, much as I regret to do so, I must, because I am trying to use my better judgment in the interest of the local taxpayers, I can see nothing else to do but to vote "no".

I think the greatest charitable institution in the world is the home—if there ever was a benevolent and charitable organization that is it, and we have not done anything to exempt the man who has a home with ten children, and I think he is entitled to it.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

(During the calling of the roll the following occurred:)

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I feel it encumbent upon me to make a confession—this is Holy Week, a good time to make a confession. I thought I should explain my vote.

I know confessions generally are made in private and this is in public, I know that. I am opposed to tax exemption of any kind; I am opposed to tax free bonds and all the rest of it, and if I were following entirely my own principles I would vote against this bill.

The confession is that my life-long friendship with Senator Edmonds impels me to vote "aye", because I know his heart is wrapped up in this bill and he treasures it above all things, and therefore I am sacrificing perhaps principle to friendship.

I thought I ought to make that confession.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 334, as follows:

An Act to provide for the appointment of election officers to fill vacancies caused by the expiration of terms of election officers imposing duties on County Boards of Elections and conferring powers on courts of quarter sessions

Whereas section 14 of Article VIII of the Constitution of the Commonwealth provides that judges and inspectors of election shall be chosen annually and under the election system of the State such officers should be elected at the municipal election conducted only every second year in the odd-numbered year and

Whereas the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Dauphin has decided that the provisions of said section 14 are still effective and that the legal term of election officers is one year and was not lengthened to two years by the schedule to the Constitution adopted by the electors in 1909 when the system of elections was changed and

Whereas election officers are elected in odd-numbered years and their legal terms of office commence on the first Monday of January in each even-numbered year and expire on the first Monday of January of the succeeding odd-numbered year and the Court of Quarter Sessions of Dauphin County has held such officers serve during the second year only as de facto officers and

Whereas pending the adoption of a suitable amendment to the Constitution to provide for the lengthening of the terms of election officers it is important that legal terms of office be provided for election officers during odd-numbered years therefore

Section 1 Until such time as the Constitution of the Commonwealth has been amended to provide for the lengthening of the term of election officers it shall be the duty of the County Board of Elections of each county on the first Monday of December of each even-numbered year to petition the Court of Quarter Sessions to appoint election officers for the various election districts in the county to fill the vacancies which will be caused by the expiration of the legal terms of the duly elected election officers on the first Monday of January next ensuing such appointees to hold office for one year

Section 2 The County Board of Elections may file only one such petition covering all election districts in the county or may file separate petitions for the election districts of particular municipalities townships and wards

In such petition or petitions the County Board of Elections shall petition the court to appoint the election officers who served as such during the year in which the petition is presented except in the case of election officers who have died resigned or become disqualified or who refuse to serve in which cases the County Board of Elections shall suggest the name of some other person or persons for appointment who shall be members of the same political party as the election officer or officers who has died resigned become disqualified or refuse to serve copies of such petitions shall be furnished by the County Board of Elections to the county chairmen of the political parties of the persons named in the petition for appointment not later than the day on which such petitions are presented to the court

Section 3 It shall be the duty of the Court of Quarter Sessions on a day fixed by it to fill the vacancies caused by the expiration of the terms of office of election officers in all election districts of the county by appointing the persons named in said petition or petitions or in its discretion such other person or persons as it deems proper after consideration of all matters presented to it to hold office until the first Monday of January of the next even-numbered year but in all cases those appointed in each district shall be members of the same political party as the election officers whose terms have expired

Section 4 This act shall expire when and if the Constitution has been amended to authorize the election of election officers for a longer term than one year and legislation shall have been enacted to carry said constitutional amendment into effect

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 349, as follows:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Property and Supplies for payment to Somerset County Institution District to reimburse said district on account of certain property damages under agreement between the Commonwealth and the institution district

Whereas The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by an Act of Assembly approved the twenty-ninth day of September one thousand nine hundred thirty-eight was authorized to take over without consideration the property of all mental institutions conducted by the various county institution districts with a provision for the division of any lands used both for mental patients and indigent persons and

Whereas The Somerset County Institution District owned a large area of land upon which were erected valuable buildings for the care of indigents and mental patients and for farm purposes and the district was conducting a farm and other industries and was maintaining its own patients and others under contract from other counties and

Whereas Prior to the assumption of control by the Commonwealth of the mental institution the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission condemned a portion of the premises and constructed its highway over the land to the great injury of the Somerset County Institution District in its ownership management and control of the same and

Whereas Viewers duly appointed upon evidence furnished by the Commission and the Somerset County Institution District found that the property had been damaged by the construction of the highway and awarded damages in the sum of fourteen thousand three hundred twenty-five dollars ($14,325.00) to be paid to the parties entitled thereto (to which sum the addition of an amount of six hundred fifty dollars ($650.00) should be added for land taken for a restaurant and service station being the value agreed upon for same) and

Whereas It was understood and agreed between the Department of Welfare and the Somerset County Institution District that said amount of fourteen thousand nine hundred seventy-five dollars ($14,975.00) should belong to the Someset County Institution District in the settlement and division of the property but the viewers' report was not confirmed as it was determined that the Commonwealth and not the Institution District could enforce payment of the damages therefore

Section 1 The sum of fourteen thousand nine hundred seventy-five dollars ($14,975.00) is hereby appropriated to the Department of Property and Supplies for payment and return to the Somerset County Institution District of the amount awarded as damages for the taking by the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission of the lands of the Somerset County Institution District before the partial taking over by the Commonwealth of the property of said district and which it had been agreed between the Commonwealth and the Institution District should belong and be returned to the district Payment of this appropriation shall be made on requisition of the Secretary of Property and Supplies with the approval of the Department of Justice

Section 2 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill in a friendly interrogation.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Somerset permit himself to me interrogated?

Mr. EALY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, is it not true that the property damages that the gentleman seeks to collect for were caused by the building of the turnpike.

Mr. EALY. That is right. These damages were caused by construction of the turnpike.

Mr. DENT. Is it not true that the gentleman from Somerset seeks to get the money for the damages by recovering from the state of Pennsylvania?

Mr. EALY. The state of Pennsylvania, Mr. President, is the only one that can get the damages from the Turnpike Commission and it is proposed that the Department of Property and Supplies collect them from the Turnpike Commission and turn them over. The Department of Property and Supplies has already made demand for the money.

Mr. DENT. Then will it be the understanding that Somerset county will not receive any moneys unless the Department of Property and Supplies does collect from the turnpike?

Mr. EALY. The Senator from Westmoreland will note from the last part of this that requisition is to be made with the approval of the Department of Justice. I am not sure we are going to get the money, even though this bill is passed. It will depend on the Department of Property and Supplies making requisition with the approval of the Department of Justice.

Mr. DENT. I am just trying to make it a matter of record that the intention of the bill is that the moneys will be reimbursed to the county or institution district of Somerset County only if the state recovers the money from the Turnpike Commission. I do not believe we ought to be asked to vote for this bill, much as we want to help Somerset County be reimbursed unless the Turnpike Commission is going to be charged with the damages they have incurred.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I could go into a long discussion about this business, but the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania came in and took from the county of Somerset $750,000 worth of property. This is a mere drop in the bucket. We sought to collect from the Turnpike Commission and the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania determined that because an act of 1938 was passed ten days before the Turnpike Commission had located a road, that the only one who could collect from the Turnpike Commission was the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. An agreement had been made between the Welfare Department and the turnpike authorities that we were to have this money, and a check had actually been drawn, but it was drawn to the order of the Commonwealth and the Somerset institution district and county commissioners, and it could not be used in that form. We attempted to collect as a county, but the Supreme Court said the only one that could get this money was the Commonwealth because the Court said—wrongly I think—that title was in the Commonwealth at the time the turnpike was located.

I do not expect to get this money unless the Commonwealth gets it from the Turnpike Commission. If the Commonwealth will pay it, I will take it, but I do not expect to get it except from the Turnpike Commission, and I think the Turnpike Commissioners are willing to pay it over because it is a very small thing. The Welfare Department took not only our land but they took all our cattle, they took a large dairy herd, they took hogs, machinery, turkeys and chickens and everything else and we did not get a cent, we have not got it yet, and even as to a part of the property tentatively set aside for the county, up to this time they have not given us a deed for it, and we are paying the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the maintenance of indigents and are not getting rental for land that was taken from us.

Mr. DENT. I am satisfied, Mr. President, that this is just a vehicle to be used to allow the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, through the proper department, to reimburse Somerset county institution district if it receives the money from the Turnpike Commission.

With that understanding I would ask my colleagues to vote for this bill.

Shall the bill pass finally?

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I thought I should explain, at least to the members of our side in the Senate, the significance of the vote on this bill.

In 1941 we created a Parole Board and gave it certain powers over the question of parole. This bill is an invasion of those powers. Under certain circumstances it gives the right of veto to the trustees of Muncy. I understand that Muncy is a fine institution and that the Board of Trustees are on the job and doing a fine piece of work. I believe the question of parole is a question where the direct responsibility is with the Board of Parole and certainly in no way should their powers be diminished.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 525 on second reading, entitled:

An Act to further amend subsection (a) of section four of the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 2045) entitled "An act relating to the support of indigent persons publicly cared for or assisted providing for the support of such persons by certain relatives and for the recovery of public moneys expended for care and assistance from the property and estates of such persons providing for guardians of the person and property of such persons providing for the arrest and seizure and sale of the property of deserters and providing procedure" by providing that no security shall be required for assistance furnished in certain cases be recommitted to the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions.

Mr. TYLER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, as I understand, this bill removes the necessity for a person receiving relief to sign a bond which becomes a lien upon his property. It is a bill that we have been trying to pass, according to my recollection, since 1939.

I wondered what had happened when this bill appeared upon the Calendar, and I am very much afraid I will have to believe it was just something to fool the people with. I am very much disappointed in this motion to send this bill back to committee, because some of the members on this side whom I know would like to be recorded as voting against this motion have left the room, and out of common decency I would ask that this motion be withdrawn at this time, to be made tomorrow, if it is the intention to send the bill back to committee, in order that gentlemen like the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator McCreesh, who has always voted to remove this bond from the poor people, be given the privilege of voting one way or another upon this motion; he is not here at present; he was called away, and others too.

I do not see what harm can be done by letting this bill remain on the Calendar until tomorrow and then at least have a record vote upon it tomorrow, and I therefore ask the Republican Floor Leader to withdraw his motion and permit this bill to remain on the Calendar until tomorrow and then, of course, he can make the motion again when we have a full attendance.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I regret very much if any members have left the floor of the Senate, because we are on the second reading Calendar, but the business of the Senate must go on.

The information I get in connection with this bill is that it puts tremendous hardship on the Department of Public Assistance, and there is absolutely no estimate of the cost or anything else, there is no knowledge now that I know of concerning that in connection with this bill, and that is the reason for recommitting it, in order that some study could be made of it and some information gotten from the Department of Public Assistance.

Mr WOODWARD. Mr. President, we have so many Sergeants-at-Arms that this seems a good chance to use them, to gather in the delinquent Democrats, and I therefore suggest that a Sergeant-at-Arms be sent out to gather in the Democrats.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I suggest that the matter go to vote. I am here announcing that the vote of the Democratic side is unanimous, that is, the members elected as Democrats are against sending this bill back to committee, whether the men are here or not—you do not need to send the Sergeant-at-Arms out to get them.

The PRESIDENT. If the gentleman wants those remarks on the record he will have to repeat them, because the Senate was at ease.

Mr. HEYBURN. I do not think the gentleman wants his speech on the record, if he takes time to think about it, as he announced the vote of the Democratic Senators before the roll was even called. Even in its balmiest days the Republicans would not have done that.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I suggest that just very recently we voted on some tax bills—we will not go into that matter further unless the gentleman wants us to do so—but I repeat, Mr. President, that the vote of the Democratic Caucus is unanimously against sending this bill back to committee and entirely in favor of passage of this particular piece of legislation.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

(A voice vote having been taken the question was determined in the affirmative.)

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I have been trying to get the floor to speak on this motion, but it has already passed, so I will forego that, but I would like to have a roll call to make it a matter of record. In the meantime, I did ask the Republican Floor Leader to hold the bill over until tomorrow because I have a bad cold and I would have liked to talk on this bill, but for some unknown reason they will not even show me the courtesy of keeping this bill on the Calendar for one additional day.

We have in the past shown many courtesies in this Chamber. When men were called away or back to their homes, we carried bills over on the Calendar, and I would like to keep this bill on the Calendar for a day or so, until I gather some data to give to this Assembly.

For many years I have worked in favor of this bill and I have been very much interested in it, as has been my colleague from Luzerne, who is interested in this measure, and many others, and certainly out of courtesy you could keep the bill on the Calendar one additional day, for those of us who are interested, to prove to you that it should be passed at this session, but if the Majority Party takes the stand it can not and will not extend that courtesy all that I can say is that sometime we may repay it.

The PRESIDENT. There are two requests before the Senate, that the bill be permitted to remain on the Calendar for another day, and if that is objected to, that the roll be called.

Mr. HALUSKA. As a matter of record, Mr. President, once again I ask that the bill go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. There is a request that the bill go over in order.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, a motion was presented to recommit this bill, and passed, and then a roll call was asked for. If I remember the procedure of the Senate, the bill is not in possession of the Senate and there is nothing on which to call the roll.

The PRESIDENT. Is there an objection to the roll being called?

Mr. HEYBURN. The motion was passed and carried, as I understand.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair did not hear the Senator requesting a roll call before the motion was passed.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, then no roll call is necessary, because if the motion is passed and carried it is finished business and the bill goes back back to committee. I am sorry there is no way I can accede to the request of the gentleman, but the bill is back in committee.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, if the gentleman from Delaware is sincere, and I think he is—he said he is sorry that he can not do anything about it to clarify the issue—

MOTION TO RECONSIDER VOTE BY WHICH SENATE BILL No. 525 PASSED SECOND READING

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I move that the vote by which Senate Bill No. 525 passed second reading be reconsidered.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I rise on a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Delaware will state his point of order.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, the gentleman from Cambria is out of order for the reason that the Senate is not in possession of the bill.

The PRESIDENT. The bill has been recommitted.

MOTION THAT VOTE BY WHICH SENATE BILL No. 525 WAS RECOMMITTED BE RECONSIDERED

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I move that the vote by which Senate Bill No. 525, Printer's Number 235, was recommitted, be reconsidered.

Mr. COX. I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. How did the gentleman from Westmoreland vote?

Mr. DENT. The record of the clerk will show. It was a voice vote and you can not record a voice vote.

The PRESIDENT. In order to have the motion of the gentleman from Westmoreland prevail he must say he voted "aye."

Mr. DENT. Will the President tell the Senate how I am recorded as voting?

The PRESIDENT. The Chair does not keep that record, as the Senator knows. According to the recollection of the Chair, the gentleman from Westmoreland is recorded as voting against recommitting the bill.

Mr. DENT. Am I so recorded, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman is not; it was a voice vote, as the gentleman from Westmoreland will remember.

Mr. DENT. Then, Mr. President, if it was a voice vote, I must be recorded as voting "aye" and I am entitled to make a motion to reconsider the vote by which Senate Bill No. 525 passed second reading.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is sorry but unless the gentleman from Westmoreland states he voted in favor of the motion to recommit, under the rules of the Senate the gentleman has no right to make his present motion.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I rise on a point of information.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Westmoreland will proceed.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, will the Clerk read the record and state to the Senate how I am recorded as voting?

The PRESIDENT. If the Clerk can answer that question—there is no record, is there, as to how the Senator from Westmoreland voted? The Chair gave the gentleman from Westmoreland the opportunity of saying how he voted.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, will the Clerk show from the record how Senator Barr is recorded as voting?

The PRESIDENT. There is no record.

Mr. DENT. Will the Clerk state from his record how Senator Heyburn is recorded as voting?

The PRESIDENT. For the information of the gentleman from Westmoreland, there is no record showing how any Senator voted.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, under the rules there must be a recorded vote on a motion made before the Senate and if there is no record, then a vote was not taken. I take that parliamentary stand.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is sorry to disagree with the gentleman from Westmoreland and declares the position of the gentleman from Westmoreland is not well taken.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, upon what record does the Chair overrule me when I ask from the floor how any man is recorded as voting; the Chair has advised there is no recorded vote, and if there is no recorded vote, how did the motion pass?

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Westmoreland knows the answer to that. We have had voice votes over five hundred times in this Senate.

Mr. DENT. That is all I want, Mr. President, to have the voice vote recorded.

The PRESIDENT. Does the gentleman from Westmoreland mean individually?

Mr. DENT. No, Mr. President. If it is recorded, am I to understand that every man in the Senate is recorded as voting "aye?"

The PRESIDENT. No, the record shows a majority of the Senators voted "aye."

Mr. DENT. What did the minority do?

The PRESIDENT. They voted "no."

Mr. DENT. Then upon the record it shows that the minority party voted "no"; is that correct?

The PRESIDENT. No; it shows that a minority of the Senators present voted "no."

Mr. DENT. I do not want to carry this thing any further, but if we are not recorded as voting, how can we take a position of asking for reconsideration of the vote?

The PRESIDENT. If the gentleman voted "aye" he may take that position.

Mr. DENT. If I am one of the ones included in the majority as voting "aye", I ask that the vote be reconsidered.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I think that this is just a bunch of foolishness. I think the Minority Floor Leader must know, but I would like to refer him to rule 16, at the top of page 12, covering reconsideration, which states: "Provided however, no motion for the reconsideration of any vote shall be in order after a bill, resolution, report, amendment or motion upon which the vote was taken shall have gone out of the possession of the Senate."

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I rise on a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Delaware will proceed.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, the bill is out of possession of the Senate and therefore the gentleman from Westmoreland is out of order when he makes a motion that the vote be reconsidered.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, will the Clerk read where it has been recorded that a vote was taken and it specifically says a vote was taken.

Mr. HEYBURN. The record will show it was a voice vote.

The PRESIDENT. If the gentleman from Delaware presses his objection the Chair will sustain him on two grounds, first, as the Chair previously has ruled, under rule 16 of the Senate, only a Senator who has voted with the majority may move for reconsideration of the vote and, secondly, the same rule also provides that no motion for reconsideration of any vote shall be in order after the bill shall have gone out of possession of the Senate.

The Chair further makes the suggestion, having ruled, is it not possible that the matter could be solved practically instead of raising all these parliamentary questions.

Mr. DENT. I agree, Mr. President; all I want is that our names be recorded as voting "no". We do not want anything else. We do not want any rule set aside or anything other than we want a record of the vote. There is only one recourse, and that is that there will be no more voice votes, we will have to ask to have the roll called, and we do not like to do that as it would delay action of the Senate, and we do not intend to do it, but you leave us no other alternative. We are entitled to be recorded on important legislation as voting either "yes" or "no."

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I think the confusion here arises from the fact that when the gentleman first took the floor, and when he was asked whether he voted with the majority or not, apparently he thought he had voted to recommit the bill, and then he indicated he had voted not to recommit the bill, which created some confusion.

I have no objection to a record vote, Mr. President, if it is in order, but under the rules of the Senate it is not in order, we are not in possession of the bill, and therefore we can not reconsider the vote.

How did the gentleman from Westmoreland intend to vote? Did he intend to vote to recommit the bill?

Mr. DENT. Is the gentleman from Delaware asking me? I merely stated that every man here wanted to be recorded as voting "no" before the vote was taken and we were not given the opportunity to be so recorded. That is the only thing I am objecting to. I do not care what you do.

Mr. HEYBURN. I might make the suggestion that the gentleman rise individually and say if they had the opportunity they would have voted "no", which will get them on the record.

Mr. DENT. I can think of another way to do that Mr. President, that is set aside the rule of the Senate requiring that a bill be in possession of a committee ten days before reconsideration, and then reconsider the bill and have it immediately come back on the floor of the Senate and then you fellows can send it back again and we will be recorded.

Mr. HEYBURN. We all know there are several parliamentarian ways of doing it.

MOTION THAT THE SENATE ADJOURN

Mr. WILSON. Mr. President, it is with deep regret that I make this motion, but it is provided by the rules that a motion to adjourn is always in order and I now move that the Senate do now adjourn until tomorrow.

The PRESIDENT. At what time?

Mr. WILSON. At three o'clock.

Mr. DENT. That is no way out of this particular dilemma. You can do anything you want when you are in a majority—they tried it in Germany and it did not work.

The PRESIDENT. Is there any second to the motion of the gentleman from Jefferson.

Mr. BARR. I can not do anything while that motion is before the Senate.

Mr. DENT. The motion has not been seconded.

The PRESIDENT. The motion has not been seconded. Is there any seconder to the motion of the gentleman from Jefferson.

Mr. CROWE. I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, there is some unfinished business before the Senate and I therefore oppose this motion that we adjourn. It seems to me this is a very trivial matter and that is no reason to shut up shop and go home while there is still work to be done. Just bear with us for about fifteen minutes or half an hour and we can complete our work.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I ask for a roll call.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. DENT and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—2

Crowe,	Wilson,

NAYS—43

Barr,	DiSilvestro,	Jones,	Stevenson,
Becker,	Ealy,	Kephart,	Stiefel,

MOTION THAT SENATE PROCEED WITH CONSIDERATION OF THE CALENDAR

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I move the Senate do now proceed with the consideration of the Calendar.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

Mr. DENT. In pursuance to the motion just made, that we proceed with the consideration of the Calendar, I ask that each individual Democratic Senator be recorded as voting "no" on the motion to recommit Senate Bill No. 525, Printer's No. 235, appearing on page 10 of today's Calendar.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection.

Mr. HEYBURN. It is very irregular and out of order and unconstitutional and un-everything-else in my judgment, but if they want to do it I have no objection.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, one thing it is not un-American.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the request? The Chair hears none. It will be so noted in the Legislative Journal.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 530, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Department of Justice to prescribe rules of practice for administrative departments, departmental administrative boards and commissions, independent administrative boards and commissions, officers and other agencies of the Commonwealth; authorizing such agencies to adopt rules; providing for the appointment of an Administrative Rules Committee and fixing its powers and duties; and imposing certain duties upon State officers and agencies.

And said bill having been read at length the second time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. DENT. I ask for a roll call and I ask the Democratic members to vote "no."

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I ask for a roll call.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. DENT and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—29

Becker,	Ealy,	Kephart,	Thomas,
Berger,	Farrell,	Letzler,	Troutman,
Blass,	Geltz,	Mallery,	Tyler,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing on final passage.

Baker, Commanding General of the Pennsylvania State Guard in the presence of the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives.

Will the House give its consent to conduct these ceremonies? The Chair hears no objection and consent is granted. The Governor will be so informed.

BETHEL HIGH SCHOOL WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair welcomes to the House this afternoon the Senior Class of Bethel High School, who are the guests of the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Swope.

FORMER MEMBER WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair welcomes to the House this afternoon a former Member, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Hon. Louis Menna.

MEMBER CONGRATULATED

The SPEAKER. Hon. Ellwood J. Turner received a telegram yesterday from his son Fred (one of the twins) that he arrived at Camp Kilmer yesterday after two and one-half years service in the European and African Theatre of Operations.

Fred is one of three sons serving in military forces overseas. He has been overseas since Casablanca—two and one-half years ago.

Fred is a 1st Lieutenant in the Signal Corps. His twin Jack returned to this country a few months ago. His other brother is in the Navy in the South Pacific.

The Chair congratulates the gentleman from Delaware upon the receipt of such good news.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. ANDREWS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I desire to make a proposal designed to conserve your time. If there is any objection upon the part of any member on either side of the House the proposal will be withdrawn.

The Democratic Members desire a caucus. There are many bills on the third reading calendar that the Democratic caucus has endorsed. I would suggest that it is quite all right, as far as we are concerned, unless some of the Members on my side or your side object, that while the Democrats are caucusing the House proceed to act upon the measures concerning which there has been agreement. You can pass a great many bills while we are caucusing.

That is a proposal, as I say, but if any of the Members on this side of the House object or any Member on the other side objects we will not do it that way, but that is my sugestion. If we do not do it that way, we will have to work just that much longer when we come back because we have got to caucus, we have important matters to consider.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I am most happy to cooperate with the gentleman. I know that the men on this side feel confident that we can work out the calendar while the gentlemen on the other side are debating many of the issues, and it is perfectly agreeable to me unless there is objection from any of the members on this side.

Mr. ANDREWS. Then, Mr. Speaker, I would suggest that we get a sample roll call on a motion to suspend Rule 57, I think it is, so you can legally act on some of your appropriation bills. The motion to suspend that rule will give us a sample roll call to be used for the rest of the afternoon.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I have no objection to the suspension of Rule 57 for the specific purpose, of acting upon the appropriation measures, upon which I understand we cannot act under Rule 57 on final passage without the suspension of this rule. However, I want it specifically understood that it is for the purpose of voting on the appropriation measures only.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman make that as a motion?

SUSPENSION OF RULE 57

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I move that Rule 57, which reads:

> No bill appropriating money for charitable or benevolent purposes will be considered further than second reading until after the General Appropriation bill shall have been reported from committee, be suspended for the specific purpose of considering appropriation bills on the third reading calendar today.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Lichtenwalter and Mr. Andrews and were as follows:

The motion was agreed to.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr JAMES asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, the impression has been given by most of Philadelphia's newspapers that the wage tax bills passed by this House last week were merely a medium for the demonstration of parliamentary legerdemain with the purpose of political effect.

Now that these bills have passed the House, both editorial and newswise material has been either sadly statistical or petulantly epithetical.

Philadelphia's journals and Philadelphia's leaders would do well for the people of Philadelphia if they would try to recognize the sentiments implied by the passage of these bills.

The stark fact is that unless the City's political and civic leaders—and the press—drop their accustomed pose of smug complacency and envision something more noble than sustaining the city with nickels and dimes scraped from pinball machnies and a penny per dollar earned by its wage workers, it cannot be long ere there will be even less than now, to offer real estate owners in exchange for the taxes they pay.

Thus far nothing more brilliant has been discussed or suggested than a ninety cents boost in taxes on real estate.

It has been said that we who supported these wage tax measures have a design for wrecking the city. It has also been said that we might thereby gain some cheap political advantage.

For my part, I am well enough aware of my own ineptitude in politics to know that, in what ever may accrue to those who are astute in that science, I can scarcely expect to share.

It has also been said that I and others have acted with reckless legislative abandon—that we would tear down without a plan, or thought, for building up.

So far as I can see, wrecking Philadelphia would not help anything—or anybody.

We are, however, mostly outsiders residing from Chester to Pittsburgh, and outsiders are "mouchers" according to Philadelphia's very able spokesman, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus. We are therefore somewhat timid about offering suggestions. We believe in home rule and we believe that representation without taxation is just as shameful and wrong as taxation without representation.

But since I am not concerned with any of the alleged political involvements in the situation, I will make a few suggestions and let the political chips fall where they may.

Philadelphia needs a great deal of everything besides the often professed love of all the boys in City Hall.

Philadelphia needs an emormous capital investment—and soon.

There is a way of filling that need, but she cannot fill it by going about the State with a tin cup in her hand.

Philadelphia must render and charge for the services demanded of a great and modern city. The wants of modern people are more numerous and more costly than they were when Philadelphia was young.

"Wants" are the very basis of merchandising and Philadelphia has not only a right but the need to properly and fairly merchandise certain of its services.

Taxes alone, whether upon realty, wages or pinball machines, can never keep pace with the progress and th growing costs of a growing city. Its people will never get a good bragain with taxes insufficient to support clean water—clean streets—slum clearance—continuous rehabilitation—sewage disposal—modern fire protection—scientific police service and intelligent transportation engineering.

In turn all of these "Wants" call for scientific city planning—not political planning.

Scientific city planning comprehends maintaining and increasing realty values, thus restoring the millions upon millions in assessments that have fallen away because of deterioration through the City's neglect of whole areas within its borders.

The loss in assessable values is, in undeniable fact, accountable for a loss of about $14,000,000 in real estate taxes alone, annually, by reference to only fifteen years of time!

Still Philadelphia cannot be the great city it deserves to be if it tries to cover all of its costs in level taxation. There are services that should not be and cannot for long remain free from specific charges against those who accept or demand them.

Many of such services are in no wise related to the real estate tax base. They are related to "use and occupancy" rather than to the ownership of realty, and they should be paid for accordingly.

Philadelphia can make a beginning that will help its overall situation vastly by abandoning the shameless political device of dual government, thus airconditioning a somewhat foul municipal household and making it ready for further improvements.

If Philadelphia does this one thing it will inspire men and women in the city to drop their hopeless attitude toward its affairs and bring new vision, imagination and ingenuity to the greater problem of the City's rehabilitation through what I have called an enormous capital investment.

Philadelphia need not balk at the hurdle of such an investment. No spot on the western hemisphere offers a more likely opportunity than Philadelphia for the safe and fruitful investment of a huge sum of money for capital purposes and services on a self-liquidating basis.

The amount of money needed to put the city in a position to take full advantage of her ready opportunities may be as much as, or even more than, half a billion dollars, but when there is talk of increasing borrowing capacity and debt service charges or otherwise providing by taxation in the face of that kind of money, then there is no vision behind such talk.

There is no vision in talking about doing what needs to be done in Philadelphia through piecemeal operations or laying new patches on worn out fabrics.

Many of Philadelphia's existing service facilities are old and outmoded beyond reason. They are costly to operate and the city is wholly lacking in others.

That is not a criticism.

Nearly all of our older cities have secured their facilities and tried to cover both the capital investments and the costs of operation through level taxes for the most part upon real estate. Deterioration and debt have nearly always caught up with and overtaken them.

The Municipal Authorities Act has opened the way to restore Philadelphia to its rightful position among the great cities of the world. A City of Philadelphia Authority will attract willing investors at modest interest rates; it will provide the medium for rapid progress with badly needed services, facilities and improvements; it will raise realty values and therefore assessments upon which taxes are based; it will provide immediate employment for thousands upon thousands of workers; it will provide modern living at bearable costs; it will eliminate petty tax practices and finally it will give to Philadelphia a new pride and a new dignity.

There will be enough large scale projects under the right kind of city planning that should and must be self-liquidating, and therein lies the justification for relating certain service charges to use and occupancy rather than to the real estate owner base, for all covering taxes. The time has passed when any great city on earth can collect enough money in taxes alone to pay the whole cost of modern living. The people will pay fair and proper charges for what they want and demand—if they get what they want and demand.

I will only add to what I have said that there will be among the many Philadelphia projects, under a Municipal Authority, some in which federal grants will be available. Such grants should be sought. There is no shame in Philadelphia taking back a portion of the money that Philadelphians pay out for federal distribution.

If what I have said is useful, I am happy. If it is to be rensented, I am sorry I said it.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. SALUS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I have listened attentively to the gentleman from Delaware and I want to warn those newspaper men sitting down there that the bogey man is after them; they want to be careful what they are doing because if this bogey man gets them by the right leg he may tear it off. So I am going to ask them to be very careful, that they do not abuse the gentleman. As far as I am concerned, I am used to it and I don't mind it.

I have heard much about taxation without representation, the Boston Tea Party. I did not answer those statements because they are so ridiculous. Taxation without representation has no application here. The gentleman from Delaware can come to live in Philadelphia at any time at all and can vote with the rest of the population. He does not seem to be inclined to be a citizen of Philadelphia; he seems to be inclined to try to help us. I know if there is anything in his program and he will become a good citizen of Philadelphia and advocate a cause whereby we can have a city beautiful without any expense except by borrowing money and owing money and getting in debt, his program would be wonderful, and I in behalf of our city invite him to become a resident. It is peculiar that he is perfectly willing to have his business in Philadelphia, to have his customers in Philadelphia, to have his employes in Philadelphia, but he does not care to live with us. If we are such a terrible community as he says we are and we are so inefficient in everything we do, maybe he is right in staying in Delaware County, and we may be much happier with him staying there. I still am convinced—and I do not want him take any offense at this at all, because it don't apply to him personally because I feel he is a buddy of mine and I do not want to do him any injustice, but to my mind he still belongs to that group that I would call the millionaire Main Line moochers, who are very, very happy in taking everything that Philadelphia has got and giving nothing in return.

We have heard a lot today about charity that has been referred to in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, and if the gentleman does not have any Delaware County charity, I hope and pray that he has some Christian charity.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. JAMES asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

I rise, Mr. Speaker, to make a few remarks in response to the remarks of the gentleman who spoke last.

Mr. Speaker, I do not resent accepting among the many roles that have been accorded me during these wage tax discussions, the role of bogey man. I have never been timid about being a bogey man, but I am very much afraid that in these discussions I have been more of a bogey man to the good Senator from Philadelphia than I have to the newspaper men.

I want to tell the Senator why I live in Delaware County. I live there because the grass of Delaware County grows a little greener, the birds of Delaware County sing a little sweeter in the spring time and the water we get to drink is fit to drink. There might be many reasons why, when I was young and impressionable, I might have wanted to stay in Philadelphia. I was born there, I met all the nice girls that I knew when I was a boy there. I fell in love several times and I might have married a Philadelphian and stayed there. All that would have been pleasant until the time when the Philadelphia administration began to let the city slip.

I remember Philadelphia in the young years. It was lovely. In particular the great shopping section, often referred to as the east-central section of Philadelphia It was in that district that I was taken to get my first short pants and my first long pants, and the stores were prosperous, crowded with patrons and business was good. In that great east-central section great buildings were erected. The law center was there, as the Senator from Philadelphia knows; the banking center was there, the insurance center was there and all the great merchandising houses were there. Philadelphia in those days drew a very, very large and important part of its tax money from the east-central section. Before Independence Hall in those days it was a pleasure to walk past the busy and prosperous houses on Chestnut Street, but today, members of the House, the east-central section of Philadelphia is as dead as—I won't say. It is rare when one can find a business building of the old days that can be occupied above the first floor. Many of the roofs have holes in them that have been plugged down to the third floor to keep the water out of the basement. The assessed values in that area, as I said a few minutes ago, and to indicate how the city has allowed its most generous contributors of tax money in the past to go, have fallen to the extent of fourteen million dollars in taxes by reference to fifteen years of time.

Now, Mr. Speaker, that comes about through nothing else than unintelligent city management. There have been several times in the past when private associations and groups of people have gotten together and many men have given of their time to planning something for the rehabilitation of that very important part of Philadelphia.

I myself, in spite of what Senator Salus might think about the meagerness of my contribution to the welfare of Philadelphia, have given money and time for this purpose. Notable among them is this Indenpendence Hall Association which is now becoming very active indeed because of the hope that Philadelphia may be made the center of this World Congress which we all expect soon to be convened. There is no question about that. Philadelphia has the right and deserves to be considered as the home of world freedom, but Philadelphia today in the parts of the city where such a project might have to be placed, would be, in the words of a book which has just been published by the Independence Hall Association, a shame upon any American.

As the Senator has said, he believes a great many things about me that are not complimentary, but he believes one that is complimentary, he believes that I want to help, and so I do. I am not suggesting a plan that can be carried out in its entirety within a week or month. The needs of Philadelphia, particularly the east-central section are so great and varied that a major operation of great proportions will be necessary to restore it into presentable condition, to restore it so that it will bear its rightful share of the taxes to operate the city of Philadelphia. But there is now a new day differing from the old days, when nobody knew anything about self-liquidating projects, services that should be paid for independent of real estate taxes. There were some reasons for being dilatory about looking forward and planning and thinking for a great city, but there is today in Pennsylvania a possibility to do something very much better and very different But Philadelphia and not only Philadelphia but all the older and larger cities in this country have pretty nearly reached the end of the rope so far as capital investments are concerned which are necessary for modern living.

We have here in Pennsylvania or will have because I believe we are going to pass the Municipal Authorities Act of 1945, one of the most carefully considered and best worked out Authority Acts in existence, and unless the City of Philadelphia and some of the older cities of Pennsylvania begin immediately a study of that act with a view of making use of it on a basis that will be not only in the interest of of the people but in the interest of the financial situation of those cities, then they are going again to ignore one of the principles of doing what should be done for the people. There is no longer any question about use and occupancy as a chargeable item against the people who use and occupy. The whole burden of securing city facilities and paying for their operation can no longer be borne by the amount collected from any form of level taxation.

THE SPEAKER (Ira T. Fiss) IN THE CHAIR

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman from Elk, Mr. Sorg, for presiding.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. McKINNEY. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General for further study.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a division.

Mr. McKINNEY. Mr. Speaker, I feel that this bill is clearly unconstitutional and I should like to read the provision of the Constitution for the benefit of the Members of the House:

> The Members of the General Assembly shall receive such salary and mileage for regular and special sessions as shall be fixed by law, and no other compensation whatever, whether for service upon committee or otherwise. No Member of either House shall, during the term for which he may have been elected, receive any increase of salary or mileage under any law passed during such a time.

This question of mileage, Mr. Speaker, is retroactive, and if it refers to this session of the legislature, it is clearly unconstitutional.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman desires to defeat the bill on second reading on a constitutional point, of courses, he has that course open to him. If he desires to defeat this bill on third reading on a constitutional point, he has that course open to him. The place to argue the constitutional point, I believe, is in the hall of this House and not in committee because committees do not have jurisdiction over the constitutional points, although the House some times thinks it does. This bill is very plain and there is no reason, even though the constitutional point is raised, why it should go back to committee. There might be a reason why the bill should be defeated either on second reading or on third reading.

Mr. McKINNEY. Mr. Speaker, it is not my purpose to defeat the bill. I think the bill could be fixed up and could be amended in committee or it could be amended on the floor of this House. I think it should be amended in committee so that it would be constitutional. This way it is clearly unconstitutional. I think it can be amended.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

A division having been called for, one Member having voted in the affirmative and one hundred eighty-eight having voted in the negative, the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 686, entitled:

An Act fixing the per diem rate for free or part payment service in State-aided hospitals.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 689, entitled:

An Act to amend section two hundred thirty-three and one-tenth of the act approved the second day of May, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 1278), entitled "An act relating to counties of the second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth classes; and revising, amending and consolidating the laws relating thereto," authorizing the recorder of deeds, the prothonotary, the clerks of the court of quarter sessions and the clerk of the orphans' court in counties of the fifth class to appoint solicitors; and fixing their maximum salary.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 721, entitled:

An Act to amend section ten, and to further amend section twelve, of the act approved the twelfth day of May, one thousand nine hundred twenty-five (P. And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 44, entitled:

An Act to further amend the act, approved the twenty-fifth day of May, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. the powers and duties of citizens, parties, political bodies, registration commissions, commissioners, registrars, inspectors of registration and other appointees of registration commissions, county election boards, election officers, municipal officers, departments and bureaus, police officers, courts, judges, prothonotaries, sheriffs, county commissioners, peace officers, county treasurers, county controllers, registrars of vital statistics, certain public utility corporations, real estate brokers, rental agents, and boards of school directors; and imposing penalties," as amended, by further regulating and changing the provisions of the act relating to cancellation of registration upon the failure to vote within two years

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Elections for the purpose of further study.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the Majority Leader, the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Lichtenwalter.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lehigh permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that it is something of an unusual procedure to recommit a string of bills of this kind that have passed unanimously another chamber, I think that some explanation as to the defects in this bill which the Majority Leader hopes to cure, should in fairness be made to this House. So, I would ask him what are the fatal defects in these bills that induce him to send them all back to committee.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, in reply to the gentleman from Cambria, these bills did pass the Senate unanimously. They were amended in committee in the House, and the Bureau of Elections, which has a great deal to do with the operation of the acts we pass in the legislature regarding elections in Pennsylvania are concerned with the operation of their bureau, and they have asked that the bills be returned to committee so that a representative or the man in charge of the Elections Bureau in the Commonwealth, who has conferred, I believe ,with the chairman, may appear before the committee and speak on the bill.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, did the Bureau of Elections file any bill of particulars in requesting that these bills go back,Mr. Speaker?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I don't know if they did and I don't know that it is required.

Mr. ANDREWS. I was not intimating that it was required that they do so, Mr. Speaker, but I still maintain— I have no further questions for the Minority Leader—I hope that he will be in the minority one of these days—I was not arguing that it was necessary to file a bill of particulars, but I do say that ordinary procedure, in deference to this House and to the Members of this House and to the committee and the Majority Leader, should lead any department head of any bureau in this government, if they object to a bill, to at least let the Majority Leader know what in the thunder they are objecting to.

At present I do not think that the Majority Leader or any of the Members on the other side of the House who are committing these bills know why they are doing it, except that someone has straggled in and said, "maybe these wicked Democrats put something in them that we do not like."

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 48, entitled:

An Act to further amend the act, approved the first day of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 1132), entitled "An act to provide for the permanent personal registration of electors in cities of the second class A as a condition of their right to vote at elections and primaries, and their enrollment as members of political parties as a further condition of their right to vote at primaries; prescribing certain procedure for the conduct of elections and primaries and the challenge and proof of qualifications of electors; and prescribing the powers and duties of citizens, parties, political bodies, registration commissions, commissioners, registrars, inspectors of registration and other appointees of registration commissions, county election boards, election officers, municipal officers, departments and bureaus police officers, courts, judges, prothonotaries, sheriffs, county commissioners, peace officers, county treasurers, county controllers, registrars of vital statistics, certain public utility corporations, real estate brokers, rental agents, and boards of school directors; and imposing penalties," as amended, by further regulating and changing the provisions of the act relating to cancellation of registration upon the failure to vote within two years.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Elections for the purpose of further study.

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 36

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I call up House Resolution No. 36.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

RESOLUTION TO REPEAL HOUSE RULE No. 90

In the House of Representatives, March 6, 1945.

Resolved, That House Rule No. 90 which reads

"A member shall not relate in debate what was done or said in committee except such as is contained in the written report or is authorized by the committee."

be repealed.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, this resolution is to repeal the secrecy of the committee room. Since you fellows refused to change the rules and give us the right to discharge committees and bring legislation on the floor, we at least by the repeal of this Rule may be able to get what action takes place in committee rooms on legislation that we are vitally interested in.

I have been a Member of this House for quite a number of years and I have attended many committee meetings and there has never been anything which has transpired in the committee rooms that I know of that I should not divulge to the floor of the House or to anyone else. I question very much whether any of you men who attend these committee meetings have stuff that should not be brought to the floor of the House.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Freed.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lehigh permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FREED. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, has the gentleman from Lehigh ever attended any committee meetings where anything has transpired in the committee room that he felt was something he should not divulge on the floor of the House?

Mr. FREED. Not to divulge to anybody in the state, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Anybody that is what?

Mr. FREED. That I should not divulge to anybody in the state.

Mr. LOVETT. That is all.

May I ask any Member on the other side of the House whether or not he has attended any committee meetings that he has felt there was any business transacted or anything said that he should not divulge on the floor of the House?

Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Reese.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DAVID P. REESE, Jr. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if he ever attended any committee meetings where anything has transpired that he thought he should not divulge on the floor of the House?

Mr. DAVID P. REESE, Jr. Why not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. I did not get the gentleman's answer.

Mr. DAVID P. REESE, Jr. I say why not, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. LOVETT. That is what I want to know, why not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. DAVID P. REESE, Jr. Now that is my answer, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. If there is anything, Mr. Speaker, that the gentleman has on his mind, I would like him to tell the Members of the House what it is that he heard in committee.

Mr. DAVID P. REESE, Jr. I haven't anything on my mind, but it seems that the gentleman has something on his mind.

Mr. LOVETT. Then the gentleman from Dauphin says that there has never been anything which happened in committee that he should not divulge on the floor of the House?

Mr. DAVID P. REESE, Jr. No, Mr. Speaker, I did not say that.

Mr. LOVETT. What did the gentleman say, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. DAVID P. REESE, Jr. There is a rule that you cannot.

Mr. LOVETT. I am only asking the gentleman if he himself has ever felt that anything went on in the committee room that should not be divulged on the floor of the House, regardless of whether there was a rule or not.

Mr. DAVID P. REESE, Jr. Does the gentleman mean because of its inherent nature, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. LOVETT. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. DAVID P. REESE, Jr. I would say, Mr. Speaker, that because of a rule you cannot.

Mr. LOVETT. That is the reason, Mr. Speaker, why I want to repeal this rule and I ask for a roll call.

Mr. SORG. Mr. Speaker, I just want to straighten out the record on one point mentioned by the gentleman from Westmoreland, that we refused to grant the right to discharge a committee.

That right still exists, and a constitutional majority can do that at any time. I just want to ask that the Members vote against this resolution so that in proceedings in committee, when the members of a committee are formulating their opinions they can be free and unembarrassed in their discussion of any matters before the committee.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to support this resolution as a tribute to a long-suffering, patient, skilled, talented fraternity, none other than the newspaper gallery.

I differ with the gentleman from Westmoreland when he says that nothing has ever transpired in these committees of this House that should not be revealed. I have heard and seen shameful things happen in committees. I have seen men brave as lions before this House become craven in committee; I have seen men who have made their promises to the people betray them in committee.

I also realize another fact, that by seeing this man and that man and the other man, the committee transactions are not secret. They have not been and they never will be. There is always somebody with a grouch, somebody with a rod in pickle, but if your newspaper crowd gets after it and keeps after it, they will get the story of what happened in the committee. Now, if there has not been any secrecy except to hide these shameful things, I say why not make it easier for the newspaper crowd to get what happens in committee? Instead of having to sneak in the back door, why not let them like men come in the front door and sit down and listen, because, and I repeat, committee meetings have not been secret. A committee should have no secrecy.

They talk about saying things in committee that might be embarrassing if they were repeated. This is the business of the people. No man has a right to say things in a closed room that he would not be willing and glad to say out in the open, and the only reason that Legislators have ever resorted to the secrecy rule as far as the committee is concerned was to hide the acts of craven men.

Mr. SORG. Mr. Speaker, I know of no rule that protects or maintains the secrecy of committee meetings. It is my understanding that House Rule 90 clearly sets forth the proposition that a Member shall not relate in debate what was done or said in committee, and I submit to the Members of the House that while information is available as to what does go on in committee, nevertheless the effect of the repeal of this resolution would be just the same as the discharge of a committee by one man, whereas under the rules a constitutional majority ordinarily would be required.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Elk. He has enunciated a doctrine with which unfortunately many Members of this House have not been acquainted. It has come about that the Rule has been construed in the minds of the Membership not that they should not relate in debate, but that the committee meetings were secret, and that they should not tell anybody. I thank the gentleman for the interpretation which frees committees from the bane of universal secrecy. I sincerely thank him.

Mr. SORG. Mr. Speaker, I assure the gentleman that it was not my intention to enunciate such a doctrine. If in the conduct of the affairs of this House a custom shall have been established that was not enunciated in the Rules of the House, certainly it is not my intention to state that such a custom is not a good one.

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker, I feel that Rule 90 is a relic of the past and should be placed over in our museum as an antique. It has no place in a liberal democratic form of government; it is an undemocratic parliamentary procedure.

I am a member of a number of committees this session, and have served on committees in the past, and I have had no experience with anything happening in those committees that I would object to having brought out here on the floor of this House.

We speak about corrupt politics in our government, and especially in our state. It seems to me if we could air the political procedure in our committee meetings so that the Members of the House might know, and the citizens of our State might know just how bills are handled in these committees, how often good legislation may be tabled, or not even brought up for the consideration of the committee members—in such cases I say that I as a Member of this House or any other Member of the House should have the right to come on the floor of the House and state just what happened in those committees. I say it is time to do away with this Rule if we want clean government, and if we want government free from corroup politics.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Lovett and Mr. Andrews.

So the question was determined in the negative and the resolution was not adopted.

(During the verification of the negative roll.)

Mr. FREED. Mr. Speaker, I heard my name on the negative roll. I did not vote.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman desire to be excused from voting?

Mr. FREED. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to excuse the gentleman from voting?

Mr. BAKER. Mr. Speaker, I object.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objections.

Mr. FREED. Do I have to vote on this?

The SPEAKER. All members are required to vote unless excused.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Cambria will state it.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, what is the parliamentary procedure of requiring a Member to vote?

The SPEAKER. The procedure is set forth in Rule 71. The Chair will read the rule for the information of the House:

> Every Member shall be present within the Hall of the House during its sittings, unless excused by the House or necessarily prevented, and shall vote for or against each question, unless he has a direct personal or pecuniary interest in the determination of such question or unless he be excused by the House.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of further parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, the Rule as read carries no penalty.

Will the Chair inform the House as to the precedents in the instances in which the House has acted, imposing penalties on Members who declined to vote?

The SPEAKER. The Chair will cite a precedent; a Member occupying his seat and refusing to vote was held in contempt of the House, 1857, page 112 of the Journal.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, are there any other precedents since 1857?

The SPEAKER. The only other decision we have at present is this,

> House Competent to Excuse a Member from Voting, Decision 244. The Speaker decided that it was at all times competent for the House to excuse a Member from voting. Journal of the House of Representatives 1858, page 813.

The Chair also wishes to read Article II, Section 11, of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, > Powers of Each House—Expulsion. Each House shall have power to determine the rules of its proceedings and punish its Members or other perons for contempt or disorderly behavior in its presence, to enforce obedience to its process, to protect its members against violence or offers of bribes or private solicitations.

The Chair would also state that if every Member of this House should decide to refuse to vote it would stop the legislative processes of this House.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a further point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, there being no rule prescribing penalties to be imposed and no process established under the rules by which a Member can be disciplined for not voting, it is without the province of the House under the rules to require the gentleman to vote.

The SPEAKER. The Chair decides the point of order is not well taken.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Cambria will state it.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, under the rules what would be the course of procedure—under what rule.

The SPEAKER. Under Rule 71 of the House.

Mr. ANDREWS. May I ask the Speaker what penalty is imposed under Rule 71?

The SPEAKER. The penalty to be imposed would be for the House to decide under the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. ANDREWS. I accept that ruling that under the Constitution the House could take action to discipline its Members, but there is prescribed in the rules no procedure for disciplining a Member.

The SPEAKER. The Chair has already stated what the Constitution and the rule prescribe.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Lehigh is therefore not in contempt until some action is taken to bring him in contempt?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Lehigh has asked the House to be excused from voting.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Freed. Does the gentleman wish to be excused from voting? ?

Mr. FREED. That is what I asked for, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The question is, will the House excuse the gentleman from Lehigh from voting on Resolution No. 36. On a rising vote seventy-five Members having voted in the affirmative and seventy in the negative, the question was determined in the affirmative and the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Freed, was excused from voting.

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, March 28, 1945.

The Senate met at 3:01 o'clock, p. m., Eastern War Time.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (M. Harvey Taylor) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. EDWIN S. WALLACE, D. D., offered the following prayer:

O Thou who art nigh unto all them that call upon Thee in truth, hear us as we call, and may our prayer come from our real desire to worship Thee in truth. We know that worship apart from truth is nothing but an empty form—sacrilege. Keep us, we pray Thee, from such irreverence.

Establish us in the faith that Thou art sovereign in this universe and "That all things work together for good to them that love Thee." Then we shall not fear what man can do unto us. Then we shall bring our thoughts and our deeds into harmony with Thee and reveal the sincerity of our faith by our works.

We pray for the material prosperity of our state and for the physical welfare of all within her borders. Rather we pray for their spiritual prosperity and welfare, for the Spirit giveth life. Without the Spirit our material endowments may be our destruction. May our legislative bodies, national and state, remember this eternal truth—the priority of the spiritual.

Grant to all those who enact our laws and to all who execute them the spirit of wisdom and truth. And may all in authority remember that all power is from God, and that they are God's agents.

All we pray is in the name of Christ our Lord. Amen.

EDWARD MARTIN.

SENATE BILL No. 317, PRINTER'S No. 100, RETURNED TO THE SENATE WITHOUT APPROVAL

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, March 28, 1945.

To the Honorable the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I return herewith, without my approval, Senate Bill No. 317, Printer's No. 100, entitled "An Act providing that all fines and penalties collected in summary proceedings shall be turned over quarterly to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the use of the appropriate state department the county treasurer for the use of the county or the political or municipal subdivision entitled to the payment of said fine penalty or forfeiture and providing a penalty for neglect to comply therewith."

The bill provides that all fines and penalties collected in summary proceedings shall be turned over quarterly to the Commonwealth for the use of the appropriate state department, or for the use of the county or political or municipal subdivision ultimately entitled to any of such fines and penalties.

Section 901 of The Fiscal Code, the Act of April 9, 1929, P. L. 343, as last amended June 1, 1931, P. L. 318, 72 P. S. Section 901, deals with fines and penalties which would finally be payable to the Commonwealth, and provides that every city and county officer must render to the Department of Revenue a monthly report of all moneys received by them which are due the Commonwealth, and shall pay the same over to the State Treasurer through the Department of Revenue.

Senate Bill No. 317 would, in so far as the Commonwealth is concerned, change the present monthly reports to quarterly reports, which would be a step backward rather than forward, from an accounting and efficiency viewpoint.

As the law now stands, any fines and penalties which are paid into the State Treasury by city and county officers are paid into the General Fund of the Commonwealth, without earmarking. Senate Bill No. 317 uses language which might be construed to mean that moneys ultimately due the Commonwealth, when paid to the Commonwealth, are appropriated to certain departments of the Commonwealth government. For example, the bill would have such moneys paid to the Commonwealth "for the use of the appropriate state department." This language might lead to confusion and is certainly below the standard which should be maintained for clarity in statutory language.

Another result of this bill would be that all such moneys would first be paid to local officials, would then be transmitted by them to the Commonwealth, which would make distribution and return to the local officials the moneys the local political subdivisions were entitled to. This appears to be an unnecessary duplication of work, since under the present system the moneys belonging to political subdivisions are simply retained by them, and only the moneys belonging to the Commonwealth are transmitted to it, and the latter on a monthly rather than a quarterly basis.

It is difficult to visualize any advantage which would accrue to the Commonwealth by this bill becoming law. On the contrary, I can see that the Commonwealth might suffer disadvantage. Nor is any public benefit to political subdivisions apparent.

For these reasons, the bill is not approved.

EDWARD MARTIN.

APPROVED AND SIGNED SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION RECALLING SENATE BILL No. 123, PRINTER'S No. 110

COMMUNICATIONS

The Chair cleared his table and laid before the Senate communication from Rue J. Alexander, Secretary of State, state of Indiana, dated March 26, 1945, enclosing exemplified copy of enrolled concurrent resolution No. 13, Senate Acts 1945, Chapter 379, receipt of which is noted in the Legislative Journal.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BARR asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I am in receipt of a communication dated March 24, 1945 from the Honorable Joseph F. Guffey, of the United States Senate. The communication is as follows:

"March 24, 1945.

"Honorable Joseph M. Barr,
c/o The State Senate,
The Capitol,
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

"My dear Senator:

"I have before me extracts of statements made on the Senate Floor by M. Harvey Taylor, President Pro Tempore of the State Senate, and a copy of a statement released to the press by him on March 20th, after you had urged that the Legislature should enact a law limiting the amount of money to be spent by any political party in any election.

"Harvey Taylor stated on the Senate Floor that "I will take this up with Senator Guffey when he and I get together—I think we can settle all these affairs."

"I have never met Harvey Taylor and have never discussed any matter with him and he knows that he will not get together with me and settle the matter of the holdover slush fund now available to the Republicans in Pennsylvania.

"Harvey Taylor stated in his release to the press that if the Pennsylvania Republican Party has as much money in the Treasury as you and I say, he could assure both of us that it would be spent judiciously. I do not know what meaning Harvey Taylor attaches to the word "judiciously", but I do know from Harvey Taylor's reputation as a political operator that this tremendous slush fund will not be spent in accordance with the dictionary's meaning of the word "judiciously".

"Records duly filed in accordance with law show that Republican Organizations in the State collected $3,242,747.76 and that these same Organizations expended $2,367,539.12. This leaves a balance on hand available to the Republican Organization of $875,208.64 and that balance having once been reported, in accordance with law, will not again be reported by Harvey Taylor and his Organization. In my judgment, it will be used for political corruption purposes. It will be used to print and distribute state-wide scurrilous and libelous pamphlets against innocent men. Harvey Taylor engaged in those tactics in last Fall's Election, having admitted before a United States Senate Committee that he issued the orders for the printing of such a pamphlet and for its distribution. Of course, he saw that the pamphlet was paid for. Harvey Taylor will find that it does not pay to issue such scurrilous and libelous pamphlets in his efforts to win an election. Taylor will have an opportunity to defend those tactics in the Federal Courts of our Land."

Sincerely,

JOSEPH F. GUFFEY."

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON FORESTS AND WATERS, GAME AND FISH

Mr. CROWE. Mr. President, from the Committee on Forests and Waters, Game and Fish, I submit a report of the Committee, which I, in pursuance to Senate Resolution Serial Number 36, held a public hearing on March 13, 1945, in the Senate Caucus room, in regard to a complaint against the Game Commission by the North Central Division of Sportsmen's Clubs, on the matter of an antlerless deer season in Cameron County. I ask that this report be spread upon the Legislative Journal.

The ACTING PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. If there is no objection the request is granted.

REPORT PURSUANT TO SENATE RESOLUTION No. 36

Mr. CROWE. The Senate Committee on Forests and Waters, Game and Fish conducted a Hearing in the Senate Caucus Room at 10:00 a. m. on March 13, 1945, pursuant to the above resolution, at which a majority of the Committee were present.

There were present representatives of the North Central Division of the Pennsylvania Federation of Soprtsmen's Clubs who were the complainants, and Seth Gordon, the Executive Director, and other personnel of the Pennsylvania Game Commission.

The holders of resident hunting licenses in Cameron County had gotten together a petition pursuant to the provisions of the Game Law to abrogate the season for the hunting of antlerless deer in 1943, which petition the Game Commission found was inadequate to comply with the provisions of Clause (d) of Section 501 of the Game Law, as amended by the Act approved June 24, 1939, P. L. 810. After hearing the testimony, the Committee has come to the following conclusions:

1. It is our opinion that the Game Commission acted in good faith throughout in this matter but that the petitioners should have obtained a surplus of names in order to take care of possible disqualifications and subsequent withdrawals. This had been suggested by the Game Commission for the protection of the Petitioners.
2. That the wording of the Law is not clear as to the functions or responsibilities of the Game Commission in connection with checking and certifying the Petitions, or as to the number of names required to abrogate an antlerless deer season. Under the present wording it is difficult for any agency to supply accurate information to sponsors of petitions with reference to the number of signatures required without exhaustive check. This makes it difficult for the Petitioners to proceed intelligently to attain their objective.
3. We feel that when representatives of the Petitioners appeared at the headquarters of the Game Commission to check the names disqualified, that in spite of advice from the office of the Attorney General to the contrary, the records were public and should have been available. While the records were made available to the representatives of the Petitioners for inspection such representatives should have been allowed to copy the names and addresses of the signers who had been disqualified, regardless of the impression that this information might have been used to the embarrassment of Petitioners who through ignorance signed the names of sons in service and other relatives.
4. That the Committee regards the local Game Protector as having been overzealous in his activity by issuing hand bills and publishing advertisements in the local newspapers, and that he should have maintained a neutral attitude and guided the Petitioners in any way possible so that they might have filed a proper petition.
5. That by the above actions the spirit of Section 501 "D" of the Pennsylvania Game Code was violated, although the Committee is of the opinion that this violation was not on the part of the Commission, and that the Game Protector was not acting under their order.
6. The Committee recommends that the Pennsylvania Game Commission adopt as a Rule of Policy that when a petition has been filed in accordance with Section 501 "D" of the Game Code, neither the Commission nor any of its personnel shall take any action whatsoever to oppose the desires of the Petitioners, but shall confine its functions to administrative matters designed to carry into effect the provisions of the Law. Further, that the Commission instruct its personnel before any employees issue broadsides or other statements in their official capacity that the Commission must approve same prior to the circulation thereof. The responsibility for such material or information should rest with the Game Commission.
7. That this provision of the Law should either be repealed or amended and clarified. We submit for consideration a suggested amendment reading as indicated below:

SUGGESTED AMENDMENT TO CLAUSE (d) OF SECTION 501, AS AMENDED BY THE ACT APPROVED JUNE 24, 1939, P. L. 810

If at any time the commission shall, by resolution, declare an open season for antlerless deer throughout the Commonwealth or in any given county or part thereof, such open season shall be abrogated in any [such] county if there is filed with the commission a petition opposing [such] said antlerless deer season, signed by a number of residents of that county, who, except in the case of farmers, held Pennsylvania resident hunting licenses the previous year, equal to fifty per centum of the total number of licenses issued within that county to residents of [that county] the Commonwealth for the previous year. A minimum of one-third of the petitioners shall be resident farmers, within the county, sixteen years of age or older, who regularly reside upon and cultivate farms or orchards as a principal means of gaining a livelihood, whether they were holders of resident hunting licenses the previous year or not.

Each petitioner shall legibly affix his own signature, and supply his post office address, resident hunter's license number of the previous year, unless he was an unlicensed farmer, and his occupation. If a petitioner, other than an unlicensed farmer, is unable to furnish the correct hunting license number at the time of signing, the sponsors of the petition shall insert said number from hunter's license records before filing it. Furnishing a false license number shall invalidate the signature.

Said petition must be filed [at least thirty days prior to the opening of the proposed antlerless deer season] not later than forty-five days following the date of the final publication in said county of legal notices of the commission's action as required by this act. Upon receipt thereof, the commission shall proceed promptly, under such rules and regulations of procedure as it may have established prior thereto, to determine whether the petitioners have met the legal requirements, and to certify the findings on its official minutes, and make public announcement thereof.

Any person signing such a petition who is not [a resident of the county to which such petition relates or who did not hold a resident hunting license for the previous year] qualified to sign it, or who signs more than once, shall, upon summary conviction thereof, be sentenced to pay a fine of ten dollars and costs of prosecution, and upon default thereof shall be imprisoned for a period of five days.

The amendments suggested above would enable the Game Commission to give prospective petitioners definite advice promptly as to the total number of signers required without extensive clerical work; it would clear up any doubt relative to individual signatures and define the information they shall supply; it would permit farmers to express their wishes and overcome complaints that the present law ignores their views concerning antlerless deer seasons; it would more clearly define the filing date for petitions, with a minimum of two months after the Commission declares an antlerless deer season to file them.

It also would clearly fix the Game Commission's responsibility to determine the validity of petitions and provide for specific rules of procedure, with sufficient time to do the work in an unhurried manner. It is felt that the amendments above suggested would prevent recurrence of the misunderstandings which occurred in the case of the Cameron County petitions in 1943.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. COX asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, on March 5 the Senate considered the Christmas tree bill which was introduced by Senator Dent and Senator Thomas. At that time I made a statement that I would introduce a bill which would properly regulate strip mining, and I am presenting that bill at this time, with the hope that the members of the Senate, or any other person in the Commonwealth who is interested in the regulation of strip mining, will make any suggestions or recommendations that will make this bill a better bill.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. COX read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 617, entitled:

An Act relating to the regulation and control of strip mining of bituminous coal, and to the collection of bond forfeiture and the disposition thereof, and the rehabilitation of the land affected by strip mining operations; and providing penalties.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. RUTH asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, Berks County has a native son of whom Berks County is very proud and the State of Pennsylvania can be very proud. When this man was not quite fourteen years of age he graduated from high school and worked his way through preparatory school and at the same time ran a county newspaper for his father, who had been injured in a fire. He was appointed to West Point Military Academy and his record has been known to the world ever since that day.

Therefore, in behalf of Senator Stiefel and myself, I offer the following resolution and ask for its immediate adoption.

RESOLUTIONS

URGING THAT ROUTE 322 BE KNOWN AS THE CARL SPAATZ HIGHWAY

Messrs. RUTH and STIEFEL offered the following resolution which was twice read as follows:

In the Senate, March 28, 1945.

Whereas in the galaxy of great American military leaders shaping the victory of our arms in the present global war, Lieutenant-General Carl Spaatz, of Boyertown, Berks County, Pennsylvania, is considered as a brillian military scientist, heroic soldier, skillful aviator, efficient administrator and inspiring commander of men, and

Whereas the rise of Carl Spaatz from a first-lieutenancy on July 1, 1916 to the rank of lieutenant-general (temporary) on March 12, 1943, was attained through an impeccable record of service during war and peace, crowned with his present task of Commanding-General of the United States strategic Air Force in the European Theater of Operations and

Whereas the military exploits of Lieutenant-General Carl Spaatz fill more than a quarter-century of gallant services including inter alia:

Service during World War I with American Expeditionary Forces first as a pursuit pilot in the 13th Squadron of the 2nd Pursuit Group and participation in several aerial combats during the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne Offensives.

Expanding in 1917-1918 the American Aviation School at Issoudun, France from a few buildings to one of the world's largest aviation schools at that time.

Charge of a Flying Circus on April 10, 1919 to assist in the Victory Loan drive.

Participation in the Trans-continental Reliability and Endurance Test from California to New York City from October 8th to 11th, 1919.

Command of Kelly Field, Texas from October 5, 1920, to February, 1921.

Command of the 1st Pursuit Group, first at Ellington Field, Texas, then Selfridge Field, Michigan to September 24, 1924.

Command of the Army plane "Question Mark" in its historic refueling endurance flight over Los Angeles and vicinity, January 1-7, 1929.

Command of several Bombardment Groups from May 1, 1929, until June 10, 1933.

Service in the Office of the Chief of the Air Corps, Washington, D. C.

Assignment on January 26, 1942, as Chief of the Air Force Combat Command, Washington, D. C.

Command of Eighth Air Force Command of the Northwest African Air Force.

Command of all United States Army Air forces in the North African Theater of Operation.

Command of the United States Strategic Air Force in the European Theater of Operations.

And Whereas one of the many citations of Lieutenant-General Spaatz summarizes his attainments by stating that "his indomitable will and outstanding technical ability overcame directly or through his inspired subordinates the many problems which, upon first view, often seemed insurmountable."

And Whereas the entire Nation and the citizenry of Pennsylvania are viewing with great admiration the contributions of Lieutenant-General Carl Spaatz to the cause of victory

And Whereas Route 322, known as the "Lake to Sea" Route is running diagonally through the major portion of the Commonwealth and is thus one of the most representative arteries of the State,

Now Be It Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur) that the part of Route 322 passing through Pennsylvania shall henceforth be known as the "Carl Spaatz Highway"

And Be It Further Resolved that the Secretary of the Senate forward copy of this Resolution to Lieutenant-General Carl Spaatz

And Be It Further Resolved that the Secretary of the Senate forward copies of this Resolution to the members of the Congressional delegation from Pennsylvania.

REQUEST TO SUSPEND RULE 39

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I object.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I object to immediate consideration for the sole reason that this proposes to give a name to a highway, and there are several heroes of this war and several members who would like to have highways named after them. I know, as a matter of fact, that Senator Stiefel has a bill on the Calendar right now dealing with this very thing.

Therefore, Mr. President, I suggest that the resolution be referred to a committee in order that some study can be given to the matter.

The ACTING PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The resolution is referred to the Committee on Rules.

EMPLOYE OF THE SENATE

Mr. TALLMAN offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, March 28, 1945.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. MODELL. RESOLUTION No. 43.

In the House of Representatives, March 27, 1945.

There has been introduced into the Congress of the United States a bill to reclassify the salaries in the Post Office Department.

This is the first such readjustment that has been given serious consideration in the last twenty-years since the enactment of the Salary Reclassification Act of 1925, and these two decades have witnessed a rise in the cost-of-living much greater than the proposed increase.

The loyalty, devotion to duty, and efficiency of the Postal employees have been tested to their utmost in recent years with additional heavy burdens of mail at new record levels, and this test has not found them wanting.

The receipts of the Post Office Department are at an all time high, and many responsible public officials have agreed that this is the time to make the necessary adjustments in Postal salaries.

The State of Pennsylvania, with its dense population and great industries, owes much to this body of public servants whose tireless efforts coordinate our strength in peoples and plants for the best service to our nation during war and peace; therefore be it

Resolved, By the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the State of Pennsylvania, that it hereby memoralizes the 79th Congress of the United States to speedily enact into law H. R. 2071, a bill to reclassify the salaries of the Postal Service; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of the above resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States, to the President Pro Tempore of the United States Senate, to the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States, and to each Senator and Representative elected from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Miss BRANCATO. RESOLUTION No. 44.

In the House of Representatives, March 27, 1945.

Whereas, it is generally agreed that an overwhelming majority of the men and women who are today actually bearing the brunt of the distress and hazards, and suffering of World War II are those whose ages precluded them from taking an active part in the efforts of a quarter of a century ago to create effective machinery for the prevention of the use of armed force in the settlement of disputes among nations; and

Whereas, it has become the grim responsibility of this generation of American citizens to be scattered to the remote parts of the earth to risk or sacrifice their lives, their homes, and future hopes to fight a war which might have been averted by the establishment twenty-five years ago of the proper organization for world peace; and

Whereas, the men and women in the uniform of the United States armed forces today have seen or suffered first-hand evidence of the holocaust visited upon their generation by the tragic blunders of a small group of their elders in official places after World War I; therefore be it

Resolved, That it is the sense of the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania that at all United Nations' conferences, public or private, having to do with the establishment of an organization for peace or the development of plans for peace, there shall be in attendance, at all times, in an official capacity, representatives of those who have served, or are serving, as enlisted personnel and commissioned officers with the armed forces of the United States.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

The SPEAKER. We are assembled to pay honor to the Commanding General of the Pennsylvania State Guard and through him, to all the officers and enlisted men of that splendid organization.

Recruited to replace the Federalized National Guard, the members of the State Guard have, by self sacrifice and diligence, built themselves into an organization ready to function in any emergency.

It now gives me great pleasure to present Major General Philip Hayes, Commanding General of the Third Service Command, who will present the citation to General Randolph, who, in turn, will present it to General

Milton G. Baker, the Commanding General of the Pennsylvania State Guard.

MAJOR GENERAL PHILIP HAYES. Your Excellency the Governor, Members of the General Assembly and honored guests, some time ago Brigadier General Randolph, the Commanding General of the Pennsylvania District recommended to me for special consideration a citation for the Commanding General of the Pennsylvania State Guard, Major General Milton Baker. Therefore, at this time I would like to present Brigadier General Norman Randolph, who will present the citation. General Randolph.

BRIGADIER GENERAL NORMAN RANDOLPH. General Baker, when the Pennsylvania District of the Third Service Command was established on June 20, 1944, General Hayes the Service Commander, prescribed as the primary mission of the District Commander: first, the establisment and maintenance of close liaison between the Governor of Pennsylvania and the Service Commander—and, second, coordination and collaboration with you in matters pertaining to the development—equipment—training—and employment of the Pennsylvania State Guard.

Thanks to your wholehearted cooperation—and that of Governor Martin—both of these missions have been—and are being—complied with to the fullest.

Because of his broad experience—his military background—his keen vision—and his foresight—Governor Martin was quick to perceive the urgent necessity for an efficient State Guard and the importance of its role in the scheme of National Defense—particularly in this state which ranks first in importance in the National War effort. He has left no stone unturned and has spared no effert to develop the State Guard. This was demonstrated when he designated you as its commander.

Coupled with the Governor's splendid support—your personal qualities of leadership—your organizing ability—your energy—and your tireless efforts have provided this Commonwealth with a State Guard which is second to none.

This I say authoritatively because—as District Commander—it has been my privilege to be closely associated with you professionally and personally. I have seen Guard Units on the armory floor and in field training. My staff has worked shoulder to shoulder with your staff on training projects and in the development of plans. Officers of my headquarters are serving with Guard Units as inspector-instructors. Consequently I know that your command is completely and thoroughly intigrated not only with scheme of national defense—but with the Governor's state disaster organization.

Save for a shortage of men to keep your units at effective strength—a condition which I am confident will be corrected in the immediate future—the Guard is well qualified and prepared to efficiently discharge its role in any disaster or emergency which may arise in the state. This fact was well demonstrated in Philadelphia last January when you so successfully conducted a command post exercise for the combined training of the staffs of federal and state guard units and of civil agencies—state as well as municipal—in a situation involving the maximum coordination and collaboration of all agencies during a disaster. The same team work will be practiced by units during a field exercise in April—here in Central Pennsylvania.

This term work for which you are—in large measure—responsible merits the highest praise and commendation. Accordingly—it is my honor and privilege to present to you before this distinguished gathering the following certificate of commendation.

> Major General Milton G. Baker, Pennsylvania State Guard, for exceptionally meritorious service in organizing, directing and presenting a Command Post Exercise in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on 28 January 1945. By his untiring personal effort and consummate tact, he secured the approval and the cooperation of State authorities, city officials and various civic organizations for this participation in the problem. His enthusiasm, physical activity and personal leadership were largely responsible for the success of the exercise. The arrangements and the attention given to every detail of the exercise were such as to display exceptional organizing ability. General Baker, through his complete charge of this project, has rendered an outstanding service for his State and the National Defense as a whole by creating a better understanding of the mutual capabilities of the various agencies and their methods of operation for accomplishing the desired result.

MAJOR GENERAL MILTON G. BAKER. Governor Martin, General Hayes, Mr. Speaker, Senators, and Gentlemen of the House of Representatives:

In am deeply appreciative of the honor paid me today by the Army, and equally appreciative of the honor you gentlemen have conferred upon me by convening here in joint session to witness this ceremony.

In accepting this citation, I do so with the conviction that it is primarily a citation for the accomplishment of the Pennsylvania Guard itself rather than for any individual contribution that I may have made to the Guard's efficiency. I am very happy to have this opportunity to speak to you not only as to the Guard's three-fold mission in our Commonwealth, but also to urge your support of its recruiting campaign in your local districts. As you know, the Pennsylvania Guard is the military force of the Commonwealth and has this three-fold mission: to defend the Commonwealth against attempted enemy invasion; to render emergency service in the event of disaster, such as floods, hurricanes, etc., and to render emergency service in the event of any type of civil disturbance. I believe that the old proverb that "A prophet is not without honor save in his own country," all too frequently applies to the officers and enlisted men of the Guard in your local communities. I know of no group of public servants who give more unstintingly of themselves than these men, and they do it almost entirely without compensation. They have taken upon themselves not only the responsibility of fulfilling their mission in smart, workmanlike and soldierly fashion, but, in general, of relieving the regular army by serving as an internal security force. Too frequently these officers and men do not receive the support from the community that they are entitled to.

Service in the Pennsylvania Guard is of prime military importance to both the Commonwealth and the Nation, and such sacrifices as are made by members of Guard units in this service are sacrifices which come within the same category as those made by members of the Federal forces, the difference being only in degree of sacrifice. Devoted patriotic men have been performing this important military service unheralded and unsung for the past three and a half years and now need important additions to their numbers to replace losses incurred through induction into Federal service and through enlargement of the Guard itself. Every qualified citizen, otherwise deferred from service, who is able to do so, should offer himself for a period of voluntary Guard service at this time. The rendering of this servie, and the memory of it, will give later patriotic satisfaction when wartime activity of citizens is totaled and weighed. You gentlemen can urge your constituents to enlist in the local units and also can urge patriotic cooperation by the employers, newspaper editors, clergymen, and educators in your districts for the maintenance of these Guard units in proper numbers to discharge their important home-front mission.

The SPEAKER. It is a distinct pleasure to again present Major General Philip Hayes, who will address you.

MAJOR GENERAL PHILIP HAYES. Your Excellency the Governor, Mr. Speaker, officers and members of the Senate and the House; fellow officers and guests. When I stand up here the second time in not very many weeks I feel as though I was a sort of a Member here—I begin to recognize faces. However after what I have seen this morning I am not sure that I want to be a Member—when I look at all those books piled up on your desks. Nor do I see how in the world you can get through this session much before the Fourth of July, because after all, this is your program and you will have to stick to it.

I am particularly glad to again have the opportunity of speaking to you. Knowing that you are as busy as you are it is a great privilege to be allowed to meet with you in joint session today and to spend a short time with you. I shall make my talk very brief.

First, I would like to take this opportunity to thank your Governor, General Martin, for the finest cooperation that anyone could ever wish for. I feel that I am most fortunate that he is sitting where he is, because he knows better than any other governor just what the needs and the necessities for cooperation are at this time.

I would like to thank General Baker of the State Guard for the assistance he has given. I remember very distinctly during the Philadelphia Transit strike the great help that General Baker gave me, together with his staff and their assistants.

I would like to thank General Vail, the Adjutant General, who has always been most helpful.

I would also like to thank Colonel Wilhelm, State Police Chief, who has done everything I ever asked him to do. I know that you can realize what that means—cooperation. I have had it one hundred percent from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and I am most grateful.

I want to talk to you about this matter of the State Guard. Things over there seem to be going fairly well, they are up to our expectations, but not one of us can look into the crystal ball and tell exactly what the future is going to be. With that uncertainty, that lack of vision that the human being has, it is very necessary that we take judgment of ourselves and of our position, make an estimate of the situation, and think of the tools that we have to work with.

Your Governor has a very definite responsibility; he is responsible for the life and protection of human beings and property in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. He is responsible to handle all emergencies, domestic disturbances and natural disasters such as cyclones and things of that nature. That is his responsibility; that is the responsibility that you men in front of me have given him—you speaking for your constituents. After giving him that responsibility it is then to your interest to see that he has the tools with which he can carry on those responsibilities.

What is going to happen? Just what the next two or three years of life will be, as I said, we do not know. Everyone must be thinking in terms of his own area, as your Governor thinks in terms of the Commonwealth. You know the assignments you have given him, he has the responsibility of carrying them out. He can call on the Federal forces, only after he has tried every possible means and feels that he cannot handle the situation. Then you, if you are in session, or if you are not your Governor must call personally on the President of the United States and say "I cannot handle this situation with the means that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has given me, and I request Federal forces to take over and handle the situation."

That is where I would come into the picture, after being directed to take over the situation with the Federal forces. That is a situation which you or no man wants. You want to handle your own matters of safety and protection, your own emergencies and your own disasters.

In order to do that what must your Governor have? He must have a fast moving striking force, with fine communications, with the ability to go here and there—that striking force as his State Police. In order to do that properly he must have the equipment. In order to handle those situations he must have the materiel. That is your responsibility, to see that your Governor has a State Police that has that equipment and that materiel.

Then next he has a much larger agency in the State Guard. Your National Guard is federalized, and making a grand record over there that all of us here are proud of, but over here things must be taken care of during their absence, and they are a magnificent team that cannot be federalized and remain a state unit.

You can be proud of your State Guard. It is in the top light of State Guards in this country. I have seen practically all of them, but your standards must be high, you must be able to deliver, and to be able to deliver you must have the means whereby you can do it. So I say each and everyone of you has a very direct responsibility to make available to your Governor the means whereby he can handle any situation that arises in this State—that is his responsibility.

I have no fear about General Martin; he will handle any situation. Only when the almost impossible arises will he call upon Federal forces, but you will have to give him what he needs. He knows; he was with the army twelve years before I graduated from West Point; he has been a soldier all his life. He knows what the army is. He has been in the army for years so that he will not ask you for what he should not have, but when he asks I would like to say, I think you ought to give it to him because he knows what he needs.

It has been a great pleasure to speak to you, and I want to thank you for the great opportunity of being able to say these few words to you in joint session. Thank you.

The SPEAKER. Ladies and gentlemen, His Excellency, Governor Martin.

GOVERNOR MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, General Hayes, Members of the General Assembly and fellow Americans, I will be very brief. First, I am thankful for a government like that in America where the Legislative, the Executive, and the Military can meet in the same room and discuss our problems. Such a thing could not occur in any other nation in the world.

General Hayes, I want to express my great appreciation, Sir, for your help and your great understanding in the organization and training of the Pennsylvania Guard. The Third Service Command is most fortunate in having you as its commander.

Senator Taylor and Speaker Fiss again I want to thank you and through you the Members of the two legislative bodies of Pennsylvania for the magnificent cooperation you have given at all times.

This meeting this morning means so much to the Guard of Pennsylvania, way beyond what you realize. I also at this time want to publicly express my appreciation to General Baker, Commander of the Pennsylvania Guard and his officers and men, who are carrying on in a manner which is so satisfactory to Pennsylvania. Publicly I thank you.

I want to at this time publicly express the appreciation of Pennsylvania for the work of Civilian Defense, and I want to say to you that that work should continue unabated until this terrible war ends.

Let us bear in mind at all times, that there is nothing as yet to indicate the complete collapse of our enemies. The work of our Army and our Navy all over the world is magnificent, nothing in all history has equaled it. But, my fellow Americans, bear this in mind, Japan still has six million soldiers who have not been committed to this battle, and that army must be destroyed before peace in the world can exist. So the home front work must continue. That means that the Pennsylvania Guard, the Pennsylvania Police, the local police authorities, civilian defense and the work in the two thousand critical war plants of this Commonwealth must continue. There must be no let up day or night in production, and in our vigilance until the white flag floats over Berlin and it floats over Tokyo, and in its place is the flag of righteousness as represented by our nation and our allies.

Again I want you to know how greatly I appreciate your taking time off for these ceremonies. Will you please when you go back home to your various communities encourage our Guard units. We need more men. Will you carry that message back home?

In conclusion will you stand and let us remember the nine hundred thousand men and women from Pennsylvania who are in the armed services. Over thirteen thousand Pennsylvania boys and girls have made the supreme sacrifice. Ten thousand others are in enemy prisons or are missing in action. That is one-third of the total of Meade's army at Gettysburg. Will you stand and join with me in prayer for the boys and girls of Pennsylvania and the entire nation who have made the supreme sacrifice?

PRAYER

Chaplain MAJOR FRANK D. SCOTT offered the following prayer:

Almighty and eternal God, we lift our hearts in humble thanks to Thee as we gather here in the midst of this holy week, sacred to all the faiths represented in our Commonwealth, in order that we may pay solemn tribute to those who have gone into the service of their country. not only in the far away battle lines of the earth, but here at home, those who are helping to carry on to peace and victory.

We pause to pay special tribute to those who have made the supreme sacrifice. We pray that the hearts and the homes of all those who have been bereaved may be comforted in this solemn hour. And O God, we pray that all our citizens and all of those engaged in the service of our Commonwealth and of our country may rededicate their lives to larger and richer service so that we may soon have a day of peace and victory in the world.

We ask that we may all be vigilant, that we may do those things which are pleasing in Thy sight, so that we may be worthy of being called followers of the One who gave His life as a sacrifice for the salvation and freedom of the world.

And now, may the God of Peace that brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, that great Shepherd of the sheep, through the blood of the everlasting covenant and the sacrifices that have been made in our behalf. Make us all perfect to do Thy will and to do Thy work toward the day of the shining and more perfect light. Amen.

Following the prayer "Taps" was sounded.

Governor Martin and the officers who accompanied him retired from the Hall of the House.

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection

House Bill No. 685, Printer's No. 364,

was passed over at the request of the Speaker.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. COHEN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

May I say to the Speaker and Members of the House that House Bill 685 is not constitutional. I agree with the gentleman from Venango, Mr. McKinney. An amendment will be prepared to make the bill constitutional.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. McKINNEY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I simply want to thank the gentleman on the other side of the House for their expert advice and I glad that they concur with me on this bill.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. ANDREWS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I hope that since it is a very simple matter, that the gentleman will consent to offer his amendments on the floor of the House without the formality of sending the bill back to committee. We quite agreed with him yesterday that the bill was in need of amendment; we didn't see the need of sending it back to committee, since it could be so easily amended on the floor, where we could be watching him all the time.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. LICHTENWALTER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I would just like to say that yesterday when the gentleman from Venango, Mr. McKinney, asked to have this bill recommitted because of his statement as to the constitutionality of the bill, the clerks recorded only one "No." The gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Trout, and myself were also on our feet, and I want the record corrected; I want it to be clear on the record.

Besides, I informed the gentleman from Cambria that his colleague the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Cohen, said definitely that it was constitutional yesterday. He should probably be informed as to the five minute rule in reading the bill. If we had taken the statement of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Cohen, as to the supplement to the calendar we would certainly have been greatly misinformed.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. COHEN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, if this House had agreed yesterday with the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Lovett,—not that I want to bring him into the picture,—we would have abolished and repealed a rule which prevents us from discussing what went on in committee, but I heard rumors going around; one of the newspaper men mentioned it to me, which probably makes it legal to discuss what has gone on in committee, since it has already gone to press, and we may hear it said in committee that Cohen said it was unconstitutional and that he had hoped that the amendments would not be put in the bill. My opinion is still valid that the bill is unconstitutional, and I will tender my bill to the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Lichtenwalter, for services when the session is over.

There being no objection

House Bill No. 1110, Printer's No. 361 and

House Bill No. 411, Printer's No. 377

were passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

BILLS NOT ON FILE

The SPEAKER. The following bills are not on file and will therefore be passed over:

House Bill No. 739, Printer's No. 384,

House Bill No. 850, Printer's No. 386,

House Bill No. 795, Printer's No. 385 and

House Bill No. 100, Printer's No. 383.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Messrs. MOSER and FREED offered a resolution which was read, considered and unanimously adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 28, 1945.

Thirty-five years ago, in the village of Palmerton, there was born to Bert A. and Ellen M. Lichtenwalter, a son, who, through the years that have followed, has grown into our Majority Floor Leader.

At the time of his arrival no one in Palmerton knew that this latest arrival would some day make the town important, but he has since surprised and delighted everyone with his rapid progress.

He is not only the Majority Leader of this House, but he has twice been elected Justice of the Peace in Upper Saucon Township in Lehigh County, and his friends in Center Valley refer to him as the "Squire." Our Majority Leader not only controls the work of this House, but he is the legal control in his home community and on the side he runs a progressive insurance business.

As a joiner he has an enviable record for he is a member of the Masonic Fraternity, Lehigh Consistory, Honorary First Defenders of Allentown, The Grange, Jr. O. U. A. M., Lions Club, American Business Club and of many sportsmen's and political clubs.

He was elected a member of this House in 1938 and has been its Majority Floor Leader since the organization of the Session of 1943; therefore be it

Resolved, That the members of this House extend to the Honorable Franklin H. Lichtenwalter, its very best wishes for many more anniversaries of his natal day, that each succeeding one will find him happier and more prosperous and that his continuance in public office will be uninterrupted so long as he desires to serve the cause of good government; and be it further

Resolved, That in testimony of our esteem for his talents of leadership and of our genuine liking for him, we direct the Chief Clerk of the House to transmit to him a copy of this Resolution.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was unanimously adopted.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Lichtenwalter.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I certain want to thank the Members of the House for this very splendid resolution on the observance of my birthday. I received from a minority Member when I came into the Hall of the House three cigars. He probably has noticed that my supply becomes exhausted up here at the front desk, and I had to send Bennie out for cigars very often through the day.

These cigars I notice are manufactured in a neighboring county to mine, by Wolf Brothers, and they are called "Crooks-Mild." I don't know whether that has any significance or not. At least I am very happy to know that I am only a mild person in the matter of crooks. But truthfully, gentlemen, I was also told that each cigar represents twenty-five years. I don't know whether I look that old. I want to assure the Members of the House that I do not feel that old.

Again I want to thank you and tell you that if I go through many more sessions with as close a majority as we have in the 1945 session my hairs will become a great deal thinner than they are at the present time, and I am losing them very fast. I again thank you.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. ANDREWS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, filching a phrase from the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Cohen, since the Majority Leader, being thirty-five, may now be considered out of his legislative diapers we will, if we have the pleasure of seeing him in another session, put him in short pants, and another session we will put him into full length trousers.

It has been a pleasure—so far—to have had the privilege of working with the Majority Leader. His uniform courtesy and the strong bond that constitutes his word has made the position that I temporarily occupy much easier than it would have been had he been a man of craftier mind.

There is just one blot upon his escutcheon, one possible blot; I didn't know until I heard what his occupation was just why we had raised the fees of the minor judiciary, but I think that is quite all right, and while I do not expect, if they reapportion this House, that I will be back—because they are going to legislate me out of office, I do think in all probability he will be back, and since he has had the good fortune to be born with thoughtful precaution during the time that the Legislature is in session I presume that he is now entering upon a succession of congratulatory resolutions, which as far as I am concerned may be continued until he is at least ninety-five.

The SPEAKER. The Chair wishes to congratulate the Majority Leader, the gentleman from Lehigh, with the hope that he serves the Legislature, and really serves out those seventy-five years.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. WRIGHT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, briefly I wish to call your attention to the greatest event in all history and the life of man.

Next Sunday, April 1st, will be Easter Day. No other day so stirs the spirit of hope and courage of man, making his broken like akin to the wonders of spring and a prophecy of more life.

Hope and courage we have in some degree, for our daily affairs; but here is a hope that leaps beyond the border of time, and a courage that dares to face the eternity beyond our days.

For this Easter stands in his history, its heroic faith, its springing earth, its prophecy of renewal putting off the tyrany of time and the terror of the grave; in the victory of the spirit.

The glory of Jesus is, that He brought life and immortality to light, lifted it out of dim groping shadows and made it a revelation of what life is and is to be.

All Christian denominations of America sing the song "Up from the grave He arose." We will say, "Up to the cross he went, facing all that fate and his foes could do, trusting the power of love alone; and it won, turning defeat into victory—even victory over the power of death itself."

Really my friends today is the newest thing in all history, as life begins all over each morning, for morning is God's gift for a new start for man.

Therefore, we must look to this day for it is life. But today well lived will make all yesterdays a dream of happiness and every tomorrow a vision of hope, and only those thoughts should remain in our minds that give fruitage for the days to come.

All regrets are vain. Blunders cannot be wiped out, but they tell us something, and that is to learn from them and leave them in the past where they belong.

We instinctively believe in the people who believe in themselves,from them are selected the leaders who create and inspire.

It is impossible to believe in anything that does not ring true. We believe in the permanence that the Creator himself believed in. There is something deathly about sincerity.

"Give me the glory of going on and still to be," cried a great poet; we believe it is greater than the glory of the warrior, the glory of oratory, greater than the song that celebrates it.

It is a glory that puts a new meaning and value in life with its efforts, so sadly baffled, its sorrow so dark, its realization so fragmentary and incomplete.

We must have faith in God the Father, and in man the brother—The God within us and above us, and the man next to us.

To believe in the people is to believe in all the people, not in a few, a clan, a class, a sect.

As we do not ask logic to prove the advent of spring, so there is no need to argue of a faith older than history; and more profound than all philosophy.

The mighty love of God moving in the soft spoken spring time, weaving in silence a robe of white for the lilly, of blue for the violet, of red for the rose, will clothe our spirits as he wills.

We can work with brave hearts, endure with serenity and delight without alloy, if we know that the good we aim at here and never quite attain, is a token and a prophecy of what we shall be.

Easter is an anthem singing victoriously in the heart of nature and the soul of man, celebrating the triumph of life over the white death of winter and the dark winter of death.

Older than all eras, older than any living religion, it is the prophecy of life itself, refusing to admit that the grave is the gigantic coffin lid decending upon the heroic soul of man.

Such audacity of faith in the face of dark fatality fills one with awe. At least it shows that there is something in man that ought not to die.

To all of us inevitably the wonder of spring with its bursting buds and bird song bring a wistfulness, too, also recalling all the lost Aprils of years agone and lovely faces fallen in the dust.

Yet something deep within us, deep as life and love and death, tells us that the spirit of man, frail and fleeting though it is, belongs to a real world where dull death does not reign.

We believe in Easter Day because it was on that first Easter that the Son of Man walked from his tomb, thereby proving to all mankind the unbelievable—that man could live and die and live again.

Down upon the homes of our living and the graves of our dead, the light of Easter will fall, bathing our mortality with wonder and deepening our wistfulness into worship.

If life is worthless so is immortality. God be thanked for a life that interprets life, and a death that defeats death, showing to what heights our little winged souls may soar, see and sing.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. BROWN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I would not let the day pass without expressing my deep appreciation to the Members of the House who on yesterday were so kind as to give up their seats until just about fifteen minutes before the session convened in order to accommodate the people who were here for a public hearing on House Bill 354, Senate 444 and the other bills dealing with FEPC legislation.

Inasmuch as there is no record made of these proceedings, I want to take this opportunity so that the records may show that we not only appreciate the cooperation of the Members of the House, but that of the Speaker, the Parliamentarian, the Chief Clerk, and the gentleman who had to do with our sound apparatus—all of these gentlemen helped materially in handling the crowd that came yesterday to the hearing.

I want the record to show that, Mr. Speaker, because those people came yesterday for something which is very vital in our government, and I would like to call to the attention of the members Section 20 of Article I of the Bill of Rights of the Constitution, because I don't believe we give enough emphasis to that section of our Constitution. I want to quote it for the record so that the gentlemen may know that what they did yesterday was in furtherance of our Constitutional form of government for which our men fight and die.

I quote, Mr. Speaker, Section 20, Article I of the Bill of Rights of the Constitution of Pennsylvania:

> The citizens have a right in a peaceable manner to assemble together for their common good, and to apply to those invested with the powers of government for redress of grievances or other proper purposes, by petition, address or remonstrance.

I simply want the record to show that we were all performing our constitutional duties, and I assure you, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, that far beyond whatever may come of the legislation that was before the joint committee, the inspiration that these people received—some of whom had never been to our capitol before—the inspiration that came to them and the knowledge that here in our own state they can come as humble citizens to petition their government means more than any legislation that we may pass. Very few of them perhaps know that the constitutional amendment give them the right, but they know that they are free people and they know that they live in a free country; they came here as free citizens, and we received them. As long as we do that we need never fear Fascism, Totalitarianism, Nazism or any other form of government which is inimical to the government of a constitutional form which we represent here today.

Mr. CULLEN offered a resolution which was filed with the Clerk.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. EDWIN S. WALLACE, D. D., offered the following prayer:

In Thy mercy and under the protection of Thy Holy Spirit we have again come to the anniversary of the crucifixion and the resurrection of Christ, our Savior. The men and women of Christendom will commemorate with prayer and praise these wondrous events and their meaning. The church of Christ in all the world will honor the Victim of Calvary and the Victor over death by recalling the sacrifice of the Cross and the glory of the Risen Lord.

In our concern about many things may we give thought to the significance of Good Friday and Easter. Nothing we have to do in this world bears any comparison in its effect upon our national and individual lives as does our relationship to the Person who was crucified for our redemption and rose for our justification.

May our faith in His perfect work manifest itself in Christly attitude and deeds to all men everywhere—even to our enemies. Enable us to throw down the barriers of bigotry, the walls of prejudice, and to look upon all men as sons of our God and brothers of one blood.

In the name of Him who was dead but is alive forevermore. Amen.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. COX asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, if I may have the attention of the members of the Senate for a short time, I would like to discuss the problem of the mentally ill in Pennsylvania.

On March 7 I presented a resolution to the Senate requesting an immediate senatorial investigation of the state mental institutions of Woodville and Mayview. This resolution was presented because our local newspapers carried a series of articles in which they had described the fact that those institutions were so overcrowded that the mentally ill of Allegheny county were shackled to their cells in the Allegheny county prison. Much to my great regret the Senate did not see fit to pass that resolution, but sent it to committee.

The problem of the mentally ill is one of the most tragic of all the problems this legislature has to solve. Mental illness is not an illness which is particular to any class of society, any social group or any political party. Within the circle of relationship and friendship of every member of this Senate there are people who have been or who will be mentally ill, people who must be confined to our state institutions for the cure of the mentally ill.

I was not satisfied to sit supinely by when the Senate refused this investigation, so I appointed myself as a one-man-committee of the Senate to personally investigate conditions in Woodville and Mayview.

I started my study by first going to the local communities, and there I found, when the police authorities of the local communities faced a crisis in which someone was ill and needed confinement, there was no state institution to take them until such time as they could be committed to our state mental institutions. The reason for that is that it takes an average of five days before commitment papers can be completed and the patient legally admitted to one of our mental institutions. At the time of a crisis the mental institutions will not take a person who is mentally ill, until he has been legally committed.

The method by which the local communities solve this problem of the mentally ill was quite an interesting one to me, quite a tragic one. I found, for instance, that one community during that particular week had picked up in the streets of that community a woman who was insane, and upon interrogating her they found that one of the neighboring communities, knowing of her condition, had given her carfare, put her on a street car and told her to get off at the second community. The police officials picked her up and put her in a police car and took her back to the community from which she came and dumped her there.

This is a tragic thing, and it is being repeated daily throughout the great metropolitan areas of the Commonwealth; it is being repeated because there is not anything else that the local communities can do.

I went to Miss O'Hara—I have had a series of conferences with her relative to the problem of mental health. Two weeks ago I spent an entire day at both Mayview and Woodville, and last Saturday I went to Polk.

Yesterday I took this problem to the Governor of this Commonwealth. Subsequent to the introduction of my resolution on March 7, in which I requested an investigation of Mayview and Woodville, the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Walker, went to Miss O'Hara and asked her if she would come up to the Senate and have a conference with members of the Senate from Allegheny County. At that conference it was decided that there should be a subsequent conference in Pittsburgh. That conference was held. Present were the members of the city council of Pittsburgh, the mayor, the county commissioners and most of the members of the Senate from Allegheny county. That conference was of no avail. Nothing was accomplished of any kind, but I did learn one thing that certainly should be of interest to all the members of this Senate. Miss O'Hara said at that conference, as she had said to me prior to that time, that the problem of the care of the mentally ill of Pennsylvania was a problem for the Legislature.

Gentlemen, if the problem of the care of the mentally ill is a problem for the Legislature, then this Assembly of Pennsylvania bears the onus for the conditions that prevail today in Pennsylvania in every institution for the mentally ill.

I can only describe the institutions at Mayview and at Woodville as houses of the living dead, true chambers of horror. You are familiar with the works of Charles Dickens. You can take his description of insane asylums in England and in many instances his description would be a true description of those institutions.

I want to say this, that the condition which prevails at these institutions, I am satisfied is not the result of the men who staff the institutions.

I believe that Dr. Pfeifer, the superintendent of Woodville, and the other five physicians which comprise its staff, have done a remarkable job. The same thing is true of Dr. Llewellyn at Mayview and his staff. In every war there are men who are decorated for bravery, and yet many of the greatest heroes of war receive no recognition and their acts of bravery are unknown, and I think these men who compromise the staffs of these two institutions are heroes in the full sense of the word.

At Woodville there is a staff of six physicians, consisting of the superintendent and his assistant and four other physicians. The superintendent and his assistant must devote all their time to the administration of that institution. That leaves four other physicians or psychiatrists to handle the problem of the mentally ill.

Gentlemen, had you visited with me these institutions I know you would share with me the horror which you would have felt. As long as I live the tragedy that was written on the faces of many of those ill people will live with me; I will never be able to forget it.

I have talked to various members of this Senate and attempted to interest them in this problem and the answer has always been "John, we do not want to see any part of it," and I assure you, gentlemen, it was not a pleasant experience for me; if I could have avoided it I would have. It is much nicer, when the sun is shining and spring is in the air, to spend one's time walking in the open, rather than going to see the picture which I saw in these institutions.

My only reason for speaking today is with the hope that in some way you will see this picture as I saw it, and in some way you will be willing to do something about it. I know the personality and the character of the men in this Senate, and I know they are the kind of people who realize the problems of this state are many. There are some things we have to do and this is one of them. The problem of overcrowding is an important problem. It is not the result of the war. It is the lack of proper planning through many administrations of this Commonwealth.

Last Sunday at Polk Dr. Henninger, a psychiatrist from Pittsburgh, told me that over forty years ago he was on the staff at Polk and at that time a campaign was waged in which he went around to various charitable institutions and churches, to try to interest people in a program to raise $10,000,000 to try to do something about overcrowding.

Every available bit of space that can be used at Woodville is being used. All the recreational rooms are being used as dormitories. The halls in the third floor of the particular section of the institution which houses the female mentally ill, which is an attic, has in it 150 beds The people who are confined to those beds are people who are acutely ill. By that I mean that if there were a fire they would be helpless. The only method of getting out of that attic is one little narrow staircase, and if there ever were any hurry or any reason to evacuate that third floor, if there were a fire, it could not be done.

The same condition prevails at Mayview; we again have another problem of overcrowding. I made a statement that these institutions were places where we housed in Pennsylvania the living dead, and I said that for this reason, the field of psychiatry has made remarkable and rapid strides. To cite you an example four out of every hundred women have mental problems during the menopause, the average of which usually lasts from eight months to eight years, and yet by the use of one instrument, a shock machine, in most cases that can be cut down to three weeks. Our mental institutions in Allegheny county are not places to which we send people to treat; they are only places where we take custody of them.

Imagine, if you can, a room one-eighth the size of this, with 150 people who are mentally ill confined therein, representing 27 different types of dementia—the melancholics, the maniacs, the paranoics. The room is surrounded with benches and those who can sit still long enough sit on the benches. There is not anything for those people to do. They are taken out of bed and they are placed in this room and that is where they stay. If they have a cold, somebody tries to treat the cold, but no body tries to do anything about their dementia. How could you expect the persons responsible for their mental care to do anything about it?

At Woodville there is a staff of six psychiatrists; the superintendent and the assistant superintendent have to spend all their time in the detail of running the institution, and that leaves four other psychiatrists—alleged psychiatrists.

Dr. Llewellyn, who is the superintendent at Mayview, stated to me that all they can do is touch those cases which are acute; as far as chronic cases are concerned they can not do anything about them because they are under-staffed.

In Woodville there are 1,250 women who are mentally ill and there is one psychiatrist to take care of the 1,250 women. Again probably the thought would recur, it is the war and we can not get physicians, but performance in the past has shown that the department is only set up to have six psychiatrists in that institution; it has never had more than six. Dr Pfeifer has told me that he needs a minimum of twenty to do any good.

I used the expression "alleged psychiatrists," not in a vein of sarcasm or criticism of the capacity or capability of the doctors who work there; I used it because they are not psychiatrists. Do you know that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, one of the wealthiest in America, pays to its beginning physicians at these state institutions the magnificient beginning salary of $141 a month, and I ask you, with compensation such as that, do you think that Pennsylvania is going to get the best brains in the medical world to take care of its mentally ill?

Another problem is the fact that we are so terribly lacking in attendants. The attendant ratio at Woodville is one to about each five hundred people, and again the blame for that condition is placed on the war. Do you think, gentlemen, that you would care to work in an institution for the mentally ill, if you were trained to care for the mentally ill, at a salary of $69 a month? How could we ever expect Pennsylvania to get people who were trained to take care of the mentally ill, people of a high type, for the magnificient wage of $69 a month? It is true that a doctor who gets $141 a month also gets maintenance, and it is true that the attendant who gets $69 a month also gets maintenance. So the record may be clear, there are three classes of attendants; class "b," which gets $69 a month; class "a," supposed to be much better trained, which gets from $81.50 to $91.50 a month; and class "c," and that is supervisory force, and they get the sum of $96.50 to $115 a month.

At both Mayview and Woodville there are parts of those institutions in which are housed the indigent of Allegheny county, and it is an interesting commentary that we, the state of Pennsylvania, start our attendants at the magnificient salary of $69 a month and Allegheny county starts its attendants at a salary of $83 a month, and gives them three raises of $12 each so that at the end of three years they are making $119 a month. You can imagine how the people who work for the state must feel when they are working beside, in the same institution, people paid by the county whose income is much higher.

To recur to this question of the staff, I want you to fix in your minds these figures: We need at Woodville alone twenty psychiatrists—not twenty physicians—twenty psychiatrists.

To recur to the housing situation, there can be no excuse for an institution in Pennsylvania that has one bath-tub for 150 mentally ill women. If you care to check my figures, if you visit the institution, have the superintendent take you through Ward 8 and you will find that there are confined there in that ward 150 women, and those 150 women are supposed to be kept clean in one bath-tub. I just wonder how many times those people are bathed.

Dr. Pfeifer tells me that they are bathed twice a week but, having seen the seriousness of their illness, and it being obvious that they have to be cared for by attendants, it is very questionable what the state of hygiene would be.

It is an interesting commentary that we advertise and subsidize the Saturday Evening Post, in which are printed beautiful advertisements calling attention of people in other states of the Union to the fact that Pennsylvania is a good place in which to live, and I imagine that the cost of one advertisement would take care of the problem of bath-tubs in Woodville.

I could probably talk for days and hours on this thing, because it is a thing that bothers me; I have been depressed ever since I visited those two institutions, because I know that it is such an easy problem to solve, it is only a problem of money.

The Governor is conversant with the problems of our mental institutions. He appointed a committee to make an investigation of every mental institution of Pennsylvania. You have on your desks a report of that committee. Miss O'Hara and her department took that report and figured the cost of doing the things recommended by the Governor's own committee; it came roughly to $153,000,000.

If you take the budget—and I have scanned it from cover to cover, hoping some place there would be hidden the financial answer to this problem—you will find the Governor has set up a sum of $15,000,000 out of our surplus for the last biennium of $110,000,000, as a part of a post-war plan for all the mental institutions in Pennsylvania—I understand there are about nineteen of them—and for all the penal institutions. Why, the cost of the job which has to be done in Woodville alone is $4,000,000 and the sum of $15,000,000 being offered as a post-war solution of the problem of the care of our mentally ill is fantastically ridiculous. Miss O'Hara's figures are approximately $153,000,000.

There is only one thing that I can say with regard to this question of finances as set forth in the budget—as members of this Legislature we have to forget about the whole thing. If we are going to do anything for these unfortunate people we have got to take the problem in our own hands, because the Governor has either repudiated the commission he set up, because its recommendations would cost $153,000,000, or he is indifferent to the care of the mentally ill of Pennsylvania.

I make this speech as a last resort. I have done everything with every department of this Commonwealth that I could do to try to get some action. Yesterday I went to the Governor to talk this matter over, and probably the only polite way I can say what happened to me was that I got a brush-off, and I say that because on acquainting him with my difference with him in the amount set up to take care of the mentally ill in Allegheny county, he indicated to me that was the amount he had set in his budget and as far as he was concerned that was all it was going to be.

I am only one-fiftieth of the Senate of Pennsylvania, but I am going to do everything I possibly can to see that our mental institutions are among the best in the world and not among the worst.

Last Sunday I went to Polk. One of the members of this Senate is a member of the Board of Trustees. It is a beautiful institution, which nestles among the mountains; the buildings are well kept. They have minor problems, and they have one major problem, of overcrowding, but you could not believe, if you were to go to Polk and then go to Mayview or Woodville, that there could be the difference between two institutions which were the property of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

I am afraid that we are too much concerned in this Legislature with the problems of business and its regulation, and we are not sufficiently concerned with the problems of the people. Miss O'Hara told the truth when she said that this was our problem. I do not accept it solely as our problem; I think we have a joint responsibility with the Governor of this Commonwealth. I have heard in many speeches on the floor of this Senate the accusation made that our Federal Government, our Federal Congress, had forgotten that it represented the people, it was completely under the domination of the President, but I am coming rapidly to the conclusion that that same statement can be applied to the Legislature of this Commonwealth.

In 1943 a senatorial committee went into the hard coal region to investigate the subsidence of land. That was an honest committee. When the investigation was completed legislation was introduced in this Senate, which passed the Senate, and then the coal barons went to work; the legislation went to the House and died. Senator Stevenson, Senator Coleman and myself re-introduced that legislation in this session of the Senate, and I have yet to hear one word about subsidence in the hard coal area.

There are many other things that we can do, which it is our duty to do. I hope no member of this Senate ever has the bitter problem of what to do if dread insanity should strike his household and he should be compelled to send some loved one to the institutions of Mayview or Woodville, and I can say this, that if it became necessary for my wife or my daughter to be sent to one of those institutions permanently, I would much rather that they were dead.

As far as I am concerned this is only the beginning. I offer to every member of this Senate an invitation to be my guest at my home at any time it is convenient to them, I will gladly see you come, and have you go with me to Woodville and Mayview and, gentlemen, I will tell you this, if you go, if you have enough courage to spend ten hours in those institutions, I will never have to make another speech about the mentally ill in Pennsylvania, because you will be just as much determined as I, when you come back to Harrisburg, to do something about it.

There is not any excuse that psychiatric treatment of the right kind could not be given to the mentally ill of our institutions. If you are conversant with the treatment used in psychiatry, you know one of the things that soothes people who are distressed mentally is immersing them in a tub of water, those tubs being of a special kind, not too expensive; there is not one tub of that type available for the 1,250 women in Woodville in which hydrotherapy can be used, and there are three for the men.

Those things to me are indicative not only of a lack of understanding on the part of various departments of welfare we have had in this Commonwealth through the past, but of an absolute disinterest on the part of those Departments of Welfare.

I can not understand why it was necessary, three or four weeks ago, to send by messenger to members of the Legislature a pamphlet consisting of these investigations which had been made by private investigating committees appointed by the Governor, to have them placed on our desks and let the matter die there. If I were Director of the Department of Welfare of Pennsylvania, either the Legislature would provide the funds so that those institutions would be run as they should be, or I would not be Director of the Department of Public Welfare.

I issue a challenge to the members of this Senate and to the Governor of this state; this is our problem, it has a solution, and all we need is money. When we read the budget, the Governor brags about the fact that we have a tremendous surplus, and he takes great credit for the fact that much of that surplus is due to his economy of government. What kind of economy of government is it when it is at the expense of people who are ill because of no cause of their own?

That invitation still stands gentlemen, if you come to my home, at any time, we will go out to Mayview and we will go out to Woodville, and I assure you when you come back, as far as this Senate is concerned, we are going to do something about the mentally ill and, gentlemen, I pray that you do not wait, if you can come with me tonight, next week, before this session adjourns, because this is not a thing that can wait for two years, it is an immediate thing that has to happen, when in your own communities you have institutions similar to these I have mentioned; I think you should become acquainted with the problem, I think you should visit them, and if you do, I think we can get together, because in no sense of the word has this anything to do with politics; this is as nonpartisan a thing as ever could confront the Commonwealth and this great state.

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 34

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, at the request of the sponsor I call up House Resolution No. 34, Printers' No. 412.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 5, 1945.

There are hundreds of young men of this Commonwealth fighting today in France and Beligum and Germany and on the islands of the Pacific who have been awarded their law degrees, but have not had the time and have been deprived of the opportunity to take the examination that must be successfully passed before they can be admitted to the Bar of the Supreme Court because of their enlistment or induction into the service.

They are learning more about life and more about justice, and fairness, and equity than they could absorb in a score of years at home, and they are doing it in order to preserve our courts and our system of government by law.

While they are doing these things, they are losing the years that are important in the practice of the law, they are forgetting many of the minor things that one must remember in order to pass a bar examination, and when they return many will be required to spend months in preparing for the taking of the required examination. Their sacrifies and their injuries and the long days spent in active service will have no value in any examination—those sacrifices, and that time will only make an examination more difficult and what they did for us will prove a handicap; therefore be it

Resolved, by the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, that this House respectfully calls the attention of the members of the Supreme Court to the situation in which these boys have placed themselves, to the loss to them and to the great gain their sacrifice has meant to us, and suggests that it would be most fitting and appropriate to waive the taking of an examination to all those who have been in the armed service of the Nation for one year or more and who, before entering that service, had graduated from an accredited law school, and had no opportunity to take the State Bar Examinations; and be it further

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions shall be forwarded by the Chief Clerk of the House to the Prothonotary of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia, with the request that they be handed by him to the members of that Court.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. ANDREWS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, a session on Thursday next week will depend upon the Majority Leader's ability to produce a quorum. That is not a responsibility that rests upon this side of the House; it is a responsibility that rests upon the party in power. I shall most emphatically object and use every parliamentary expedient at my disposal to prevent a session next Thursday unless there is a quorum in the House.

I would ask the Rules Committee and those who formulate policy over the week end to consider whether we would not get more work done in more workmanlike fashion if we would alter the order of our procedure. Would not we get farther if we would assemble on Tuesdaly, abolish the Monday evening meeting, use Tuesday all day and in the evening have the committee meetings and party conferences, and use Wednesday, Thursday and Friday for the transaction of business, with only emergency meetings of committees? You would have your clear day for committee consideration, for party caucuses, and you would have three days of deliberations in the House. As it is, we waste part of Monday and we use the Monday evening session on many occasions for making speeches to the gallery. If we would change the hours I think we would get more work done.

I ask you to think it over and I also ask the Majority Leader to bear in mind his responsibility of producing a quorum for Thursday's session, if we meet next Thursday.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. LICHTENWALTER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I would just briefly make a reply to the gentleman from Cambria and tell him that I am cognizant of the fact that we should have a quorum here in order to transact business in the Hall of the House, and that I shall endeavor to produce that quorum next Thursday. I do not know if we lack a quorum this morning or not. I certainly was very pleased to find that on this side of the House we have a very substantial group of men and women representing the majority party. This being Holy Week, I was very pleased to have the gentleman from Cambria work with me on an agreed calendar today because of many of the religious beliefs the Members of the House wanting to leave last evening to return to their homes today. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I want to assure the gentleman from Cambria that as far as we are concerned on this side of the House we will certainly strive to produce that quorum so that we can meet next Thursday.

PUBLIC HEARING

There will be a public hearing on the major subsidy, equalization, and salary measures on Wednesday, April 4, 1945, at 8:15 p. m. in the Forum of Educational Building.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. HALL. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Monday, April 2, 1945, at 9 p. m.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 12:12 p. m.) the House adjourned.

SENATE

MONDAY, April 2, 1945.

The Senate met at 4:00 o'clock, p. m., Eastern War Time. The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor John C. Bell, Jr.) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. EDWIN S. WALLACE, D. D. offered the following prayer:

Our presence here today is reason enough for each of us, O God, to give Thee thanks for in Thee we have lived and moved throughout the night and thus far through the day. May we be mindful of the fact that we have had God's protecting care, and be grateful.

For the security, peace and plenty we enjoy here at home we give Thee thanks. Let us not forget that for these blessings millions of our fellowmen and women are paying the high price of sacrifice of all they hold dear, fighting in far-off places for what they, and we, believe to be right, and dying to establish that right in a war-torn world. Hasten the day, we pray Thee, when victory will reward them for all their sacrifices, and they can return to homes and loved ones.

May no failure on our part hinder the progress of our armed forces. Let us maintain a united front of production, whatever be the cost to us of time, money, effort or surrender of personal gain, that they who are giving all may be supplied with all they need for victory. Anything less on the part of any of us will be treason. The army of production must be as loyal as the army of conquest.

Loyalty to God and country we pray for in the name of Him who for us was loyal to the death. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. HEYBURN and Mr. SNOWDEN, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

COMMUNICATIONS OPPOSING HOUSE BILL No. 315

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I am in receipt of two communications, voicing protests against passage of House Bill No. 315.

I ask that these communications be spread up the record.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objective? The Chair hears none.

The communications are as follows:

P. A. R. D.

Philadelphia Association of Retail Druggists
2017 Spring Garden Street
Philadelphia, Pa.

March 16, 1945.

Honorable Anthony J. DiSilvestro
Member, Senate Committee on Public Health
Harrisburg, Penna.

Dear Sir:

We ask that you OPPOSE House Bill No. 215, referred to your committee, for the following reasons:

1. Bill No. 315 destroys safeguards erected by this state and in effect since 1905—which requires for the protection of public health that pharmacists be graduates of recognized colleges of pharmacy. The bill is a backdoor entrance to pharmacy, for many who do not have proper college, scientific and technical training.

2. Bill No. 315 serves neither the public health nor the public interest—and in fact—jeopardizes both by relaxing the educational requirements of an important public health profession.

3. Bill No. 315 holds up to ridicule and contempt the public health profession whose standards it would lower—and the state which would lower them.

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE House Bill No. 315.

Sincerely yours,
JOHN C. WALTON, Chairman,
Legislative Committee
Philadelphia Association of Retail Druggists.

Philadelphia Branch
American Pharmaceutical Association

March 20, 1945.

Honorable Anthony DiSilvestro
1505 South Fifteenth Street
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

Dear Sir:

The members of the Philadelphia Branch of the American Pharmaceutical Association at their meeting on Thursday, March 15, 1945, passed a motion opposing the legislation contained in House Bill No. 315 now referred to your committee for action.

This bill includes a provision which would permit persons licensed as qualified assistants to take the examination for Registered Pharmacist without meeting the present requirement of graduating from an accredited college of pharmacy. Such legislation not only destroys the professional standards of pharmacy but it also materially weakens one of the safeguards of public health. With the advent of many new and powerful drugs no one not fully trained in an institution of higher learning can possibly give to the public the service and protection that is now the sole prerogative of the registered pharmaiist. We feel most strongly that this bill is the sort of vicious legislation that must be prevented from becoming law. The attention of your committee to its objectionable features is respectfully requested.

Very truly yours,
JOHN E. KRAMER,
Secretary-Treasurer.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WAGNER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WAGNER. Mr. President, I wonder if I may have just a few minutes in which to call the attention of the Senate to a matter that will never be quite as timely as it will be today.

I have in my hand a copy of a proclamation issued by Governor Martin designating today, the second of April, as Free School Day in Pennsylvania. He goes on to state that:

"The public school system of Pennsylvania stands as a monument to the men whose wisdom, foresight, and courage placed equal educational opportunities within the reach of every child in the Commonwealth.

"No act of government in our history has done more to promote good citizenship or to raise the cultural and economic level of our people than the Free School Act which was signed by Governor George Wolf on April 1, 1834.

"In this time of conflict when the spiritual and moral values which we prize so highly are menaced by evil forces it is appropriate that we give thought to the manifold blessings with which the free school system has enriched our lives.

"Therefore, I, Edward Martin, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in accordance with the spirit and provisions of the Act of 1935, P. L. 275, do hereby proclaim Monday, April 2, 1945, as Free School Day to be observed as a day of grateful recognition of the efforts and achievements of Governor George Wolf and the brillian championship of free schools in the State Senate by the Honorable Samuel Breck and in the House of Representatives by the Honorable Thaddeus Stevens.

Futhermore, I request that appropriate exercises be held in the schools and other educational institutions and by patriotic civil, and fraternal organizations within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania."

Mr. President, I do not know what celebrations or observance of this free school day there may be by civic organizations and by educational institutions, but I think, if we are going to keep in step with the thought of the Governor at this time, we should be mindful of the fact that in the remaining weeks of this session, which we expect will be few, we must very seriously consider what provisions we are going to make of a forward-looking nature for our public schools.

As I was driving to Harrisburg this morning I saw, as I have seen many places in the last several weeks, bill-boards along the highway, on which appeared fresh posters, by a large refining company, calling attention to the fact that twenty-five years of petroleum progress has been made since Pearl Harbor. In other words, as always, since necessity is the mother of invention, science has been spurred on by the war to do marvelous things in a very short time, and that reminds me that that has been going on not only in petroleum but in a great many things.

We read that after the war we are going to have prefabricated houses, we are going to have glass that will not break and wood that will not burn; we are going to have stockings that will not run and clothes that refuse to wrinkle. We are making post-war plans for highways and various things, and I am hopeful we will not fail to keep in mind, as Legislators, the fact that the greatest hope of the future lies in the citizens of tomorrow, and what we really need—and I do not know where we can get it as surely and as certainly as we can from our public schools—what we need, lest we wake up from what seems to be a scientist's dream of heaven and find possibly we still have hell on Earth—we need to develop characters that will not crumble, minds that will not warp, and morals that will not easily wrinkle.

I trust that each and every one of we Senators, on this issue, which is completely non-partisan, will dedicate ourselves in the days ahead of us to seeing that an adequate job is done to further build the morale of those who operate our public schools and to give our boys and girls, yours and mine, that training which they are so sadly in need of, to take over and meet the challenge which will face them when peace comes in a short time.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WOODWARD asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, my only adverse criticism of this celebration is that our public school system is much too free. I have two examples, where I live—one is a man I employ, who has four children, and they are all being educated free of cost and that man does not pay a penny in taxes of any kind; I also have a Czechoslovakian girl refugee and she is being educated in Philadelphia and she does not pay a red cent, nor her family.

Therefore I say it is a bit too free, but on the other side I would like to remind the Governor and the Senator—the Senator and the Governor, either way—that in the House of Representatives there is a beautiful mural painting of Pennsylvania notables, and it is very notable that not one governor appears in the painting and not one politican—the only man who appears in the mural painting is Thaddeus Stevens, because he was the father of the public school system.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. GOURLEY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. GOURLEY. Mr. President, before presenting this bill I want to make the following brief statement:

Mr. President and members of the Senate, during the last several months in Western Pennsylvania there has been a severe epidemic of rabies or hydrophobia among dogs, which has been communicated to many persons, both young and old, as a result of which there is a quarantine existing in most towns and cities in Western Pennsylvania, from the dogs running at large.

I have learned that skunks, or pole-cats, are one of the greatest carriers of rabies or hydrophobia. The skunks get in combat with the dogs, bite them, and the dogs in turn carry it to the individual.

Under the law, as it now exists, skunks can only be killed between the fifteenth of November and January 31, and from the information which I have received, I believe if we were to open the season on the killing of skunks it might be of some material help in curbing the communication of this disease from skunks to a dog or a cat which in turn bites individuals.

I therefore present to the Chair the following bill, which will open the season on the killing of skunks.

BILL INTRODUCED AND COMMITTED

Mr. GOURLEY read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 632, entitled:

An Act to amend section six hundred one and to repeal section six hundred nine of the act, approved the third day of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 1225), entitled "An act concerning game and other wild birds and wild animals; and amending, revising, consolidating, and changing the law relating thereto," by permitting the killing of skunk at any time.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. COX asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, in 1943 I introduced Senate Resolution No. 39, which was passed by the Senate, and which directed the Joint State Government Commission to study the question of the penal institutions of Pennsylvania.

In conformity with that resolution a committee was set up not only to study the penal institutions but also the questions of the penal code and juvenile delinquency.

The gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Walker, was elected as the General Chairman of the Committee and the work was divided into three groups. Representative Thomas Lee of Philadelphia was sub-chairman of a committee to study penal affairs.

We have found that this problem of studying penal affairs in Pennsylvania is a tremendous problem and one which takes a great deal of time. The committee has not completed its study, and for that reason I present to the Chair at this time a resolution directing the Joint State Government Commission to continue the study of the subject of penal institutions in Pennsylvania.

I neglected to say, Mr. President, that I introduce this resolution on behalf of the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Walker, and myself.

RECOMMENDING THAT THE JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT COMMISSION CONTINUE ITS COMMITTEE ON PENAL CODE, JUVENILE DELINQUENCY AND INSTITUTIONS FOR THE PURPOSE OF COMPLETING ITS INVESTIGATION AND STUDY

Messrs. COX and WALKER offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, April 2, 1945.

Whereas, The welfare of the Commonwealth is dependent to a considerable extent upon the efficacy of its penal and correctional system, and it is important to this end that the administration of these functions be strengthened and placed upon the highest possible plane of achievement; and

Whereas, The Joint State Government Commission exists for the purpose of making investigations and studies and to gather information useful to the General Assembly; and

Whereas, Under Resolution, Serial No. 39, of the Regular Session of 1943, the Joint State Government Commission was requested to make a careful, thorough and impartial study of the whole question of crime prevention, incarceration, reform, probation, parole and pardon, as administered in the Commonwealth, and its Committee on Penal Code and Juvenile Delinquency has made a report, making certain recommendations which are incorporated in legislation and introduced in the House and Senate, as listed in the Summary Report of the Joint State Government Commission, dated March 5, 1945, but has not completed its entire study, and requests that it be continued into the next biennium; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate hereby directs the Joint State Government Commission that it continue to make and complete a careful, thorough and impartial study of the whole question of crime prevention, incarceration, reform, probation, parole and pardon, as administered in this Commonwealth, and report to the next regular session of the General Assembly its findings and its recommendations as to such changes, revisions and improvements as it may find to be necessary or desirable to correct any imperfections, insufficiencies and defects in the laws, and to correct any abuses and evils in any matter in connection with any phase of the general subject of such inquiry.

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 11 TAKEN FROM TABLE

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, last week the Committee on Judiciary General reported out, as amended, printed Resolution No. 11 from the House of Representatives.

I now call up that resolution from the table.

The Clerk read the resolution as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 30, 1945.

Whereas, The Penal Code approved June 24, 1939 contains numerous inconsistencies and considerable language which is open to construction and should be carefully studied and revised in order to make it effective for its intended purposes; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concurs), That the Joint State Government Commission is hereby directed to survey investigate, and consider all of the penal laws of the Commonwealth and to completely revise and restate such penal laws into codified form, and to report its findings and conclusions to the next regular session of the General Assembly, with a bill embodying a codification of the penal laws of the Commonwealth to be introduced at the next regular session of the General Assembly.

The Legislative Reference Bureau shall prepare the necessary drafts of all bills agreed on by the commission and shall furnish such advice and assistance as it may be called on to furnish

On the question,

Will the Senate concur in the same?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the House is requested.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

In conformity with law I have the honor hereby to nominate for the advice and consent of the Senate John C. Arnold, Clearfield, Clearfield County, for appointment as Judge of the Superior Court of Pennsylvania, to serve until the first Monday of January, 1946, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Honorable William H. Keller, President Judge, and the subsequent elevation of Honorable Thomas J. Baldrige as President Judge.

EDWARD MARTIN.

A motion was made by Mr. EALY and Mr. GELTZ,

That the Senate do advise and consent to the nomination reported.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. BARR. Mr. President and members of the Senate, it is very rarely that I elect to prepare a speech. The title of my subject today is juggling judgeships, and there have been so many juggling acts I was fearful I might miss one of them, so for that reason I have prepared the remarks I am about to make.

Governor Martin has placed the name of John Arnold, of Clearfield, before this honorable body for confirmation for the Superior Court. That is the occasion for my speaking. I do not, however, rise with the intention to cast reflection on the gentleman named.

I take this occasion rather to point out a well-established practice of the Republican leadership in this State, a practice to which Governor Martin is addicted and which has been more than common in my home City of Pittsburgh and County of Allegheny. It is the practice of juggling judgeships.

The Republican leadership which has so often cried piously that the Courts must be taken out of politics has apparently never even considered taking the politics out of the courts.

Their association with politics in the courts, indeed, is so long established, so old and comfortable and familiar that many members of the Grand Old Party do not recognize it as being anything out of order. Just recently we had an example which laid thumping emphasis on this fact. Governor Martin offered to Lieutenant-Governor Bell the place on the Superior Court bench to which he has now named Mr. Arnold. Mr. Bell declined with thanks and this astoundingly frank statement: "I can be of more service to my party as Lieutenant-Governor." Obviously, Mr. Bell saw nothing unusual in that statement because Republican judges have been serving the Republican Party for many, many years. Mr. Bell saw no reason to say "I can be of more service to the people as Lieutenant-Governor," because that is not what he meant. And in saying this, I wish to laud him for his engaging honesty. After all, our Lieutenant-Governor meant that he could be of more service to his party and that is what he said.

But, of course, he did say more. "More", gentlemen, and the dictionary defines more as meaning "greater in size, quantity, amount, degree, quality and the like."

Mr. Bell's statement seems to have perplexed one newspaper in my home town of Pittsburgh. The Post-Gazette printed an editorial which said in part:—

> "Just what Mr. Bell means by being of greater service to his party as Lieutenant-Governor than as a judge is rather hard to figure out. We were under the impression that judges were supposed to drop their politics when they went on the bench and mete out even-handed justice without favoring any party or any person above another. In that case, we don't see how any judge could render any service to his party, and we think the public would be highly indignant if he attempted to do so."

I think the implication is plain enough. If our Lieutenant-Governor had accepted Governor Martin's appointment to the Superior Court vacancy which then existed, he would naturally in accordance with Republican custom have expected to be of "service to his party." But whether such service would have been greater or less is now an imponderable. We merely know that he expects to be of even greater service as Lieutenant-Governor.

Now Governor Martin has named Mr. Arnold, and I am sure that he will not be disappointed in him. He has not been disappointed in the other judges of his creation, except perhaps those who failed of re-election. The Republican Party has never been disappointed by any of them.

Let us take some cases in point.

There is Howard W. Hughes of Washington, Pa., about whom the newspapers said it was wonderful for Governor Martin "to appoint his old friend" to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania on January 2, 1944. In the Fall of 1944, having become the Republican nominee in April, he was defeated by the Democratic candidate, now Justice Charles Alvin Jones. Not long after this defeat Mr. Hughes was retained by the Pennsylvania Railroad as an important member of its legal staff. He is well qualified to represent the Pennsylvania Railroad and, no doubt, will be of great value to them on appeals because of his vast public experience.

Another of Governor Martin's good friends who was appointed the same day as Judge Hughes is the present Judge Alexander Cooper, of Pittsburgh, who was named to the Common Pleas bench in Allegheny County to fill the vacancy created by the death of Judge Andrew T. Park. Previous thereto, Judge Cooper had been attorney for the General State Authority. Newspaper comment at that time was to the effect that the appointment of Cooper was effected "through George I. Bloom, Secretary to Governor Martin," and a mutual good friend and legal correspondent. It is understood that the Bloom law office in Washington County had considerable business with the Cooper law office in Allegheny County. I have heard it said that the Republican leadership of Allegheny County resented Mr. Bloom's invasion of their territory, but this can hardly be more than a rumor, for Governor Martin would certainly not let mere friendship interfere with practical politics.

Governor Martin is quite practical. As to judgeships he is eminently practical. For instance, the Orphans' Court of Allegheny County. In spite of the fact that Judge Edward C. Chalfant had retired and the Orphans' Court urgently needed a replacement, Governor Martin ignored the clamor of the newspapers and the public and waited month after month before finally appointing James Milholland to the vacancy. However, he made a point of naming Alexander C. Tener in the last week of December, 1943, to the vacancy in the same court created by the death of Judge H. Walton Mitchell. This was so Tener could be sworn in a few days before Judge Hugh C. Boyle, thus giving him seniority over Boyle, who had been elected by the people in November, 1943, defeating Martin's appointee, Judge Milholland, who had filled the Chalfant vacancy.

Governor Martin repeated this performance when he named Allegheny County's Common Pleas Court Judge, Heber Dithrich, to the Superior Court vacancy created by the resignation of Judge Charles W. Kenworthy, of Ardmore, Pa. Kenworthy was appointed by Governor Arthur James to a Superior Court judgeship in April of 1941. At that time, Kenworthy was a member of the Executive Committee of the Lower Merion Township Republican Club. He was elected to a full term that fall, but in 1944 he resigned to resume private practice with a Philadelphia law firm. It is well remembered that Kenworthy's resignation was purposely delayed so that the election of his successor by the people would not be included in the 1944 elections.

Governor Martin waited six months, but he did act before the end of the year 1944 so that when he named Judge Dithrich on December 29, 1944 he would have seniority over Superior Court Judge, F. Clair Ross, who had been elected by the people and would begin his term in January, 1945.

Judge Dithrich is an old line Republican judge. He was Chairman of the Regular Republican Campaign Committee in the famous Pepper-Fisher-Vare-Beidleman Primary election, when huge sums of money were spent so spectacularly that a United States Senate Committee held a sensational inquiry.

To the vacancy created by the resignation of Judge Dithrich from the Allegheny County Common Pleas bench, Governor Martin named William A. Challener, Sr., who, at seventy-eight years of age, is the oldest judge on the Allegheny Common Pleas bench. With this appointment there goes some more juggling of judgeships, because the present Judge Challener is not to be a candidate for re-election. He is merely a token appointment for a period of one year. The deal on this is for the present District Attorney of Allegheny County, Russell Adams, to be the candidate in the fall. If Adams does not win, he and the Republican Party still have the office of District Attorney. The Adams candidacy is the result of pressure brought upon Adams by Governor Martin and Secretary Bloom, the Washington County boys, after Adams had publicly stated that he would not be a candidate and would serve out his term as District Attorney. The other two candidates for the Common Pleas bench in Allegheny County are Judge Cooper and Judge Joseph A. Richardson.

The candidacy of Judge Richardson is occasion for reminding the members of this honorable body that the Democratic Party made a determined effort to take the Courts out of politics, and, at the same time, take the politics out of the Courts, but we were rebuffed by the Republican Party which very apparently wants no part of this movement. In 1943, we endorsed Republican Judge Lencher, Judge Rowand and Judge Trimble. And the Republican Party turned around and refused to endorse the sitting Democratic Judge, Michael A. Musmanno, and the late Judge Ralph H. Smith.

Perhaps this attitude stems from a disregard of the public will and interest. Perhaps it springs from a more compelling interest in the affairs of the public utilities and the railroads and other interests of this State who can gain handsome service from judges who feel they have an obligation to these private interests which is greater than their sworn duty and obligation to public welfare. I am not unaware that public utility appeals are heard in the main by the Superior Courts of this State. It seems to me that it might prove of some importance if counsel for the utilities or other interests were former members of that bench perhaps or if they should address individuals whose—let me say—broad understanding of the problems of the utilities companies were greater than those of Democratic extraction. I allege nothing. I simply am wondering aloud if there can be some practical politics of a not too savory nature behind the juggling of judgeships which goes on in this State. I think it might be well if this honorable body would look further into the matter in the interests of public welfare, and perhaps too, in behalf of that poor creature, Justice, whose blindness may yet prompt the Republican Party to proffer her a Republican seeing eye dog.

I wish to close by recalling the most graceless piece of judgeship juggling in the history of this State. I refer to the case of Arthur H. James, of Plymouth, Luzerne County, Pa.

Judge James was on the Superior Court bench when he won the Republican nomination for the governorship on May 17, 1938. In spite of public opinion and the canons of the Bar, he did not resign from the bench. In fact, he refused to do so. That is, until the famous inaugural scene of January 17, 1939, when he took the oath of office and then turned and said "With the oath I now resign as a Judge of the Superior Court of Pennsylvania."

Arthur James took no chances. Neither does Ed. Martin.

On March 8, 1939, Governor James named William E. Hirt, of Erie, Pa., to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Arthur H. James.

Governor James went out of Office in 1942, but on February 9, 1944, Martin named him to the Superior Court to fill the vacancy created by the death of Judge Joseph Stadtfeld, of Allegheny County. This appointment was made by the Governor, notwithstanding the fact that the American Bar Association denounced the poor ethics of Governor James a few years before. He was subsequently slated for a ten year term, but while he got the nomination, he was defeated when the Democratic candidates, Chester Rhodes and F. Claire Ross, defeated J. Frank Graff and our ex-Governor James.

I might add that, notwithstanding the fact that in 1939, the Democratic State Committee unanimously recommended the nomination for reelection of Judge William H. Keller, Republican, the judge jugglers refused to nominate on the Republican ticket Judge Chester H. Rhodes who had served ten years on the Superior Court bench with honor and distinction.

There are other cases throughout the history of Republican politics in this State. Judgeships are juggled openly. I am simply wondering today when the people are going to rise up and become indignant, as the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette says they would do. Or perhaps the people are kept too much in the dark about their judges. I think the newspapers of this State could do a magnificent job of enlightening the people about their courts, about what they do and especially about whom they serve.

The PRESIDENT. A little thought would convince anyone who considers the subject, that a person campaigning for judge can, during a campaign, be of little or great service to his state and party by the ideals and the principles he stands for. In the part of the state from which the Chair comes, which is different from Allegheny county, judges who were Republicans before they went on the Bench do not indulge in or practice politics on the Bench.

Mr. WALKER. May I say, Mr. President, that the remarks from the Chair incorporate part of the things I would like to say to the gentleman from Allegheny, who has delivered a very carefully prepared address, which he just read into the record in the Senate and, Mr. President, that is the kind of thing I do not like to hear, regardless of politics or regardless of which side of this Senate it might come from. It is one of those general blanket indictments which, like a Mother Hubbard apron, covers everything and touches nothing.

This is a deliberate attempt on the part of people who are deeply enmeshed in politics to run a campaign from the floor of the Senate, where the walls of this Senate Chamber can be used as a banking board for political philosophy and political propaganda.

The gentleman very carefully said "I allege nothing," and then he proceeded by a blanket indictment to attempt to point out that every judge in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania who, before taking his oath of office and ascending to the Bench, happened to belong to the Republican Party and, believing in the Republican philosophy of government, was per se unfit to sit on the Bench because he favored the Republican Party in his judicial determinations.

That is the gist of the indictment the gentleman just laid down, and I say it is unfair. If he has any specific instances of where judges on the benches in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania have not been true to their oaths of office and the canons and ethics of the Bench and Bar of Pennsylvania, he should lay them not before the newspapers of Pennsylvania but before the Senate, so that individual can be properly tried under the laws of the Commonwealth.

There are several fallacies in the indictment of the gentleman from Allegheny which I would like to bring to his attention. First, he mentioned the fact that the Lieutenant-Governor, when offered this appointment, said very carefully, "I can be of more service to my party as Lieutenant-Governor." I want to point out to the gentleman from Allegheny that the Lieutenant-Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is not appointed to that job, he is not annointed by God, he is elected by the people, and you do not get elected to any public office in Pennsylvania by turning your back on politics, and surely I do not for a second want to suggest that the Lieutenant-Governor refrains from politics before, during and after his tenure in office, and what the gentleman from Philadelphia, our esteemed Lieutenant-Governor, meant, was that once he takes that robe he withdraws from public and political life, and he is too busily involved with and feels a sense of responsibility for the welfare of the Commonwealth, and he feels that he can make a valuable contribution to the welfare of this Commonwealth by staying in public life, and it was not at all a supreme sacrifice.

That was not at all a supreme sacrifice, because the gentleman from Philadelphia, our Lieutenant-Governor, has a law practice that is respected, is admired and envied by every lawyer in Pennsylvania.

The gentleman from Allegheny also suggested that former Justice Hughes from Washington county, when defeated by one of the finest lawyers Allegheny County has ever produced, sought private employment. What lawyer, regardless of his prior position, would scorn an appointment of such a high nature as that given to former Justice Hughes? The gentleman has suggested that there was chicancery involved when the former Justice, having been defeated at the polls in 1944, sought private employment, and simply because he takes a position—not representing some governmental agency, as is the course of a lot of lame ducks who lose in Federal elections—but takes employment in private industry, he becomes a source of suspicion.

The gentleman suggested that perhaps there was skullduggery afoot when Alexander Cooper, who for years has been a reputable member of the Allegheny County Bar, was elevated to the Bench. If the gentleman from Allegheny has something specific on that point why does he not produce it? Why this innuendo or suspicion?

The gentleman suggested that Judge Milholland was appointed by Governor Edward Martin and it comes to my mind that Judge Milholland—and I am speaking strictly from a hazy memory—was appointed to the Bench by former Governor Arthur James and not by Governor Edward Martin, as suggested by the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Barr.

Again we have his innuendoes as to a former member of the Superior Court, Judge Kenworthy, who resigned to take a position with a very fine law firm in the City of Philadelphia.

The gentleman suggests there is something vile, something suspicious, something that we should investigate, but Mr. President, there is no specific charge, and these innuendo speeches that attempt to create suspicion in the minds of the public concerning any of the three branches of government I say are unfair and should be severely criticized in the hall of the Senate.

Any time any public official violates his oath of office, violates his responsibility, or violates the laws of this Commonwealth, those charges should be specifically made on this floor, and at any time the Republican Party will back up those charges and attempt to bring the violator to the Bar of Justice, but at no time will we ever deliberately subscribe to innuendoes that cast a veil of suspicion over decent, upright and honest citizens.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, I am fully aware of and cognizant of the fact that the candidate for whom we are about to cast our votes is a Republican; but notwithstanding that fact I know of other Republicans that Governor Martin could have appointed, and I know one especially who, in my opinion, is not an American, an individual who would not have performed his duties as I believe, and I think, and I know, John Arnold will, because I have known John Arnold for almost fifteen years in my travels throughout this state, and especially in Clearfield county, and I say to you, gentlemen, that I welcome this opportunity of casting my vote for the confirmation of John Arnold, because I know that if the Governor had made another appointment that I was thinking of, it would have been very unwise on the part of our Chief Executive.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, as usual, the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Walker, waves a flag and makes a typical Walker Republican speech. I think that I should provide him, first of all, with a copy of my speech, because I named dates and I named judges; I did not allege anything, I gave facts. It was in regard to one paragraph about the Superior Court in which I said I alleged nothing and that was the only time, Mr. Walker, that I said I alleged nothing.

The gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Walker, was speaking about Judge Hughes. I would like to say that Judge Hughes has been a personal friend of mine, long before he ever knew Mr. Walker, and if the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Walker, will read the speech I just made he will see my words contained nothing but praise for Judge Hughes.

So, Mr. President, I will ask one of the page boys to deliver a copy of my speech to Senator Walker so that he will know what is in the speech.

And the question recurring,

BILLS ON THIRD READING AMENDED

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 315, entitled:

An Act to further amend the act approved the seventeenth day of May one thousand nine hundred seventeen (P. L. 208) entitled "An act to regulate the practice of pharmacy and sale of poisons and drugs and providing penalties for the violation thereof defining the words 'drug' and 'poison' and providing for the appointment of a board which shall have in charge the enforcement of said law and the power to make rules and regulations for the enforcement of said law and providing for the purchase of samples of drugs for determining their quality strength and purity" providing that persons who have served as registered assistant pharmacists for ten years or longer shall be qualified for examination as pharmacists

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. CARR. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Butler, Senator Carr.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Butler permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CARR. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I rise not to object but at least to know what these amendments will do?

Mr. CARR. Mr. President, these amendments restore the bill to the same status it was in when it came from the House, removing the Kephart amendments.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, this is a dangerous piece of legislation. I do not like to retard the machinery of this part of the Legislature, but I have received scores of telephone calls from druggists all over Philadelphia who object to this bill, either with amendment or without amendment, because they claim, and I also feel, that it opens the back door to lowering the standards of a profession which should be kept at a high level.

I have received requests, and the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Farrell, also has received requests, that there at least should be a public hearing on such a controversial issue, and in consideration of the fact that on Wednesday evening, April 4, there will be a hearing regarding optometrists and doctors, on which measures not as many opposing voices have been heard, I feel that these eleven hundred druggists who have been polled in Philadelphia by the Pennsylvania Pharmaceutical Assaciation and the American Pharmaceutical Association, composed of outstanding pharmacists of America who are opposed to this, should at least be heard, and that the proponents of this measure also be heard, and then we could withdraw to our committee meeting and decide what to do with the bill.

Mr. President, this is a very dangerous step, because a pharmacist, in order to be registered, must complete four years of college and a qualified assistant only qualify as an assistant on the basis that he was a student in a recognized college and then left school for some reason or other. Today we are faced with the proposition where men who have not completed college courses want to avoid the statutory act under which the right to become a registered pharmacist can only be acquired by putting in four years in college.

I just offer these comments for consideration, as I do not intend to battle it out with any members of the Senate, but I feel it is no more than fair that on a controversial issue such as this at least both sides should be in a position to explain the stand they take.

The PRESIDENT. Does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator DiSilvestro, object to consideration of the amendments at this time?

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. I just wanted to make an explanation, Mr. President; I do not want to object to the amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 1), page 2, line 26, by striking out the dark face bracket after the word "accordance"; Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 1), page 3, line 1, by striking out the dark face bracket before the word "with"; Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 3), page 3, line 27, by striking out the dark face bracket after the word "therein"; Amend Sec. 1, page 3, line 28, by striking out the dark face brackets before and after the figure "2," and striking out the figure "1"; Amend Sec. 1, page 3, line 28, by striking out the dark face brackets before and after the word "said"; Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 4), page 5, line 26, by inserting a light face bracket before the word "Every"; Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 4), page 6, line 10, by inserting a light face bracket after the word "year"; Amend Sec. 3, page 6, line 11, by striking out the dark face bracket before the word "Section"; Amend Sec. 3 (Sec. 5), page 6, line 28, by striking out the dark face bracket after the word "passed"; Amend Sec. 3 (Sec. 5), page 7, line 1, by striking out the dark face bracket before the word "[Each"; Amend Sec. 3 (Sec. 5), page 7, line 28, by striking out the dark face bracket after the word "fee"; Amend Sec. 3 (Sec. 8), page 8, line 1, by striking out the dark face bracket before the word "Section"; Amend Sec. 3 (Sec. 8), page 8, line 11, by striking out the dark face bracket after the word "prosecution."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing on final passage.

Agreeable to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 342, as follows:

An Act to amend section two hundred thirty-two of the act approved the second day of May one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 414, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to provide protection in all cases secured or to be secured by individual surety or sureties in courts of record or proceedings therein by specifying the requirements of such suretyship and the qualifications of such surety be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General, solely for the purpose of further study.

Mr. SNOWDEN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I know anything I have to say is not going to save this bill—I am sure of that—but I have a few things I do want to tell the members of the Senate, as I think some of the Senators probably do not understand what we are trying to do by this bill.

First of all, most of the qualifications of surety provided in this bill are now a part of the routine proceedure in the Orphans' Courts in Allegheny and Philadelphia counties.

This bill does nothing more than make the personal bond a good bond.

It is particularly important at this time for the protection of Veterans and their dependents. In many instances where it is necessary that an administrator or a guardian be appointed, such administrator or guardian may desire to give personal surety. Under the terms of this bill, personal surety will be acceptable if the justification of surety indicates that the personal surety is thoroughly responsible.

This bill does not eliminate personal surety bonds or any other right heretofore enjoyed by the citizens of this State. It serves only as a safeguard to protect the interests of minors, incompetents and other beneficiaries in Court Proceedings. It provides that persons acting as Personal Surety in certain cases give an explanation of their financial ability to justify their acceptance as Surety.

The purpose of this bill is to guarantee in so far as possible, to the unfortunate minor, incompetent, or other beneficiaries in a proceeding where Personal Surety Bond is filed, that no loss will be suffered in the event the guardian or other fiduciary either knowingly or otherwise, violates the duties imposed on him by law.

Mr. President, I see no reason why this bill should have to be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General for further study and I ask that the members of the Senate vote on the bill; if they want to kill the bill, let it be killed on the floor and not killed in committee. This is a lot of dipsy-doodling, sending this bill back to committee.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Barr, and I always see eye to eye on things, and once more we are going down to defeat together. I am voting "no" on this motion to recommit Senate Bill No. 414. I might say to my co-sponsor, of whom I am very fond, that I am afraid we are just a little too advanced in some of our legislative thought and perhaps in 1947 or 1949 we might be able to convince the then Senate to adopt this bill.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I ask for a roll call.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BARR ond were as follows, viz:

YEAS—27

Becker,	Ealy,	Mallery,	Troutman,
Berger,	Edmonds,	Scarlett,	Tyler,
Blass,	Farrell,	Snowden,	Wade,
Bowers,	Geltz,	Stevenson,	Wagner,

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 420, as follows:

An Act to amend the act approved the twelfth day of May one thousand nine hundred forty-three (P. L. 259) entitled "An act providing for the payment by the State Treasurer of one-half of the amount of the tax on premiums paid by foreign casualty insurance companies to the treasurers of the several cities boroughs towns and townships and for the payment thereof into police pension funds and in certain cases into the Municipal Employes Retirement System and in certain other cases into the State Employes' Retirement Fund for certain purposes" by providing for allocation and distribution of such moneys and further prescribing their use

Section 1 Section one of the act approved the twelfth day of May one thousand nine hundred forty-three (P. L. 259) entitled "An act providing for the payment by the State Treasurer of one-half of the amount of the tax on premiums paid by foreign casualty insurance companies to the treasurers of the several cities boroughs towns and townships and for the payment thereof into police pension funds and in certain cases into the Municipal Employes' Retirement System and in certain other cases into the State Employes' Retirement Fund for certain purposes" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 1 As used in this act the term Municipality means a city borough town or township

Participating Municipality means a municipality in which provision is made through a Municipal Employes' Retirement Fund a Police Pension or Retirement Fund or a Pension Annuity Contract for the payment of pension retirement or disability benefits to the policemen employed by such municipality or to the dependents of such policemen

Municipal Employes' Retirement Fund means any pension or retirement fund established by a municipality to provide pension retirement or disability benefits to the policemen employed by such municipality or to dependents of such policemen including components of the retirement system provided for by the act approved the fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred forty-three (P. L. 886) and amendments thereto

Number of Policemen whether of a participating municipality or of the Pennsylvania State Police means the average number of policemen employed by any such municipality or in the Pennsylvania State Police as the case may be during the year preceding the receipt of the tax by the Commonwealth

Policeman means a full time paid policeman or policewoman

On and after the first day of January one thousand nine hundred and forty-four and annually thereafter there shall be paid by the State Treasurer to the treasurers of the several [cities townships towns and boroughs] municipalities within the Commonwealth and to the State Employes' Retirement Fund for State police pension and retirement purposes one-half of the net amount received from the two per centum tax paid upon premiums by foreign casualty insurance companies [The amount to be paid to each of the treasurer of the several cities townships towns and boroughs shall be based upon the return of said two per centum tax upon premiums received from foreign casualty insurance companies doing business within the said cities townships towns and boroughs as shown by the report made to the Department of Revenue Each city borough town or township receiving any payment from the State Treasurer hereunder shall forthwith pay the amount received into the police pension fund of such city borough town or township where such police pension fund exists or is hereafter established if the said police pension fund is duly recognized as such by the council commissioners or supervisors as the case may be of such city borough town or township In any city borough town or township where the police elect to joint the Municipal Employes' Retirement System created or hereafter created by law the amount received by the treasurer of the city borough town or township as hereinbefore provided shall be paid into the Municipal Employes' Retirement Fund and shall be credited to the municipal account of said fund for the benefit of the police of said city borough town or township who are members of said Municipal Employes' Retirement System In any city borough town or township in which there is no police pension fund or in which city borough town or township the police have not elected to join any such Municipal Employes' Retirement System the amount received by the treasurer of the city borough town or township from said tax shall be forthwith paid into the State Employes' Retirement Fund and shall be credited to the accumulated deductions of members of the Pennsylvania State Police in proportion to the respective amounts contributed by such members during the period said tax was collected] The amounts to be distributed shall be allocated in accordance with the following formulae

Formula 1 Divide the total amount of said tax available for distribution by the population of the Commonwealth as shown by the last preceding decennial census of the United States to determine a quotient Multiply this quotient by the population of each participating municipality to determine the amount payable to the treasurer of such municipality under Formula 1

Formula 2 Add the amounts payable to the treasurers of the participating municipalities under Formula 1 and divide the total by the number of policemen in all the said municipalities to determine a quotient Multiply this quotient by the number of Pennsylvania State Police to determine the amount payable to the State Employes' Retirement Fund under Formula 2

Formula 3 Divide the balance of the tax available for distribution not allocated under Formulae 1 and 2 by the total number of policemen of the participating municipalities and the Pennsylvania State Police to determine a quotient Multiply this quotient by the number of policemen of each participating municipality to determine the amount payable to the treasurer of such municipality under Formula 3 Multiply this same quotient by the number of State Police to determine the amount payable to the State Employes' Retirement Fund under Formula 3

The following formulae illustrate the application of the foregoing methods of calculation wherein

"a" shall mean the total amount of tax for allocation
"b" shall mean the population of the Commonwealth
"c" shall mean the population of any municipality
"d" shall mean an amount payable to any municipal treasurer under Formula 1

"d1" shall mean total of amounts payable to all municipal treasurers under Formula 1
"e" shall mean number of policemen in all participating municipalities
"f" shall mean number of State police
"g" shall mean an amount payable to the State Retirement Fund under Formula 2
"h" shall mean number of policemen in any participating municipality
"i" shall mean an amount payable to any municipal treasurer under Formula 3
"i1" shall mean total of accounts payable to all municipal treasurers under Formula 3
"k" shall mean an amount payable to the State Retirement Fund under Formula 3

1. $\frac{a}{b} \times c = d$

$$2.\ \frac{\frac{d1}{e}}{} \times f = g$$

$$3.\ \frac{a - (d1 + g)}{e + f} \times h = i$$

$$\frac{a - (d1 + g)}{e + f} \times f = k$$

To prove d1 + g + i1 + k = a

All moneys paid to the treasurer of any municipality shall be forthwith paid or credited to the pension or retirement fund or the premium on the pension annuity contract as the case may be to provide pension retirement or disability benefits for the policemen of such municipality or the dependents of such policemen All moneys paid into the State Employes' Retirement Fund shall be credited in equal proportions to the accumulated deductions of the members of the State Police who are contributing members to such fund

The first allocation made under the provisions of this act shall include all moneys accumulated from the said one-half of the tax paid on premiums by foreign casualty insurance companies since the passage of the act to which this is an amendment

Warrants for the above purposes shall be drawn by the Auditor General payable to the treasurers of the several [cities townships towns and boroughs] participating municipalities and to the State Employes' Retirement Fund in accordance with this act [whenever there are sufficient funds in the State Treasury to pay the same]

Section 2 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, at first glance I was very much opposed to this bill—and I think I am yet. I have tried to read it and I can not understand it. It is a case of not seeing the forest on account of trees.

For years I did what I could to oppose the firemen's relief fund, which I considered a raid upon the treasury. They raided the two per cent premium on fire insurance companies and have for many years for their benefit. They spent it in any way they liked and sometimes it is not used at all.

This may be somewhat different, but it struck me that the policemen had learned from the firemen that there is another fund of a two per cent tax on premiums of casualty company insurance that they can raid—that makes number two—and there is still quite a field in insurance premiums open to anybody who wants to raid the treasury.

Therefore I am explaining why I am voting "no."

Also I would like to say that anybody who tries to read this bill will certainly get a headache and I would like to read one paragraph at the bottom of page 5:

"Formula 3 Divide the balance of the tax available for distribution not allocated under Formulae 1 and 2 by the total number of policemen of the participating municipalities and the Pennsylvania State Police to determine a quotient Multiply this quotient by the number of policemen of each participating municipality to determine the amount payable to the treasurer of such municipality under Formula 3 Multiply this same quotient."—

I am simply explaining my vote "no," because I do understand this bill.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?
